NEGRO MASSACRE BY MOBS

REVENUE BILL HARD BLOW TO WAR PROFITS

Senate Asked to Put Heavy Levy on Excess Gain.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—The revised war tax bill, raising revenue aggregating $1,670,000,000—a reduction of $130,000,000 from the house bill—was completed by the senate finance committee tonight.

The committee voted, 12 to 3, to report the bill to the senate tomorrow, Senators Thomas and Gore, Democrats, and La Follette, Republican, constituting the minority.

By the same vote the committee rejected a substitute offered by Senator La Follette proposing to raise all of the taxes from excess profits, incomes, liquor, and tobacco.

TAX ON WAR PROFITS.

The most important departure from the house bill is the provision for the taxation of the war profits of corporations, partnerships, and individuals. The committee today increased this tax so as to yield an additional $18,000,000 and an aggregate of $523,000,000.

The war profits tax is to be imposed only on corporations, partnerships, and individuals whose net income is $5,000 or more. The war profits are to be determined by deducting the average net income for 1911, 1912, and 1913 from the net income for 1917 and succeeding taxable years.

EXCESS PROFITS PROGRAM.

In the senate bill the war profits tax is denominated an excess profits tax. The essential portions of this section of the bill follow:

"That, in addition to taxes under existing law and under this act, there shall be paid for each taxable year upon the income of every corporation, partnership, or individual a tax equal to the following percentages of the excess profits (determined as hereinafter provided):

"Twelve per centum of the amount of such excess profits, not in excess of 15 per cent of the deduction allowed by section 203, section 204, or section 205, as the case may be;

EIGHTEEN 16 PER CENT.

"Sixteen per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 15 per centum of such deduction and do not exceed 20 per centum thereof;

"Twenty per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 20 per centum of such deduction and do not exceed 30 per centum thereof;

"Twenty-five per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 30 per centum and not exceed 75 per centum thereof;

"Thirty per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 75 per centum and do not exceed 100 per centum thereof;

THIRTY-FIVE PERCENTUM.

"Thirty-five per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 100 per centum and do not exceed 150 per centum thereof;

"Forty per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 150 per centum and do not exceed 200 per centum thereof;

"Forty-five per centum of the amount by which such excess profits exceed 200 per centum and do not exceed 250 per centum thereof;

THOSE WHO ARE EXEMPT.

The law exempts "an office or employment, including that of a commercial traveler or agent, whose remuneration consists wholly of a fixed and definite sum," and "a profession the profits of which depend mainly on the personal qualifications of individuals by whom such profession is carried on and in which there is not required investment of more than a nominal capital."

The tax will not be imposed on any concern with a net income of less than $5,000 a year.

The excess profits shall be dapided upon "by deducting from the net income of the trade or business received during the taxable year the average amount of the annual net income of the trade or business during the prewar period."

DEALS WITH NEW CONCERNS.

Dealing with new corporations, it provides:

"If a corporation or partnership was not in existence prior to Jan. 2, 1911, the amount of the excess profits shall

Are to Be Transferred to a Training Point Back of Line.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

(Special Cable to Chicago Tribune.)

AMERICAN SEA BASE, via Paris, July 2.—Within ten days the United States army in France will be located at a training camp less than 100 miles back of the front, where, on still summer nights, will come the long roll of distant cannon.

The transfer will represent a moving up step, which will bring the men just one degree nearer the big day—the day on which Uncle Sam actually takes over a slice of the front and relieves an equal number of Frenchmen who have been in the trenches almost three years.

This information is reaching most of the officers of the division and is accepted with great enthusiasm and a manifestation of keen desire to speed up the training as much as possible, and, if possible, hasten the day when the first division proudly takes its place on the firing line.

Anxious to Be the First.

The first division men, jealous of their distinction, are somewhat moved by the fear that some subsequent organization arriving after them may graduate from the training camps first and beat them to the coveted prize.

The clockwork procedure of affairs at the sea base is undisturbed by the fact that today is a big event with the men. It is pay day, and American soldiers are learning things about the French monetary system. The lowest paid buck private receives over 200 francs and the lowest "grand" commissioned officer receives more than 1,000 francs. Moreover, they are to receive similar sums monthly.

This is the way it figures out: The enlisted man's pay, $30 a month, plus 25, or 20 per cent increase, for foreign services, brings his total to $36, which equals 205 francs and 30 centimes in French money. Many men who have been long in the service increase this sum from 10 to 100 francs through bonuses from certificates of merit as marksmen, sharpshooters, expert riflemen, or extra service men.

Paid in French Money.

The pay for officers and men is made out in United States treasury checks, which are exchanged through special arrangement with the Banque de France at a flat rate of 5 francs and 70 centimes for each dollar. Distributing officers make the exchange and the men are paid in French money. Two hundred francs, when it is remembered that each franc contains 100 centimes, is a comfortable $40 in the pants pocket of a regular, all of whose other expenses are paid.

"One pay day gives a man a roll that looks like a regimental mess of spinach before cooking," said one recruit.

Despite the rain of the last few days, the spirits of the men are the finest and their reception at the hands of the townspeople continues unreserved.

Learning the Language.

There is a great demand for English-French dictionaries, as the enlisted men manifest a determination to grab the lingo. It is not unusual to see groups of three or four soldiers around a cafe table committing murderous assaults on French pronunciation, as they seek from dictionaries with the assistance of the waiters.

The townspeople are returning the compliment by picking up English phrases, in which effort the town children have shown remarkable progress

RUSSIANS LED BY KERENSKY IN NEW OFFENSIVE

PETROGRAD, July 2.—The Russian advance, the news of which has sent a wave of rejoicing through the entire country, was led by War Minister Kerensky in person.

For the last four days the war minister has been continuously at the front, expending every effort to urge the troops to advance. He finally rode to the front line trenches and, placing himself at the head of the troops, gave the order to advance.

The spectacle of the popular war minister on the firing line accomplished what oratory had failed to do, and the Russian line swept forward into the German trenches.

REPORTS BEGINNING OF DRIVE.

In a message to Premier Lvoff today, Minister of War Kerensky declared that the Russian revolutionary army started the offensive against Germany yesterday.

In his message to the premier, he said:

"On July 1 the army of revolutionary Russia took the offensive with great enthusiasm. The offensive proved to Russia and the entire world its fidelity to the revolution and its love for liberty and country. Ignoring the small groups of cowardly spoils, the free Russian soldiers are consolidating by their offensive a new discipline based on the sentiment of civic duty.

"Whatever may happen, this puts an end to all slanderous attacks against the democratic Russian army. I beg of you to authorize me to hand to the regiments which participated in the fighting on July 1 red revolutionary flags and to give to them the name 'Regiments July First.'"

Premier Lvoff granted the requests.

APPEAL TO ALL RUSSIA.

Immediately after telegraphing the premier War Minister Kerensky issued an appeal to all the Russian armies to take the offensive. He says that Austria and Germany have replied to Russia's appeal to all democracies in favor of peace by the dishonorable proposal that Russia should conclude a separate peace, which would enable them to crush Russia's western allies.

In Russia's rejection of the proposal the enemy, says the war minister, threatened an offensive against Russia, and the freedom of the country and the revolution itself were in danger. The appeal concludes:

"Every day's delay strengthens the enemy. That is why we appeal to our armies to take the offensive. Let all the world know that it was not from weakness that we talked of peace. Let it be known that liberty increases our military strength. All Russia will bless your exploits in behalf of liberty, your country's future, and an honorable and lasting peace."

DECISIVE BATTLE ON.

"Our army on the southwestern front has vanquished the enemy and broken his lines. A decisive battle has begun, on which depends the fate of the liberty of the Russian people.

"Our brothers on the southwestern front are advancing victoriously.

"They expect assistance from us. We shall not be traitors; the enemy shall hear the thunder of our guns."

NETS 10,000 GERMAN CAPTIVES.

The offensive, led by the war minister, in two days has netted the revolutionary army 10,000 prisoners, the village of Konuchy, and strongly fortified positions southwest of Brzesany, in eastern Galicia.

The Russian artillery, long inactive from lack of shells, played an important part in the defeat of the Austro-Germans at Konuchy. For two days a rain of iron was thrown into the German positions. The Russians not only carried three lines of German trenches and Konuchy, which was strongly fortified, but also advanced to the Konuchy stream, south of the village, which is on the Elota Lipa river.

Around Brzesany the fighting was most bitter.

U. S. KNEW OF DRIVE PLANS.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Russian War Minister Kerensky informed the United States three weeks ago that a big Russian offensive would take place in the first part of July. Secretary Lansing stated this morning that the Russian successes were pleasing and indicated that Kerensky had succeeded in his big task of reorganizing the Russian army.

GIVES HIS LIFE FOR ANOTHER ON GREAT DESERT

Los Angeles, Cal., July 2.—[Special.]—While seeking to save another from death J. H. Richards, a Salt Lake City mining man, gave up his life in the Colorado desert, north of Needles.

Caught in a terrific heat "blanket" while looking at mining properties, Richards volunteered to stay behind with D. F. Watson, an aged Las Vegas miner, who could not keep up with the remainder of the party. When, however, rescuers carrying water found the pair in the desert Richards was dead and Watson was exhausted and unable to talk.

Richards had refused to drink from the canteen that held the last drops of water, thinking he was strong enough to survive the heat and thirst. Watson poured the last of the water into his mouth as he died.

Richards' body was sent to Salt Lake City. He leaves a wife, two small children and a sister.

YOUNG EMPEROR OF CHINA SEIZES PEKING PALACE

Army Chiefs Guard Him; Coup d'Etat Stirs Washington.

TIEN TSIN, July 2.—Hsuan Tung, the young emperor, according to reports from Peking today, has taken possession of the palace occupied by President Li Yuan Hung and is surrounded by prominent military leaders.

A demand was made on President Li that he resign in favor of Hsuan Tung. The president replied he would resign in favor of the vice president, as he was unable to resign in favor of the emperor.

Telegraph and telephone offices are closely guarded, and telegrams cannot be sent to Peking.

SHOCK TO WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Gen. Chang Hsun's sudden coup d'état to destroy republicanism in China and restore the Manchu dynasty has produced a discouraging shock among officials here, who believed China's internal troubles were at an end.

Open civil war is feared between Chang Hsun's followers and the Manchu supporters on the one hand and the northern republicans and the united south on the other. The northern military leaders, whose attitude is not clear, are considered to hold the balance of power, for it is felt that if they join Chang Hsun he will be able to secure control of north China and then perhaps subdue the south.

His Lone Hand Wins.

Official dispatches show that Chang Hsun, instead of having cast his lot with the other military leaders in the Tien Tsin revolutionary government, has been playing for years a lone hand of adventure. Military governor of Anhwei province, he posed as a semi-independent leader maintaining the Manchu tradition.

With soldiers still wearing the cue he had taken off from both parties and built up a reputation for severity, which in one case, at Nanking, precipitated an international episode with Japan.

When the recent military secessionist movement was launched Chang Hsun was invited by the military leaders to join them at Tien Tsin, but he chose not to do so.

President Li then invited him to Peking to mediate between the two forces. He approached the capital, sent in an ultimatum forcing dissolution of parliament, and just as the military governors on the one hand and the republicans and the constitutionalists on the other were coming together sprung his monarchical coup d'état.

WINTER DIRECTS OWN FUNERAL SERVICE TODAY

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Many of the most prominent men known to the stage will tomorrow afternoon meet at Frank C. Campbell's undertaking establishment, Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, to carry out faithfully the funeral services of William Winter, just as he planned them. The famous critic, poet, and author arranged every item for his last tribute, with attention to minute detail and with the art of a dramatist writing the directions for the stage setting of a great last scene.

The directions for the funeral were given in a letter. It directed that when the body was brought into the chapel the coffin should be placed in the rear—not in front—of the auditorium. Then eight men, headed by David Belasco, Daniel Frohman, and Dr. Henry Van Dyke, are to enter from a side room and pass the coffin. When they have done so the regular pallbearers will take the coffin and follow to the front of the chapel, where the coffin will be placed.

When the coffin has been borne to the front it is the will of the critic that his eight friends shall sit in a semi-circle about it while Walter W. Price, a broker who was his dear friend, reads to them the thanatopsis penned by the hand of the man whose memory they honor.

This letter was delivered to Mr. Price sealed. David Bispham will sing "Crossing the Bar." As the processional marches Handel's "Largo" will be played, and for a recessional Handel's "Dead March" from "Saul" will be given. Then the body will be taken to Linden, N. J., for cremation.

RIFLES AND TORCH USED IN EAST ST. LOUIS RIOTS

Dead May Number 75; Women, Girls Aid Lynchers.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 2.—(Special.)—With the city under martial law and the Negro quarter a flaming shambles, East St. Louis tonight contemplated the close of a day of riot that raged over the city and then wound up the night in an orgy of torch and gun.

Estimates of the number killed run all the way from twenty to seventy-five. Militia officers place the total at the smaller number. The higher is based on reports that many bodies lie in the blazing wreckage of the Negro quarter of the city. Three of the known dead were white men.

PROPERTY LOSS HUGE

The property loss has been roughly estimated at $3,000,000, but this is regarded as extravagant. Whole blocks of Negro habitations were burned and their occupants shot down as they sought safety in flight.

Col. S. O. Tripp, in command of the military, said he would have twenty-three companies on the ground tomorrow. Adjt. Gen. Dickson is rushing from Springfield to take command.

NEGROES FLEE FROM CITY

At midnight clouds of smoke rolled over the city from the burning houses of the Negroes. In the light of the flames that flared high from the blazing ruins hordes of Negroes, men, women, and children, bearing their little belongings at their backs, streamed over the bridges into Missouri.

More than 20,000 Negroes were thrown into terror when the rioters, in resentment of alleged colonization of Negroes here, turned to a general slaughter. Neither the aged nor the women and children were spared.

WOMEN AND GIRLS RIOT

Throughout the day of bloodshed undertakers' wagons were kept waiting at the curbs for the emergency calls that came every minute.

White women and girls joined, shrieking in the pandemonium, mounting street cars, and dragging forth Negro women to be cudgeled by the mobs in the streets.

CARS STOP; BARS CLOSE

Street car service, almost demoralized during the day, was closed down at 7 o'clock. The saloons were closed at 2 in the afternoon by the order of Mayor Mollman.

It is estimated that 5,000 persons participated in the riots that laughed at law, brushed aside the soldiers, and shot down Negroes in the streets. While the entire day had been wild with disorder, it was not until sundown that the frenzy of the rioters seemed to mount to the extremes of violence.

There was a spell of calm just before 8 o'clock. The soldiers, being under civil authority, had been ordered not to shoot. This resulted in some sixteen rifles being taken forcibly from soldiers. A few small clashes took place in the business district.

RAID RIVER "BOTTOMS."

During the afternoon troops had been busily hauling automobile truck loads of Negroes into St. Louis. The diminishing number of victims seemed to arouse the mobs to new devices. Most of the Negroes went to their homes in the Negro quarter, a narrow strip of "bottoms" along the Mississippi and to the west of the city proper.

A cordon of soldiers and police had been thrown about the quarter. During the day nothing of moment took place. In the evening, however, the business district being well cleared of the blacks, the leaders of the mobs began anew with inflammatory speeches directing the attention of their followers to the quarter.

TROOPS BRUSHED ASIDE.

"Drive 'em out!" became the cry, and with this the small, aimless mobs that had been terrorizing the main portion of the town formed a compact mass and drove on the Negro quarter.

Soldiers and police were brushed aside. Torches sprang from nowhere, and in a moment the first cooling breezes of the Mississippi fanned into being a conflagration that burst over whole areas.

Soon after 6 o'clock smoke was visible on the Missouri side, and in a short time the flames shot into the sky, illuminating the whole river and the city.

SHOOT DOWN FUGITIVES.

The swish of flames grew into a mighty torrent and mingled with the yells of the rioters, who applied their torches again and again. Great crowds lined the outer edges of the quarter and ran about the houses. Men with rifles and revolvers shot

DEAD: 20 OR 22; CAPITAL REPORT

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—(Spl.)—At 12:15 o'clock this morning, Col. R. J. Shand, assistant adjutant general, received a long distance telephone report from Col. S. O. Tripp, assistant quartermaster general, at East St. Louis, that the fires were dying down and that the situation was under control. Col. Tripp's estimate at that time was that eighteen or twenty Negroes and two white men had been killed. He had no estimate of the number of injured. Five hundred prisoners, white and black, were in jail. The troops had not fired into any mobs. Twelve companies of troops had arrived and were patrolling the streets and the adjutant general's office was advised that there was no need for additional troops.

TWELVE COMPANIES I. N. G. ON DUTY AT RIOT CITY

Twelve companies of the Illinois national guard were on duty in East St. Louis before daylight this morning. Ten companies were from the Fourth infantry and two from the Third infantry.

Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Dickson arrived in Chicago yesterday morning from Washington and got to Springfield at 5 p. m. He took a special train for East St. Louis from Springfield at 7:10 p. m. o assume personal command of all of the troops, representing Gov. Lowden.

Six companies were ordered to East St. Louis at 4:45 o'clock yesterday morning by Assistant Adjt. Gen. Richings J. Shand after Mayor Mollman had made the official requisition upon Gov. Lowden for troops. These companies—all of the Fourth infantry—were:

B of Newton. G of Effingham.
E of Carbondale. H of Shelbyville.
F of Benton. I of Vandalia.

Late yesterday afternoon, after the rioting had broken out afresh, these companies were ordered to the scene:

FOURTH INFANTRY.
A of Casey. D of Paris.
C of Sullivan. L of Olney.
THIRD INFANTRY.
F of Pontiac. K of Kankakee.

Maj. William Klauser of Shelbyville was in command of the first detachments sent in, and Col. S. O. Tripp, assistant quartermaster general, represented Gov. Lowden prior to the arrival of Adjt. Gen. Dickson.

down the Negroes as they ran from their blazing dwellings.

When it became apparent that the local fire department could no longer combat the flames a call for help was sent to St. Louis, and response was made with several pieces of apparatus. The flames spread to parts of the city not occupied by Negroes, the Broadway theater, valued at $100,000, being burned.

THREAT BY OUTSIDE NEGROES.

At 11 o'clock another fire started in the extreme northern portion of the quarter. A smaller mob entered there looking for Negroes. Shooting and assaults followed. This new fire lighted up the northern part of the city into a brilliant midnight spectacle.

A new menace appeared. Brooklyn, Ill., a town composed almost entirely of Negroes, lying to the north of East St. Louis, was reported to be in uprising and that a body of Negroes was marching on East St. Louis.

Col. Tripp instantly sent a truck load of guardsmen to the "Black bridge" to cut off any such movement.

REFUGEES IN CITY HALL.

Aided by the soldiers, more than 5,000 Negroes escaped from their burning homes to various buildings downtown, and were there quartered for the night. The city hall and police and fire stations were turned into temporary quarters.

Terror spread among those in the municipal building when at 10:30 the lights suddenly were extinguished. The Negroes screamed in terror, believing this was a new plan to murder them wholesale. In a moment the lights returned; there had been a slight accident to the electrical machinery.

The bridges from St. Louis became congested with a steady stream of persons coming from the Missouri side to witness the terror. Then the police closed both entrances to the bridges and the crowds could only stand at a distance and gaze upon the clouds of smoke that rolled from the charred ruins in the Negro quarter.

SCATTER MOB WITH BAYONET.

Everywhere the soldiers were in evidence. Around 8:30 in the burning quarter a mob of 300 armed men rushed in. Every man bore a torch and was prepared to spread further waste. Two hundred guardsmen with fixed bayonets bore down upon them and dispersed the rioters.

More than 500 persons were placed under arrest. The jails were filled and it became necessary to establish military "detention camps" under military guard. A battle started between blacks and whites at the entrance to the St. Louis municipal bridge, and this was stopped by soldiers. Thomas Moore of Granite City was killed there by a stray bullet.

ONE SAVED FROM LYNCHING.

As the soldiers warmed to their work more vim was put into their efforts. They appeared just in time in front of a drug store in Broadway where a crowd of seventy-five had captured a Negro and was on the point of stringing him to a post. Troops stood at all corners and kept the crowds moving, although these, for the most part, were merely bent on sightseeing.

Bloodthirsty after the day's work, the rioters took a ghoulish amusement in the attempted lynching of one Negro. Two white men tied a rope about the neck of a black. He was swung into the air. The rope broke and the Negro fell to the ground amid the boisterous laughter of the lynchers. When they returned to their task of lynching the Negro they found he had been killed by the fall to the pavement.

AGE DOES NOT SAVE HIM.

Three Negroes in trying to escape from a burning house were spied by a group of riters. These laughed and hanged one of the blacks to a telephone pole and shot the other two.

An aged Negro was strung up to a pole at Fourth and Boden streets. The end of the rope was tied off and he was left. Soldiers cut the rope in time to save him. Another aged black, who was being dragged over the cobblestones at the end of a rope, was rescued.

Two white girls boarded a street car and dragged a Negress to the street. A crowd of men standing by set up a cheer. When the Negress tried to break away one of the white girls removed a shoe and pounded her over the head with it. At this there was a salvo of applause from the crowd.

TURN BACK SIGHTSEERS.

Late in the evening orders were issued closing the bridges to all persons. Streams of automobiles filled the roadways in all directions. These were turned back.

Far into the night the exodus of Negroes continued. And as they made their way wearily out of the city of disaster they now and again glanced back over their shoulders to the smoking pyres of their fellows.

NEGROES PLANNED UPRISING?

The rioting began long before sunrise today. There had been grumblings of discontent in the Negro quarter since the uprisings of May 28, in which a number of whites and blacks were wounded. Continued ill feeling against the influx of Negroes, expressed by labor leaders, was the immediate cause of the May riots, according to those informed, and the Negroes have smarted under the punishment dealt them.

It has been said that Negro leaders planned an uprising for this morning, but this is denied by C. W. Wallace, editor of a Negro publication, who declares that a party of joy riders returning from St. Louis fanned the ill feeling into flame when they fired into the homes of Negroes here.

NEGRO CHURCH BELLS RING.

At all events, the Negro district and the neighborhoods adjoining were aroused by the ringing of the bell in the Negro church tower. In a few moments more than 400 Negroes had gathered at this summons. Most of them were armed, and they began a march into the business district.

Their leaders have explained that they formed merely for protection, fearing a return of the joy riders.

But in the meantime a call reached Chief of Police Hickey, and he ordered Detective Sergt. Coppedge and three other detectives to disperse the gathering. Coppedge drove into the Negro quarter, and as he turned a corner the lights of the automobile were thrown full upon the menacing mob.

SHOOT DOWN POLICEMEN.

Coppedge halted his car.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded. "Go home."

"Git on along," was the reply.

"We are police officers and we want order maintained," returned Coppedge. As he spoke there was a volley of shots. Coppedge was killed and three policemen in plain clothes, who were with him, were seriously hurt.

CALL FOR STATE TROOPS.

The mob of Negroes then started to run. When the report of the shooting reached Chief Hickey he ordered out all police reserves and asked for state troops. Policemen formed a cordon about the Negro quarter and attempted to prevent any inhabitants from leaving, knowing that the presence of a Negro in the other sections of town would result in bloodshed.

At 9:30 a. m. the guardsmen, two companies, from Carbondale and Effingham, arrived. These were assigned to reinforce the policemen about the Negro quarter. Presently crowds began to congregate in the downtown streets. The saloons were open and there was some drinking. Business seemed in suspense and pedestrians hurried to join one or another of the crowds that gathered here and there, listening to the inflammatory haranguing of some soapbox orator.

Shoot Negro in Streets.

The fact that no troops were disposed about the business streets seemed to lend courage to the speakers. Then the spark was dropped that sent the mobs into violence. At Broadway and Collinsville avenue, one of the busiest corners and an important street car transfer point, a Negro walked quietly along the street. A white man stepped out and knocked him down.

Instantly there was a riot. A knot of eager spirits gathered and some of them kicked the Negro in the face. The crowd fell back. A white man drew his revolver, calmly walked to the prostrate Negro, and fired five times. Two of the bullets took effect; one in the arm and one in a leg. The crowd, considering the victim dead, started away to pursue other affairs. The Negro jumped up and ran.

Sniping on All Streets.

Shooting now became general but desultory. A white man stood in front of the Illmo hotel doing a little sniping on his own hook. He took cool aim at a Negro and missed, striking a white man, Louis Haege, 65 years old, a bystander. Haege was wounded in the groin, but will live.

The man with the revolver was arrested, and instantly the mob turned on the police and compelled his release. But later in the day the same man was found inciting another street crowd to violence, and this time he was locked up.

Until this time there had been no disposition on the part of the mobs to interfere with Negro women. But now white women and girls went clambering aboard street cars, where they knocked down Negro women, tore off their clothing, dragged them into the street, and sent them screaming toward their homes. The white men lent a vigorous hand in this.

Women Join in Rioting.

At 1:30 o'clock p. m. an Edwardsville car was stopped, the trolley having been jerked from the wire. Men, women, and girls leaped aboard and began a scramble for Negro passengers. Several Negro women were dragged to the pavement, where they were clubbed and kicked.

Out of this car a Negro man was dragged. As he struck the pavement his body became a veritable kettle drum for the kicks and tattoos of clubs played upon it. Then some one drew a revolver and shot him. At the curbstone stood an undertaker's ambulance, waiting for business. The Negro was bundled in. He died on the way to the hospital.

Drag Negresses from Cars.

While this bedlam was at its height a Belleville car arrived. The trolley was pulled down. Women and girls went aboard, shrieking. They dragged out a number of pleading Negresses, who were belabored with clubs and then kicked out of the way. According to the police, there was no attempt made to question the victims or determine if they had any part in the uprising of the morning or had been inciting trouble.

Down at the next corner a howl burst from another mob. A Negro was caught and beaten. Then he was shot through the head. A policeman called an ambulance and placed the Negro in it while the crowd yelled.

Guardsmen by this time were occupying posts at several important corners. Some were stationed at the corner just described, but none offered resistance. A short distance away another car was stopped and a Negro jerked out. A bludgeon crushed his skull and he died in the ambulance.

Killed While Fleeing.

Pistols popped at all corners. The police tried to capture those with firearms, but no sooner turned their backs on one sniper than another, behind him, began popping away. Stray bullets struck several bystanders. William Keyser, the proprietor of a hardware store, was standing in front of his place of business. A bullet struck him in the breast, passing through his lung. One of the ubiquitous undertakers' ambulances was on hand. Keyser died on the way to the hospital.

Guardsmen were now walking on regularly established patrols. Still the shooting and yelling and fighting continued. Fred Thayer, a white man, was sitting at a second story window, watching the proceedings when a stray bullet struck him in the shoulder.

A Negro went to the relay depot to take a train back to the south. A mob caught him, gave him a drubbing and shot him dead while his train pulled out.

Seek to Remove Blacks.

Mayo Mollman and the officers of the state regiments held a conference of war. It was determined to rush the Negroes out of the city. Sentries had been thrown about both the East St. Louis and the St. Louis entrances of the Eads and the Free bridge to prevent the passage of persons with arms. A basketful of revolvers and other arms were taken away from Negroes and white men, seeking either to flee to St. Louis or to come from the Missouri city to participate.

But even while the cause of the trouble—the influx of southern Negroes—was being removed the mobs increased in vigor their attacks of the earlier day. While the police had been active in taking arms from the rioters, there arose a demand for more. The pawnshop of M. Ellman was torn to bits in the search for weapons. Many revolvers, rifles, and knives were taken, and the mob, reassured, went howling down the streets looking for more victims.

Murder an Ancient Negro.

Presently the work of the mob turned from belligerent Negroes to any members of the race who happened along. An old Negro, hobbling along with a stick, happened near a group of rioters.

"I don't guess that old bird knows what's goin' on here," said a man. "I'll go over an' tell 'im."

He hailed the ancient Negro, who paused. A group of white men gathered and soon the old Negro was left lying in the street, beaten and bruised.

By this time more militia companies were beginning to arrive. Before nightfall 600 soldiers, embracing Companies I of Vandalia, G of Effingham, B of Newton, F of Benton, H of Shelbyville, and E of Carbondale were thrown in the various danger zones.

Later in the evening Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Dickson ordered out six more companies and proceeded to East St. Louis to take charge. These additional troops were ordered out: L of Olney, A of Casey, C of Sullivan, and D of Paris of the Fourth infantry, and Companies F of Pontiac and L of Kankakee.

It was at 7 o'clock that all street car service was suspended, though it had been practically in abeyance since early morning. The entrance to the St. Louis bridges saw the passage of many automobile truck loads of Negroes eager to find safety in the Missouri city. Policemen and soldiers marched by the sides of the trucks and fought off mobs who remained at a distance and filled the air with missiles.

BEGIN TO BURN HOUSES.

Downtown streets were torn up in the efforts of rioters to obtain ammunition, cobblestones being deemed admirable for the purpose. But as the evening drew on the interest in the downtown operations seemed to lag and the mobs, led by the shouts of self-appointed leaders, set off yelling and shooting, for the Negro quarter.

"Burn 'em out," rose on the air, and this suggestion was received with great favor.

Little resistance was met in the line of soldiers about the Negro quarter. The mob stormed past. Shortly after 7:15 more than twenty houses of Negro workmen had been fired and flames cast a weird glare over the scene. Those who still possessed ammunition fired into the charred remains of the houses and others applied the torch to other houses.

Guns, Knives, Ropes, Bricks Used in Slaughter of Blacks

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.—[Special.]—George Austin of 3500 Cherokee street saw three of the Negroes killed before his eyes. Bullets were flying about the street like hail, he said.

The first two were shot down as they ran out into Fourth street from an alley, behind the warehouse. The third was strung up to a post. The fourth, as he emerged into the open, dropped on his knees and prayed for mercy.

"One man ran up to shoot him as he knelt there," Austin said, "but others pushed him aside. 'We're going to lynch the dog' and 'Shootin's too good for him' were the cries, interspersed with oaths.

Smash In Head with Bricks.

"They tied a rope about his neck and began dragging him towards Broadway. The Negro staggered along, already half dead with terror, and every few steps some one would smash him over the head or in the face with a brick. He fell unconscious from the blows, and was dragged along by the rope.

"There were some white women on the sidewalk and one of them cried, 'If there is an American citizen among you he will stop this.' The men only laughed. Several women, unnerved by the spectacle, fainted and fell where they stood.

"Just as the mob surged into Broadway a company of militiamen arrived. Thinking they would shoot into the mob, I ran and didn't see what happened afterwards. But I heard no rifle firing."

Flames Envelop Negro.

Austin returned to St. Louis in an automobile, the driver of which told him he saw a Negro, with his clothes in flames, rush out into the street and fall. The mob did not stir a hand to put out the fire, but with shouts and laughter watched the Negro burn to death.

As Negro women, escaping from their burning homes, ran along Broadway, Austin stated, white women beat them and tore off their clothes. The men, he asserted, seemed to be leaving this part of the job to the women.

An instance of the cruelty of the mob is related by a reporter, who saw the mob come upon a Negro man who had been paralyzed by a shot in the back.

Stop, Woman with Knife.

A woman in the crowd who was armed with a butcher knife proposed to "cut out his black heart," but was stopped by men, who amused themselves by jumping feet first on the man's body until they were forced to stop when ambulance orderlies pushed their way into the crowd and picked up the body. These orderlies tossed the black into their ambulance and then slammed the door in such a way that it crushed the Negro's hand.

LABOR RIVALRY BEHIND TROUBLE LEADING TO RIOT

Rioting in East St. Louis emphasizes the report of the state council of defense, which on Saturday concluded a survey of the conditions which led to the riots of May 28. Migration of vast numbers of southern Negroes to the north is blamed in the report, and it was the influx of Negroes into East St. Louis that first caused murmurings on the part of working people.

The report of the investigating committee of the council of defense was made by John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor; John H. Harrison of Danville, and Dr. Frank Billings.

"The influx of Negroes seemed to be due entirely, in the committee's opinion, to advertising in the southern newspapers and to the activities of labor agents holding out alluring inducements for Negroes to come to East St. Louis."

Urge Close Co-operation.

The committee concluded that "capital and labor must pull together during the war," and that "migration of any class from one part of the country to another should be allowed to follow the now along natural lines."

"Condemnation should be passed on all who undertake to promote conditions," the report proceeds. "The problem of shifting labor where labor is needed during the war should be handled by the various state councils of defense, acting with the responsible officers of the labor movement, who daily are showing their patriotism in endeavoring to avoid industrial strife."

Grumbling Not Stilled.

Previous to the publication of this report, however, there were grumblings of discontent among the workers of East St. Louis. The riots of May 28 were not forgotten. Previous to those riots, in which nearly fifty Negroes and a dozen white men were injured in four days' rioting, there was an indignation meeting of several thousand persons. At that time the saloons were ordered closed and the police ordered to keep the crowds off the streets.

Labor leaders living in East St. Louis remonstrated against the constant importation of Negroes, but their protests have been met with statements from employers saying that they have not encouraged emigration of Negroes.

On Saturday Mayor Mollman of East St. Louis met some of those protesting and promised to take action to relieve the situation. On Saturday night there were several clashes between whites and blacks. The trouble slumbered over Sunday and began anew when the Negro mob formed after midnight Sunday.

WHITES ATTACK LONDON BLACKS WHO LURE GIRLS

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 2.—"In consequence of the alleged infatuation of white girls for black men some of the inhabitants are greatly incensed against colored men," Officer Westham said in the police court today.

The witness added that on Saturday night a gang of youths attacked a number of houses in the Victoria dock road, where the black men lived. Windows were broken and the colored people came into the street with knives and forks and one had a revolver. Missiles were thrown by the English lads and great damage was done.

The disturbances lasted until Sunday evenign, when a large force of police was drafted into the neighborhood. A crowd of about 1,000 people had then assembled and stones, sticks, bottles, pokers, and tongs were used on both sides.

Several arrests were made and the colored man, who appeared with his head in bandages, was remanded and several other men, some in bandages, were fined or discharged.

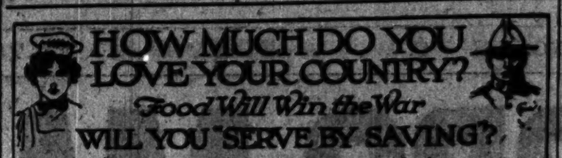
MEATLESS LOOP

That's What May Take Place One Day Each Week In Leading Hotels, Restaurants and Clubs if Present Plans of Chefs Go Through.



HOW MUCH DO YOU LOVE YOUR COUNTRY?
Food Will Win the War
WILL YOU "SERVE BY SAVING?
If so, sign this definite, tangible pledge of patriotism and loyalty to our cause—YOUR country's cause. Help conserve food for Victory.
I hereby pledge myself to do without one of the following foods—the one I have checked—on one day of every week while the war lasts.
List of Foods to Be Saved:
Wheat
Meat
Fats (Lard, butter, cream, oils)
Day of the Week:
Signature
Address

Meatless, wheatless, and fatless days may be adopted at leading clubs, hotels, and restaurants, as well as in private homes in Chicago, as a result of the patriotic rally of chefs and cooks which has been called for July 13 in the crystal room of the Hotel Sherman, in the interest of food conservation.

At a meeting of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense yesterday at 120 West Adams street, plans were made for spreading the gospel of food conservation in accordance with the request of Herbert C. Hoover through the cooperation of those who have the most to do with the preparation of foods. Albert Stalle, president of the Progressive Culinary association and chef of the Hotel Sherman, promised the active codperation of the 300 members of his club, and later at a meeting of the association at 17 Quincy street announced the date and place of the rally. He advocated the cutting down of menus in hotel restaurants as one means of food conservation.

The University club, it was announced, has two meatless days in its week; Friday for members, and Tuesday for employes.

THE TARSUNS pledges still are coming in and the wheatless, meatless, and fatless days are being promised all over the country. Many letters are also being received expressing patriotic reasons for signing.

One writes: "Do we love our country? We have given our only boy. Our girls are members of the Red Cross and wear Liberty bond buttons, and our prayers include the United States." Another, more radical, says, "I think that any one who hesitates to sign this request should be made to leave the country. God bless America."

Still another in signing for a wheatless day very practically incloses an excellent recipe for cornbread as a substitute. A Boy Scout has enlisted his whole family, and many housekeepers and cooks have sent signed pledges along with those of their employers. Do YOU belong to the Conservation army?

HEAVY TAX UPON WAR PROFITS

be the same proportion of the net income of the trade or business received during the taxable year as the proportion which the excess profits for the same calendar year of representative concerns engaged in a like or similar trade bears to the total net income.

New Income Tax Rates.

The senate committee restored the income tax schedule as it stood in the house bill before the Lenroot amendment was adopted. This schedule calls for the reduction of exemptions from $3,000 to $2,000 in the case of single men and from $4,000 to $2,000 in the case of married men. A normal tax of 2 per cent is assessed on single men's incomes from $1,000 to $3,000 and on married men's incomes from $2,000 to $4,000. From these points on the normal tax is increased from 2 to 4 per cent. The increases in surtaxes, as reported in the senate bill, are:

The bill provides the following tax on newspapers and magazines:

"That, in addition to the taxes under existing law and under this act, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid for the calendar year 1917, and for each calendar year thereafter, from the net income of every individual, corporation, partnership, or association arising from the publication of newspapers, magazines, or periodicals entitled to be entered as second class mail matter (whether or not so entered) a tax of 5 per cent of the amount of such net income in excess of $4,000."

Cigars and Cigarets.

The new schedule of taxes on cigars as reported by the senate committee is:

On all cigars weighing more than three pounds per thousand:

Selling from 4 to 7 cents each, $1 a thousand.

Selling from 7 to 15 cents each, $3 a thousand.

Selling from 15 to 20 cents each, $5 a thousand.

Selling for more than 20 cents each, $7 a thousand.

The new schedule of taxes on cigarets, which is lower than the schedule contained in the house bill, is:

On all cigarets weighing less than three pounds per thousand, a tax of 75 cents a thousand.

On all cigarets weighing more than three pounds per thousand, a tax of $1.20 a thousand.

The schedule of taxes in the bill relating to automobiles to take the place of the house tax on gross receipts of automobile companies is:

NEGRO SLASHES MEN IN 'L' CAR; SHOT, MAY DIE

Attacks a Woman Who Leaps Between Him and Her Husband.

Passengers on a Northwestern elevated railroad train near Clarendon park, 28 years old, a Negro, shot and probably fatally wounded last night by Policeman John Ross of the Town Hall station after a desperate struggle on the Belmont avenue platform.

The Negro, brandishing a knife, threatened to "cut the heart out of him," Kelly is at the Alexian Brothers' hospital with a bullet wound below the heart and is not expected to live.

Stumbled Over Negro's Feet.

While the train—an Evanston express going south—was nearing the station, the Negro attacked Fred J. Hohing, a commission merchant with offices at 120 West South Water street, and slashed him across his right hand.

R. Holm, the motorman, and J. C. Smart, a guard, also were cut as they laid hands when they grabbed the Negro as he was threatening Mrs. Hohing.

Mr. and Mrs. Hohing, who live at 3500 Leland avenue, were visiting friends in the vicinity of Sheridan road and Irving Park boulevard. They boarded the train at the Sheridan road station. As they entered the car Kelly's feet were extended in the aisle and Mr. Hohing stumbled over them. He gave an unmurmured an apology and continued on to the rear of the car.

"What did you step on my foot for?" Kelly is said to have asked.

"It was merely an accident," answered Hohing.

Curses Woman.

With an oath the Negro whipped out the knife from his pocket and lunged at Hohing, cutting him on the right hand. Mrs. Hohing leaped between the two men. This angered Kelly, and he turned on her.

"You white —, I'll cut your nose off," he said, and attempted to make Mrs. Hohing. Men rushed forward. The guard and several other men seized the Negro, who was striking right and left. Several of the men passengers are also believed to have been cut in the struggle.

Hohing is a Shriner. When Kelly attacked him he gave the distress signal of the order and several fellow members on the train recognizing it hurried to his aid.

By this time the train had reached the Belmont station, the first stop after Sheridan road. Mr. and Mrs. Hohing alighted.

By this time passengers on both the Evanston and Ravenswood trains were in an uproar and traffic both north and south was blocked for more than fifteen minutes. The Negro, backing against a sign board, swung the knife back and forth, holding off all who would attack him. A boy on the platform ran downstairs to the street and summoned Policeman Rose, who was a short distance away.

SENATORS CRY GREED AT WAR PRICE EXPERTS

Council of Defense Impracticable, Is Charge.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—Charges against the members of the council of national defense and its advisory committees were made in the senate today in connection with the contracts being entered into for supplies for the government. The committees on coal production and on aluminum were especially under fire.

It was pointed out that the biggest coal operators in the country, headed by Francis S. Peabody, were members of the coal committee, and that while they had been members of the advisory committee prices had continued to increase instead of being reduced.

Senator Pomerene of Ohio was particularly bitter in his denunciation of the coal operators of the country. The activities of the coal bureaus in Ohio, West Virginia, and western Pennsylvania "would be a good subject for investigation by grand juries," he said.

He charged that prices for coal had been advanced from 100 to 200 per cent. "In some localities the increase has been even greater," suggested Senator Cummins, "as shown by the investigation now being conducted by the senate interstate commerce committee."

"It is not true that the rule of supply and demand controls," Senator Pomerene said. "The only rule operating is the rule of necessity. It is necessity alone that compels a poor washerwoman to pay these outrageous prices. No defense can be made by any human being of these coal prices."

Attack on Defense Council.

It was Senator Reed of Missouri who started the attack upon the advisory committee of the council of national defense.

"It is indisputable," he said, "that practically all of the big trusts and monopolies have mobilized in the Munsey building, the headquarters of the council of national defense. While the boys from the farms, the factories, and the banking houses in all parts of the country are being mobilized in the military camps, to be sent later to the trenches in foreign lands, these gentlemen are making contracts for their own enrichments and benefits. The evidence of this I am about to submit, with reference to the Aluminum company of America."

He showed that Arthur V. Davis, president of this company, is chairman of the advisory committee on aluminum and that there are two other members of the committee both engaged in the aluminum business.

Charges Aluminum Monopoly.

The aluminum company, he said, was a monopoly. Capitalized at $20,000,000, although its original investment was only $1,000,000, it had made $30,000,000 last year and had $50,000,000 in property.

Senator Reed read from testimony of Mr. Davis before the house committee on foreign affairs June 6, 1917, in which he admitted that his company controlled the aluminum production of the country.

"Have these committees of business men in the Munsey building any legal power to make contracts?" Senator Poindexter asked.

"They do not actually sign the contracts on behalf of the government," Senator Reed said, "but they have an inside advantage. Their recommendations are largely taken by those who have authority to sign.

On Both Sides of a Contract.

"I do not care how you sugar coat this proposition. I do not care what may be said with reference to the patriotism of men who are engaged in the undertaking to serve the country at this time. I say that it cannot be disputed that if this gentleman is to deal with the government in the matter of aluminum contracts for a million canteens for the army it is incumbent on him to sever his relations with the council of national defense. A man cannot take both sides of a contract."

Senator Borah of Idaho agreed with this proposition. "There are not ten men in the senate who could fix a price upon what they had to sell—if any of them had anything to sell—to the government without being criticized in exactly the same way," he said. "There is an easy solution, and that is to create a tribunal of impartial men to fix these prices and take advantage of the advice of these men."

Defended by Senator Newlands.

Senator Newlands of Nevada took Senator Reed to task for what he regarded as an intimation that the men, acting as Mr. Davis is acting, are not acting in good faith.

"I have not charged anybody with robbing the government," Senator Reed replied. "These men claim they have been perfectly fair with the government. What I say is that an impossible arrangement—that is bound to result disastrously for all—exists."

Deny Cabinet Differences.

President Wilson has taken a hand in the coal price issue and the dispute which has arisen among members of the cabinet over the action of the committee on coal production, Secretary Lane, Trade Commissioner Fort, and bituminous coal operators in fixing tentative maximum prices effective July 1.

The refusal of Secretaries Baker and Daniels to accept the $3 per ton rate agreed to by the operators was still a subject of discussion in administration quarters today. President Wilson was in communication with Secretary Baker on the subject, and it is expected that the matter will be considered in the cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Both Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels insist that $3 is too high a price for the government to pay for coal, but they insisted today that there was no friction between them and Secretary Lane.

To prove it Secretary Baker issued a short statement and later had lunch with the secretary of the interior.

There appears to be good reason for the belief that Secretary Baker's attitude toward the recent agreement was prompted in part by the desire of the department of justice to remove an impression that the coal operators were "simon pure patriots" and had entered an agreement to fix prices with the government for the benefit of the nation.

Coal Men Not Wholly Generous.

The department of justice appears to have been satisfied that if such an agreement had been accepted by the government it might have the effect of gaining an immunity bath for the group of coal operators who are now on trial in New York, charged with having fixed prices for coal in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. If there was any such purpose in the agreement it apparently has been sidetracked by Secretaries Baker and Daniels.

The federal trade commission has started an investigation into costs of coal production at the behest of the president, and when the figures are available it is probable that the president will hold that the government should pay actual cost plus a fair profit and no more. If this is carried out it is believed here that the government price for coal will be nearer $3 a ton than $3.

THE BELGIAN MISSION

Members of Party Who Pledged Small Kingdom's Eternal Gratitude for United States' Aid.

Complete Victory or Death, Belgians' Departing Pledge

Representatives of ravished Belgium visited Chicago yesterday, were dined, toured, given a banquet and reception, and wished Godspeed. The mission, headed by Baron Ludovic Moncheur, left for Milwaukee at 11 p. m.

The reception just prior to the departure of the mission was attended by several hundred men and women, mainly countrymen and country women of the visitors, who waited in the Art institute to see their heroes. Before this assemblage Baron Moncheur and Gen. Matthieu Leclercq acknowledged their thanks to Chicago and the nation, and spoke of the destiny of Belgium in the uncharted future of the war. Summarized in the solemn words of M. Moncheur:

"Belgium will recover her complete freedom and independence, or die. There can be no half measures."

Belgium Grateful to U. S.

Following the formal address of welcome by Mayor Thompson at the banquet, which was given at the Congress hotel, the baron delivered an address in which he spoke gratefully of Chicago and with the deepest feeling of America, and of Belgium's attitude towards this country, its gratitude and its camaraderie, engendered by America's succor.

"For the moment Belgium may be down," he said. "But we are not out. From the beginning of this war we had determined to maintain our freedom or to die in the last ditch. Now that your great country has become one of our allies, there can no longer be any doubt that victory will light on our arms.

"My special mission in Chicago is to thank you not only for what you have already done, but also for what you are now doing, and for what, I may add, you are going to do. You have contributed most generously to the relief of my fellow countrymen. Moreover, you have not only held out your hands to us, but you have given us your hearts. And now you are sending us the flower of your manhood to re-establish our liberty."

Bancroft Speaks for City.

Speaking for Chicago, Edgar A. Bancroft declared the war really began with Belgium's glorious sacrifice and cannot end without Belgium's complete reward.

"There are some who talk of peace," said Mr. Bancroft. "How vain and unworthy it is while the Prussian hand grips the throat of perishing Belgium! We shall have peace—the peace of the flaming sword of justice.

"We shall have peace when we win it from the brutal forces of autocracy. Those lean, square jawed fighting men of our own America who at this very hour are near the firing line somewhere in France—they and the legions to follow them from these shores—will help to bring back a just and lasting peace to us, to the world, and to bleeding Belgium.

"When this war is done and those who fought it are gone, when all the vast and terrible things of today are history, written by the hands of men still to be born, the pages of that record will shine through the ages with the whitest and holiest light—those pages which tell the story of Belgium, the littlest of nations, become by her sacrifices and her valor, the most illustrious."

Have Commercial Hopes.

Earlier in the day Baron Moncheur spoke of more finite things—of Belgium's economic hopes and her commercial and industrial dreams, when the invader has been thrown back.

"Torn on the rack though it now is, Belgium, with indomitable spirit, is already planning its economic restoration, and I believe this will be accomplished through the United States," he said. "A closer relationship is to be fostered after the war. When peace comes there will be a stop to the appearance in the world's markets of Belgian made goods bearing the label, 'Made in Germany.'"

Amazed by Stockyards.

For the most part it was a quiet, thoughtful, soldierly mission. Baron Moncheur, its head and spokesman, listened a great deal, said little. He evidenced far more interest in the stock yards than in anything else Chicago had to show him. The wonderful business of transforming porkers into pork transfixed him, gripped his entourage.

Everything else was pleasant and delightful and memorable, but this was food. When Baron Moncheur makes his official report to Albert, his king, he will tell his majesty that nowhere in the world are there such stockyards as in Chicago.

"There," said Maj. Osterrieth, pointing to some canned beef on exhibit in the showroom of one of the packing houses, "is the stuff we are eating in the trenches right now."

Tour Chicago's Parks.

Entertainment for the visitors during the day included luncheon at the South Shore Country club, a tour of Chicago's parks and boulevards, a visit to the University of Chicago, and the memorable tour through the stock yards.

One of the members of the mission—who is not listed and who made no speeches beyond much tail wagging—is Nellie, a Belgian terrier, who has seen service in the trenches in Belgium. The huge Osterrieth kept Nellie constantly in attendance.

In Lincoln park the mission bared heads in silent tribute to the statues of Grant and Lincoln. As they saluted their heels clicked. For it was a real salute.

Those in the Party.

In addition to the baron, members of the commission are:

Gen. Matthieu Leclercq of the First Belgian Cavalry division; Maj. Leon Osterrieth of the First Belgian Guides; Comte Louis d'Ursel; Adjt. Maurice Thonnart, serving as secretary to Gen. Leclercq, and Orderly Edgar Dangoiss.

Capt. D. C. Cook, U. S. A., and representatives of the state department accompanied the mission, which was welcomed and entertained by a committee of Chicagoans, including the following:

Charles L. Hutchinson, chairman; Arthur T. Aldis, Everett L. Millard, Maj.-Gen. Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A., Frank I. Bennett, Capt. William A. Moffett, U. S. N.; Col. W. J. Nicholson, U. S. A.; Eugene R. Pike, Robert H. McCormick, and Edgar A. Bancroft.

NO DISORDER AT LABOR PARADE

PETROGRAD, July 2.—The great demonstration by workmen's and soldiers' delegates and the revolutionary democracy, which had been discussed for some days with considerable anxiety owing to the declared intention of anarchists to make a counter revolutionary outbreak and to carry arms, passed off without disorder.

The American railroad commission, headed by John F. Stevens, and the embassy staff yesterday enjoyed the unique distinction of being welcomed and receiving benediction in the Russian Orthodox church in a special service in Kasan cathedral.

Italians Raid Triest as Austrians Bomb Venice

ROME, July 2.—Venice has been again attacked by Austrian airplanes, the war office announces. The Italians raided Triest in reprisal.

The statement follows:

"A group of enemy airplanes raided Venice, Murano, and Chioggia (the last two are towns near Venice) on Friday night. Bombs were thrown on houses. There were no victims. Anti-aircraft batteries bombarded the airplanes vigorously, and there is reason to believe two raiders were hit.

"By way of immediate reprisal Italian seaplanes bombarded the industrial quarters of Triest."

Business Men in Last Try to Save Aviation Field

Chicago business men plan to make a last effort to stop the removal of the government aviation field from Ashburn. John H. Lyle of Englewood yesterday sent letters to bankers, business men, and officials of clubs and associations in the loop asking them to meet at the Hotel La Salle today to consider the subject. A telegram asking two weeks' delay in which to straighten out the disagreement with the owners on terms probably will be sent to the war department.

Alien Enemies in Germany Join in Dusseldorf Riots

AMSTERDAM, July 2.—The Dusseldorf General Anzeige says that riots occurred in Dusseldorf Thursday, where workmen of enemy nationality participated.

Shops were damaged and plundered, alcoholic liquors especially being stolen. Citizens allowed these enemy aliens to share in the booty without hindrance.

The police, who were reinforced by troops, made many arrests. The military commandant issued orders forbidding street gatherings.

JAPAN WILLING TO SWAP LAND WITH U. S.

TOKIO, July 2.—A proposal that Japan negotiate with the United States for the exchange of the Philippine islands to Japan for the South Sea islands, seized by the mikado from Germany, was made in parliament today by Kotaran Mochizuki, an opposition member.

Mochizuki expressed the belief that the United States would consent to such an exchange, thereby removing many of the difficulties that have tended to cause friction between America and Japan. In discussing the Japanese policy in the orient, he declared the United States is suspicious of the imperial government's attitude towards China.

Viscount Motoni, foreign minister, replying to Mochizuki, declared there is no cause for fear regarding Japanese-American relations.

CENSOR BLAMED FOR "LEAK" ON U. S. ARMY STORY

PARIS, July 1.—[Delayed.]—An official statement issued at the headquarters of the American army today lays the blame on the allies' censor for the premature publication of the news of the arrival of the first American expeditionary forces.

The statement says the fault does not lie with any correspondent, but with some one who permitted a single one of many telegrams being held for release to go through to London before the release was given.

Greek Destroyer Blown Up; 29 of Crew Reported Lost

PARIS, July 2.—The Greek destroyer Doxa, manned by French officers and crew, has been blown up in the Mediterranean. Twenty-nine men, including all the officers, were lost. The destroyer sank as the result of a double explosion on June 28 while it was convoying a merchant ship.

SENATORS BALK AT DECIDING ON WET OR DRY U. S.

Pass Buck to President; May Force a Vote on Food Bill.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—The dry majority of the senate committee on agriculture kicked over the traces today and declined to accept President Wilson's proposal to eliminate beer and wine from the prohibition section of the food control bill.

By a vote of 8 to 3 the committee rejected the administration provision submitted by Senator Chamberlain limiting prohibition to whisky and other distilled spirits, but not mentioning beer and wine.

Then by a vote of 6 to 5 the committee adopted the Gore substitute prohibiting whisky and authorizing the president to prohibit or limit the production of beer and wine if he deems it necessary to do so for the further conservation of the food supply.

The administration senators regard this move as akin to "passing the buck" to the president, and will fight for the acceptance of the administration plan in preference to the Gore amendment when the senate proceeds with the consideration of the prohibition section tomorrow.

Outcome Still in Doubt.

Senator Chamberlain and others expressed confidence tonight that all reference to beer and wine would be eliminated finally.

The prohibition senators, on the other hand, were equally confident that the only concession permitted would be the committee amendment putting the question up to the president.

Before the senate took a recess tonight Senator Chamberlain gave notice that an attempt probably would be made immediately to invoke the new cloture rule to bring to an end the debate on the food control bill.

A petition, he said, had been signed by the necessary number of senators to have the subject of cloture laid before the senate in accordance with the rule. Under the rule such a petition must be signed by sixteen senators. Twenty-one had signed the petition. The application of cloture requires a two-thirds vote in favor.

Blames Drys; They Protest.

This announcement brought Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania to his feet with a statement that the prohibitionists had been responsible for delaying the food control bill, because of their insistence upon prohibiting the manufacture of beer and wine.

"The cloture rule was never intended to defeat legitimate debate, but to put an end to a filibuster," the Pennsylvanian said.

Senator Jones of Washington in impassioned tones immediately denied that the prohibition senators were delaying the vote on the food control bill.

"None of the prohibition senators has spoken," he shouted. "We are ready for a vote any time. It is the senators who are opposed to food conservation who have used up the time of the senate in debate."

Takes Fling at Wilson.

Senator Jones pointed out as the bill had been sent originally to congress by the administration it had provided for placing the entire question of prohibiting the further use of foodstuffs in the manufacture of all kinds of alcoholic beverages in the hands of the president.

"When the president appealed to the officers of the Anti-Saloon league not to delay the passage of this bill by insisting upon the prohibition of the manufacture of beer and wine at this time," he said, "why didn't he go to the brewers, who have been filling the capitol with lobbyists, and ask them to withdraw their opposition to a vote on this bill? A determined attempt has been made by the administration to make it appear the prohibitionists are delaying the bill and to misrepresent the prohibitionists. They have not been for these measures as prohibition measures, but as food conservation measures.

Senator Sheppard of Texas, prohibitionist, challenging the statement of Senator Penrose that "drys" have delayed a vote, asked unanimous consent that the senate at 1 o'clock tomorrow proceed to vote on the section involving the prhibitin question.

"I object," was the comment of Senator Penrose.

COAL PRICE PACT FAILS TO LOWER FUEL COST HERE

Indiana and Most of Illinois Grades Are Unchanged.

The highest prices for soft coal that have prevailed, with one possible exception, since the civil war are in effect in Chicago despite the new price scale, fixed by the mine operators in conjunction with the commission on coal production.

Coal consumers and retailers who ventured into the market yesterday in expectation of obtaining fuel at reduced costs were confronted with the same price scale that has been maintained since March 1, except in the item of screenings, where a 25 cent reduction is found in several Illinois districts.

Midwest Price Unchanged.

The only reductions that have been made apply to coals from the mines in West Virginia and Kentucky. About 15 per cent of the coal being used in Chicago and Illinois now comes from the mines of those states. The prices of coal from the Illinois and Indiana mines, on which the midwestern states are depending, remain the same. The Kentucky and West Virginia prices have been brought down to the Illinois level.

So far as the open coal market is concerned the new agreement of the operators has not changed the prices.

Price Comparison.

Peabody Not Talkative.

Francis Peabody, chairman of the coal commission, which assisted in the rate adjustment, declined yesterday to comment on the situation.

"Anything I might say would have to be censored by department officials at Washington," he said.

When asked if he intends replying to the attack made by Secretary of War Baker in discussing the price agreement Saturday, Mr. Peabody said:

"Why should I? He is my superior officer, and when a man enlists he doesn't talk back to his superior officer, does he?"

Another View.

"The mine operators are simply milking the people while they can," said Sibley Gaddis, secretary of a coal company at Mount Sterling, in a letter to THE TRIBUNE. "Mr. Peabody, owner of 60 per cent of the mines in Illinois, says they have done a noble thing in making this contract, but a price of $3.50 a ton shows there is something wrong."

GERMAN AGENTS CRIPPLE VESSELS ON GREAT LAKES

Many Ships Taken Over for War Targets; Plotters Sought by U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Secret investigation by government agents has disclosed the existence of a great conspiracy to destroy or hinder shipping on the great lakes and thereby delay organization of American war armies and check the flow of food and munitions material from the western states to the Atlantic coast.

No conspirators have been captured and the identity of none has been made public, but it was learned today that the state, navy, and justice departments are cooperating to bring the offenders to punishment, and that the Canadian government probably will be called upon to help.

Germans Blamed for Accidents.

This plot, engineered by Germans, assisted by sympathetic American citizens, is believed to have been responsible for the succession of "accidents" to lake shipping, especially in the neighborhood of the Sault Ste. Marie canal, which began about a month ago.

The steamers Saxonia and Pentecost Mitchell were sunk at the mouth of the Soo river with the evident intention of blocking the channel.

Then there was the sinking of the steamer Venetian Maid in the Detroit river, with the loss of one life, and later came an attempt to dynamite the steamer MacKinaw.

The Kasaga II. was blown up and burned, and the Jay Dee III. and the Niagara had their machinery wrecked.

All Due to U. S. Work.

All of these vessels had been or were about to be taken over by the navy department, and the investigations of the department of justice and the navy department have tended to the conclusion that what were believed to have been accidents were the acts of conspirators seeking to hamper the government in its prosecution of the war.

Just how much the government agents have learned it not revealed, but officials have concluded that the public should know the situation in a general way, believing that publicity may make the operations of the Germans more difficult or impossible.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Twenty-five million dollars was placed to the credit of Great Britain today by Secretary McAdoo, bringing the loans to that nation up to $2,525,000,000, and the total loaned all the allies to $1,049,000,000.

RUSSIAN FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, July 2.—In the direction of Kovel (Volhynia) in the region of Rudkasitovichakaya our scouts under command of four officers, after destroying the wire entanglements by mines, penetrated the enemy's trenches, killed some of their occupants, and captured a number of prisoners.

According to the testimony of prisoners the Austrians knew of our attack from two deserters, Senior Non-commissioned Officer Karsokin and Private Kolotutsev. An investigation is being made by the authorities of the governments to which the soldiers named belonged.

In the direction of Ziochoff, after two days' artillery preparation, our troops attacked the Austro-German positions on the Koniuchy-Byshki front. After a severe engagement they occupied three lines of trenches and advanced to the Koniuchy stream to the south of the village of the same name.

As a result of the engagement on Sunday 184 officers and 8,400 soldiers have been counted so far as prisoners. We also took seven guns and seven machine guns. Prisoners continue to come in.

Southwest of Brzesany, after artillery preparation, our troops attacked the strongly fortified positions of the enemy and after stubborn fighting occupied them at places. Germans and Turks made counter attacks, and formidable positions changed hands constantly.

On Sunday we captured on this front nine officers and 1,700 Germans, Austrians, and Turks. Some of our detachments sustained severe losses, especially of officers.

Altogether, on Sunday we took prisoner 173 officers and more than 10,000 soldiers. We also captured seven guns and seven machine guns.

On July 1, in the direction of Ziochoff and Brzesany [in Galicia, east of Lemberg] an artillery battle of great intensity took place.

AVIATION.

The airship Ilia Muromets dropped about 650 pounds of bombs on the rear position of the enemy. There were five aerial engagements, and in one of these, while battling with eight enemy airplanes, the commander of the aircraft, Balloon Lieut. Capt. Bambovitz, was seriously wounded, but the ship was brought back safely to our lines.

North of Postavy a German airplane was brought down by a Russian aviator behind the enemy lines and was destroyed by our artillery. As a result of one of the engagements between our own and German machines our gallant aviator, Sub-lieut. Orloff, attacked by two enemy battle planes, met his death. In the region of the town of Geneva a German airplane was brought down by our aviator, Lieut. Ivanoff.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, July 2.—There is nothing new to report in the east. At Koniuchy the Russian attacks broke down.

Further north fresh battles have developed.

DAY STATEMENT.

Army group of Prince Leopold—The Russian attack on Sunday between the Upper Stripa and the eastern bank of the Narayvka led to heavy fighting. The pressure of the Russians was directed chiefly against the Koniuchy sector and the lines to the east and south of Brzesany.

An exceedingly strong artillery preparation, which lasted two days, turned our positions into a crater field against which enemy regiments stormed throughout the day. The village of Koniuchy was lost.

The Russian mass attack was caught up in a prepared barring position and a fresh attack against this barring position was frustrated. The fighting was especially bitter on both sides of Brzesany.

Sixteen Russian divisions, constantly employing fresh troops, attacked our positions there, which were completely maintained or recaptured by counter attacks by Saxon, Rhineland, and Ottoman divisions, their brave defense swaying the battle. The Russian losses surpassed any measure hitherto known. Some units have been entirely dispersed.

AUSTRIAN.

VIENNA, July 2.—Between the Narayuvka and Stripa rivers the enemy yesterday threw dense infantry masses into the battle in his usual reckless way, indifferent to the heavy losses which our artillery had already inflicted on him. He pushed his assaulting waves forward into hand to hand conflicts, continuously employing close masses of reserves. At least twenty infantry divisions gradually came to grips with our troops.

On the whole of a fifty kilometer fighting front an infantry battle raged with utmost violence and bitterness. During these engagements the enemy was for the greater part repulsed from first line trenches.

The heaviest massed attacks were directed against the region south of Brzesany and Koniuchy, where the Russians were repulsed in our barring positions. All the enemy attacks were rejected, including those made today to push forward in these regions. The enemy suffered exceedingly heavy losses.

West of Zborow and in the Stokhod salient attacks started by the enemy failed before our artillery fire. A continuance of the battle may be expected.

On the other sectors of the front the artillery fire revived temporarily.

FRENCH FRONT

FRENCH.

PARIS, July 2.—South of St. Quentin we repulsed an enemy attack on small posts near Gauchy.

In the sector between Cerny and Allies particularly heavy artillery fighting continued. Late in the day our troops made a counter attack on both sides of the Allies-Paissy road. This action, conducted in a spirited manner, enabled us to eject the Germans from the line of trenches which they had occupied. The reconquered ground was covered with bodies, bearing witness to the importance of the losses suffered by the enemy in his offensive.

Violent artillery fighting occurred along the road between Laon and Reims. In the Woevre a strong German reconnoitering party which attempted to approach our lines near Flirey was dispersed by our fire.

BRITISH.

LONDON, July 2.—As the result of hard fighting west of Lens yesterday and today our advanced posts have been driven back a short distance. There is nothing further to report except considerable artillery activity by both sides at numerous points along the front.

DAY STATEMENT.

We made a successful raid last night east of Hargicourt and captured seven prisoners. A number of Germans were killed.

East of Loos a raiding party of the enemy reached our trenches, but was driven out quickly.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, July 2.—Army group of Prince Rupprecht—Only in a few sectors between the sea and the Somme did the artillery battle increase. While reconnoitering advances of the British to the east of Nieuport, at Gavrelle, and to the northwest of St. Quentin failed, some of our shock troops succeeded on the Yser lowlands, north of Dixmude, in inflicting considerable losses on the enemy by a surprise attack and captured a large number of Belgian prisoners.

Early this morning and again in the afternoon the British attacked to the west of Lens. At a few points they penetrated our line, but were repulsed everywhere by our upper Silesian regiments in hand to hand engagements, in which more than 175 prisoners and seventeen machine guns were captured by us.

Army group of the German crown prince—After strong artillery preparation the French delivered fresh attacks on the Chemin des Dames against the trenches they had lost south of Bovelle farm. All the attacks of the enemy were defeated in engagements, which were especially bitter on the eastern slope of the plateau.

Army group of Grand Duke Albrecht—There is nothing of importance to report.

WORLD'S EYES ON RUSSIAN FRONT

2—Petrograd reports occupation of three lines of trenches and the fortified village of Koniuchy and the capture of more than 8,500 prisoners.

3—Southwest of Brzesany, Petrograd says, a violent battle is in progress and positions have changed hands constantly. Seventeen hundred Germans taken.

4—Berlin says activity along the Stokhod river continues.

5—Berlin admits heavy fighting in this sector and the loss of Koniuchy. Russian losses heavy.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN.

ROME, July 2.—During the night the enemy was particularly active between Lake Garda and the Ledro valley. After violent artillery preparation an enemy detachment numbering not less than two companies attacked the line of our outpost between San Giovanni and Biacesa (south of Riva) but were stopped and driven back with considerable losses.

At the same time other hostile parties attacked our outposts in the same sector north of Malga Giumella and northeast of Mezzolago, but they were stopped by the vigilance of our troops before reaching our lines. The artillery struggle continued active yesterday in the area between Lake Garda and the Adige.

At several other points on the front and particularly at the head of the Seebach and in the neighborhood of San Lucia Tolmein, we repeatedly and successfully shelled enemy troops assembled and in movement. On the Mrzli a big enemy mine was exploded without altering our position and causing only slight damage.

AUSTRIAN.

VIENNA, July 2.—Apart from an operation by Austrian landsturm troops west of Riva, during which sixteen Alpine soldiers were brought back from enemy trenches, there is nothing of importance to report.

ROUMANIAN FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, July 1 [Delayed].—An enemy railway train in motion was destroyed by our artillery in the region of Lamuntelu mountain, in the Carpathians. There were fusillades at other points.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, July 2.—There is nothing of importance to report.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

ITALIAN.

ROME, July 2.—A well executed attack by one of our armed Albanian bands on June 30 destroyed a small enemy post near Panaret, on the upper Osum river. Some Austrian regulars were captured and the attack caused great alarm within the enemy lines.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, July 2.—The situation is unchanged.

TURKISH FRONT

RUSSIAN.

PETROGRAD, July 2.—Under pressure of our detachments the Turks retreated towards Panjwin.

Our cavalry, continuing its pursuit, occupied the village of Engidja, to the north of Lake Deribar.

Our troops occupied the stronghold of Kalamiritvan, to the southeast of Lake Deribar, and the villages of Abahen and Derehue.

On July 1 in the Caucasus in the section of Panjwin (in Turkey, near the Persian border) the Turks launched a series of attacks on our position near Distan.

Northwest of Sepne our advanced detachments, after energetic pursuit of the Turks, reached the region of Heribar lake and engaged in battle with the enemy, who was defending the road to Panjwin.

WOES OF SPAIN GROWING WORSE; CRISIS NEARING

Nation Under Army Rule, but Disorder Is Spreading.

PARIS, July 2.—The situation in Spain, far from improving, appears to be going from bad to worse. The gravity of the crisis is confirmed by such news as reaches Paris. The Madrid correspondent of the Petit Parisien, telegraphing Sunday, says the suspension of constitutional guarantees by the government has not removed the unrest in Spain. The fact that the heavily censored Spanish press publishes nothing concerning the internal situation seems to indicate that conditions are far from normal.

Great importance is attached in political circles to two facts: First, that the king and queen canceled an engagement to attend a polo game; second, that a special cabinet meeting was held, at the conclusion of which Premier Dato went to the palace and had a long conference with the king.

These circumstances have given rise to all sorts of comment, many persons seeing in them proof that the government had received serious news.

Republican Sees Trouble.

E. Oristo Salmeron y Garcia, president of the short-lived Spanish republic, who has just arrived from Spain, also takes a serious view of the situation there. In a statement published in the Petit Parisien he says he is convinced Spain is on the eve of important events.

There are three causes of discontent—the dissatisfaction of the army, the dissatisfaction of the Democratic parties, and the unrest of the masses, brought about by the increased cost of living.

Señor Salmeron says that if these three causes, of different origins, should produce effects at the same time, events which would surprise the world would be likely to occur.

See Republic in Spain.

London, July 2.—Spain appears to be in the throes of a revolution, according to well informed quarters here. It is believed that the fall of the Spanish monarchy and the rise of a republic in its stead is only a matter of days, perhaps hours.

"This view is justified by the latest developments in Spanish politics. The leading parties in the nation have formed a republican 'bloc.' At a conference recently held at the chamber of deputies, the Republicans, the Radicals, and the Socialists decided to issue a revolutionary and anti-monarchistic manifesto, after having constituted themselves into a bloc.

In addition to these parties, the Monarchist Reformist party of Señor Alvarez, one of the most powerful Spanish leaders, changed its traditional position and came out in favor of a republic. So strong is the republican tide in Spain that King Alfonso's abdication is spoken of as a distinct probability."

Thousands of country folk from the outlying districts are thronging the town in their best peasant attire, watching the work about the busy harbor. All is hurry and bustle save for movements of the war weary German prisoners, who proceed like men commissioned to be pallbearers at their own funeral.

Paris schoolchildren are studying this week from a specially prepared forty page booklet dealing with United States history, the size of the nation, and what part it will take in the war, and also are accumulating a greater knowledge concerning the great sentimental bonds between the sister republics. The booklet is produced by five French professors under the direction of the minister of instruction. The schoolchildren are preparing to take part in a Fourth of July celebration.

Cheers the Allies, Derby Says.

LONDON, July 2.—Lord Derby, secretary for war, in a statement to the Associated Press today said:

"The arrival in France of the troops of the United States to take their place by the side of the French, Belgian, and British troops is an event of the first importance. The moral effect of this reinforcement will be far reaching, as the accession of a great army, of which this is the vanguard, enthusiastic for the restoration of peace and liberty throughout the world, will be welcome to all fighting for the sacred cause on French and Belgian soil.

"The promptitude with which our kinsmen across the Atlantic have given effect to their pledges of coöperation is no surprise to us, who know their energy and resourcefulness. But it is an earnest of their determination to hasten the victory which will reward our united efforts and therefore moves us deeply."

U. S. WILL DRAFT FIRST 650,000 ABOUT JULY 10

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—With the promulgation today of rules and regulations for local and district exemption boards to administer the next steps in the selection of the new national army, it was learned that the draft for the first increment of 650,000 of the 10,000,000 young men who registered for service a month ago, will be applied about July 10.

By that time all the exemption boards, it is expected, will have been named and be organized ready for work, the local boards to pass on physical examinations and exemptions on account of dependents and the district boards to determine appeals and exemptions for industrial service.

President Wilson, in a statement accompanying the regulations, declared that the regulations had been drawn with a view to the needs and circumstances of the whole country and to work the least inequality and hardship.

Appeal by President.

"The successful operation of this law and the regulations," the president said, "depends upon the loyalty, patriotism, and justice of the boards to whom its operation is committed, and I admonish every member of every local board and of every district board of review that their duty to their country requires an impartial and fearless performance of the delicate and difficult duties intrusted to them.

"They should remember as to each individual case presented to them that they are called upon to adjudicate the most sacred rights of the individual and to preserve untarnished the honor of the nation."

How System Works.

Provost Marshal General Enoch H. Crowder has prepared a summary of the operation of the regulations, which shows the following steps:

The registration being completed, and the registration cards being ready for use in further proceedings, the president will appoint with the power of removal the members of the local and district boards.

One local board, consisting of three or more members, will be appointed for each county of less than 45,000 population and one local board for each city of 30,000 population or more. Certain divisions with a local board for states will be split up into each division.

One or more district boards consisting of as many members as may be desired shall be appointed by the president in each federal judicial district of the United States, one in each territory, and one in the District of Columbia.

Duties of Local Boards.

The duties and functions of the local boards are taking the necessary steps for determining the order of liability for service of those registered and examining those called for service to determine whether they shall be exempted, discharged, or accepted for service.

The duties and functions of the district board are deciding appeals from the decisions of the local boards on matters falling under the jurisdiction of such boards and passing upon claims for discharge because of the relationship of the one making the claim to "industries, including agriculture," found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

Wherever practicable the registration board will be reconstituted as the local exemption board.

As soon as practicable after a day to be named by the provost marshal general the members of the local boards must assemble and organize.

The boards shall organize by having the sheriff of the county as executive officer of the board. Another member shall be made the clerk of the board. The third member may be a physician.

Upon organization the registration records shall be delivered to the local boards, and the registration boards shall then cease to exist.

Arrange Cards by Number.

Within three days, if practicable, from the date of its organization each local board shall give to each and every registration card in its possession a separate serial number, beginning with 1 and running on up. For this purpose the cards should not be arranged or recarded alphabetically. The same serial number must be given to the copy of the card that was given to the original.

The local boards shall prepare, concurrently with their giving to the several registration cards their respective serial numbers, a list of all persons whose registration cards are in their possession. This list shall be arranged in the order of the serial numbers. One copy of this list shall be kept by the local board and one copy posted in public view, one copy made available to the local press, and one copy sent to the provost marshal general in Washington.

Everything is ready for the determination of the order in which the persons on this list are liable for military service. The method, manner, time or times, and place or places of such determination will be prescribed by the president in regulations to be issued hereafter.

Physical Tests First.

After the drawing the local boards will make the physical examination of the men whose names are drawn. Then the board will take up the matter of exemption claims. The date of the physical examinations will be fixed as follows:

For approximately the first third of the list, the morning of the fifth day following the mailing of the notice; for approximately the next third of the list, the morning of the sixth day following the mailing of the notice; and for the remaining names on the list, the morning of the seventh day following the mailing of the notice. However, any person who, when called, is temporarily absent from the jurisdiction of the board by which he was called, or who is prevented by sickness from reporting for physical examination at the time fixed in the notice in his case, may report for physical examination on or before the tenth day after the mailing of the notice.

The regulations make it clear that the statement of the registration card of any person that exemption is claimed shall not be construed or considered as the presentation of a claim for exemption. These claims must be made in the form of affidavits to the local exemption board.

These affidavits must be filed by the one subject to draft, his wife, mother, or other closest relative, and each one must give every detail as to name, age, and so on.

In the case of the claim of exemption because of dependents, this affidavit must be supported by the affidavits of two heads of families residing within the district in which the local board has jurisdiction. These affidavits must show that the makers are personally acquainted with both the claimant for exemption and the one dependent upon them, that they know the exact financial status of the family, and that they know the income of the family is from the labor of the claimant, and not from investments or securities.

Issue of Certificates.

Upon these and other affidavits the local board will issue certificates of exemption to all those whom it exempts.

The local boards will certify to the district boards the names of all persons drawn and not discharged or exempted.

The local board shall also file with the district board the exemption claims and action taken upon them.

Appeals may be taken from the final decisions of the local board to the district board, either by the person who has been called or by the person who filed the claim for exemption or discharge in respect of such person or by the government.

The district boards shall be notified to assemble by the United States marshal and shall organize when a majority of the members are present.

Case to District Board.

After the closing of proofs to any particular case of appeal from the local board the district board shall decide the case and shall notify the person of the decision. If the decision is against the person in whose behalf it is made, such person stands as called for military service. If the decision of the board is that the person should be discharged, it shall issue the person a certificate to that effect.

The president is authorized to affirm, modify, or reverse any decision of a district board.

LOCAL BOARDS TO GET DRAFT CARDS AT ONCE

Following President Wilson's proclamation of the automatic exemptions the local exemption boards got busy yesterday and nearly all had qualified by night.

The eighty-six Chicago boards, with a few exceptions, took the oath and perfected their organizations with the election of presidents and clerks. Beginning today they will buckle down to the work of listing the men.

Chief Clerk Dennis J. Egan of the election board will be ready this morning to complete the work of the registration board by turning over the cards to the several exemption boards.

Most of the exemption boards, waiting for instructions, have not prepared for today's task or provided proper protection for the registration cards.

Vaults or safes for the keeping of the cards are deemed imperative. Some of the boards have not as yet secured headquarters. To all of these the word went out to establish central headquarters immediately and secure a safe or strong box for the cards.

The instructions from the provost marshal in Washington are that the local boards shall immediately prepare from the cards four lists of the names. On each list the names are to be numbered serially in red ink, to correspond with the numbers on the cards.

One list is to go to Washington. Another will be forwarded to Adj. Gen. Dickson. One copy will be posted in the district headquarters and the fourth list is to be retained by the board in carrying on their work. This may be completed by Saturday night.

It is expected that those entitled to exemption under the president's proclamation will not be eliminated before they have been called before the board in the regular order of the names selected at Washington.

10 DIE, UNKNOWN NUMBER MISSING, IN GORGE PLUNGE

Disagree Over Warning That Tracks Were Weakened.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 2.—The death list of the trolley wreck on the Gorge road on Sunday afternoon was unchanged today. There are ten known dead, three persons are missing and probably dead, and from six to sixteen believed missing.

There is much disagreement over the number of passengers on the wrecked car. Meanwhile the cash register has not been produced.

Disagree Over Warning.

There also is disagreement over the warning given the Gorge route before the accident regarding the failing in of the tracks. It now is asserted that such warning was given, but the line officials claim they acted as quickly as possible. The men who telephoned the alarm say that from fifteen to twenty minutes' warning was given, enough time to have saved the car, even though no official thought of shutting off the electrical power.

J. William O'Brien, assistant district attorney of Niagara county, today arranged with Coroner Dunville to begin an inquest tomorrow afternoon in police court chamber. The public service commission also has begun an inquiry into the cause of the disaster.

LONG A RESIDENT HERE.

Miss Bessie M. Raftery, one of the victims of the Sunday accident on the Gorge railway at Niagara falls, was for twenty years an employé of the International Harvester company in Chicago. A postcard mailed on the day of her death from Niagara was received yesterday by Misses Helen and Frances Raftery, her nieces, 1122 Leland avenue.

"We were notified of our aunt's death Sunday night," Miss Helen Raftery said, "and Thomas J. Raftery, her brother, left at once for Niagara to bring the body home. The interment will be in St. Louis."

USE SCHOOL FOR ALL, MARGARET WILSON URGES

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—With Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, presiding, Americanization forum day had a fitting climax at Washington Irving High school tonight. Incidentally the celebration marked the opening of that schoolhouse as a community center.

Mayor Mitchel pledged municipal support to the movement, which has for its object the use of school buildings as gathering places for discussions of civic, state, and national subjects.

Miss Wilson outlined the plan in detail, urging the community to organize. She advised the appointment of a committee of twenty-five to ask the school board for the use of the building, then the formation of an association with the school principal, preferably, at its head.

EXEMPTIONS

Here Are Regulations Issued by President Wilson Covering the Selective Draft.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—(Special.)—The regulations covering the draft primarily exempt these classes:

Officers of the United States and of the several states and territories and the District of Columbia.

Regularly ordained ministers of religion and students of divinity preparing for the ministry on May 18, 1917.

Persons already in the military or naval service of the United States.

Subjects of Germany residing in this country and all other resident aliens who have not taken out their first papers.

Upon investigation by the local exemption boards the following classes may be exempted at the discretion of that board:

Custom house clerks.

County and municipal officers.

Persons employed in transmission of the mails.

Employés of arsenals, navy yards, and armories of the United States government.

Steamship pilots, mariners actually employed in sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States.

Any married man whose wife or child is solely dependent upon his labor for support.

Any son of a widow solely dependent upon his labor for support.

The father of a motherless child or children under 16 years of age solely dependent upon his labor for support.

Brother of a child or children under 16 years of age who has or have neither father nor mother and is or are solely dependent upon his labor for support.

Any person who is a member of a well recognized religious sect organized or existing before May 18, 1917, whose creed forbids its members to participate in war.

All persons morally deficient.

In addition to these the president is authorized by act of congress to exclude or discharge "persons engaged in industries, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency."

ENDEAVORERS ALL ASKED TO AID SOME WAY IN WAR

Universal patriotic service by the members of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor, representing 100 denominations and 4,000,000 members, is urged by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union.

"Universal patriotic service is not necessarily universal military service but service of some kind in the army of relief for a suffering world," he said.

"This patriotic service should embrace food production, food economy, Red Cross work of various kinds, help in the hospitals, or the furnishing of supplies. If the proportion of recruits in the United States equals that in the societies in Canada, the United States will furnish 400,000 soldiers."

The Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church, numbering 250,000 members in 20,000 chapters, has been appealed to by its general secretary, the Rev. Wilbur P. Sheridan, whose headquarters are 740 Rush street, Chicago, to do its part in war preparations.

RISK MEN FAVOR U. S. INSURANCE TO ALL FIGHTERS

Urge Legislation Now to Carry Out Plan for Soldiers.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Insurance by the government itself of the insurance that is to be given to every man in the country's fighting forces was approved today by more than a hundred prominent insurance company officials in conference at the treasury department. Legislation to carry such a plan into effect will be asked of congress at this session by the administration.

Creation of a bureau of service insurance or extension of the present war risk bureau to undertake the work probably will be proposed. The details will be worked out by a committee of insurance men, cooperating with Secretary McAdoo and officials of the war, navy, and commerce departments and of the council of national defense.

The insurance officials who came to the treasury today at Mr. McAdoo's invitation voted, 103 to 4, in favor of having the government act as its own insurance company. They told the secretary that they have to charge heavy rates for war insurance, and that they are not eager to handle this business, as they have no precedent figures upon which to compute risks.

Many of the companies represented offered the use of their machinery for handling the government's insurance business and the services of their experts in the guidance of governmental activities.

GROCERS ENLIST IN A LEAGUE TO CONSERVE FOOD

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—The National Wholesale Grocers' association has enlisted in Herbert C. Hoover's food conservation army.

Through a war service council appointed by the grocers, the association is cooperating with the government in maturing plans for elimination of waste in the handling of foodstuffs and in other plans for conservation.

Food administration, in the opinion of the wholesale grocers, it was disclosed today, does not mean either restriction or derangement of present industrial conditions, but will merely entail readjustment.

A few of the ways in which the wholesale grocers have resolved to cooperate in war work and food conservation are as follows:

To take a census of employés of military age and plan in advance, so far as possible, for their replacement by men not of military age, or by women, in the event that the men are called to the service of the nation.

To help conserve the supply of tin plate by packing coffee and other food products in containers other than tins where tin is not absolutely necessary.

Recommend in the public interest that the practice of the consumer of buying in excessive quantities for hoarding purposes be discouraged.

To encourage the idea of the department of agriculture that communities, so far as possible, consume home grown and home produced foods and goods, thereby helping to relieve the congestion prevailing on the railroads.

Ship Yard Workers, 1,000, Go on Strike in Hoboken

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—The strike of shipyard workers for an increase from $3.95 to $4.80 a day began today in Hoboken. More than a thousand in the yards of Tietjen & Lang, W. and A. Fletcher & Co., and the Consolidated Iron company walked out. Three thousand four hundred men remained at work. Tonight it was reported from South Brooklyn that 1,800 of the 5,000 employés of the Robbins Dry Dock company had gone on strike.

SHRAPNEL

In organizing signal troops for the army a serious shortage of telegraph operators has been encountered. For the battalions now authorized in the central department there are needed a minimum of 600 telegraphers. Only 150 have been enlisted.

Means to enroll the 5,000 or more retail merchants in Chicago in a movement to facilitate war economy will be discussed today in the Hotel Morrison by the Chicago Retailers' association.

Aerial bombs will be dropped from a hydro-aeroplane manned by members of the United States naval reserve aviation corps during the sham battle at Great Lakes on July 5.

—Stephen Decatur.

ESTABLISH PERMANENT DEFENSE.

A Japanese statesman has just permitted himself a piece of candor for which the American people should be grateful if wise enough to heed it.

He expressed gratification at the coöperation in the present war which was possible between his country and the United States, but he reminded his fellow countrymen that trouble might be expected after the war is over.

Unfortunately there prevails in the United States an influential expectation that war will be banished from this earth with the coming of the next peace. The Japanese are not holders of this theory. They do not look upon war as we do, and they keep in mind the grounds of friction existing in foreign relations and do not hide them behind a rosy curtain of Utopian hope. A comparison of American action and Japanese in the present war should be helpful to Americans not fuddled by sentimentality. Japan has been in the war from the start. Its government has made repeated assertions of loyalty to the cause of the allies. Its public men have upon all appropriate occasions expressed Japan's solidarity with the liberal nations united against Germany. But Japan has made no sacrifices, and shows no disposition to make them. She has taken Germany's concession of Shangtau and Germany's islands, and there is little likelihood of her giving them up, except in exchange for equal values elsewhere. She has profited immensely by war supplies to her allies. She has been perhaps the only nation in any way involved in the war which is likely to emerge from the war with a large net profit. Yet, commenting on the suggested use of Japanese shipping for transporting American troops to Europe, the minister of communication is quoted as saying that "Japan would be willing to assist the allies within limits which would not put Japan to any serious disadvantage."

In other words, Japanese policy is concerned exclusively and resolutely with the welfare of Japan. During the war she has not only not suffered, she has gained territory, maritime power, and a great wealth in trade. When peace comes her financial condition will be of great strength, her merchant marine expanded, her grip on Manchuria and Mongolia strengthened, her industry and commerce enlarged and fortified, her splendid army intact, her navy increased. She is already a great power, and she will be much greater, both positively and relatively, after the war.

Now, we may go on with the fatuous optimism of pacifists, nursing their comfortable notion that we can protect ourselves from aggression by talk, or we can rely upon the proposals for a league to enforce peace. But if we do so we shall not save ourselves from war or contribute to the world's peace. We shall have two alternatives: we can resolve all differences now existing on Japan's terms, or we can meet her in war at her convenience. We can back down or fight.

The fate of weak nations has been written in letters of blood across Europe. It appears on every page of man's history. We may pray and work for peace, for an organization of nations to enforce peace, for a federation of the world, or what you will. But the law of the strong must be obeyed. Only dreamers deny this. The American people must meet the conditions of reality or go down.

Between a strong America and a strong Japan there is good hope of peaceful relations. But as between a weak America and a strong Japan there is none.

If American labor wants Japanese competition at home, if the country wants another race problem in its vitals, if the America of today sees so little into the future that she is willing to surrender to Japan full mastery of the Pacific, then let us shut our eyes to the lessons of this war and pay no attention to the plainly apparent current of world events in the east. If not, let us understand that we must establish our defense on land and sea and make it good until the conditions of the world have changed, not before. We are now training a large army. That will guard us for a time. But it will return to civil life when war is over, existing as a reserve for a few years, no more. What we must have, as THE TRIBUNE has urged constantly, is a permanent system of national defense, which can have but one foundation —universal training of citizens in time of peace, universal service in war. And the time to establish that system is now. The Chamberlain bill should not be shelved.

There is some objection to the competent prosecution of this war that bases itself upon the above considerations. This objection may be sincere and patriotic, but it cannot be accepted as timely or well founded. In the first place, the United States has cast the die. It has entered the war and any one who counsels holding our men and ships out of the conflict is either foolish or disingenuous or cowardly, or all three. The American people are not quitters. They have common sense enough to appreciate the advice of Polonius to his son. If we do not exactly beware of entrance to a quarrel we at least know enough, being in, to bear ourselves so that our adversary may beware of us. There is but one thing to do now that we have engaged in war—that is to fight with all our might. Those who counsel a passive policy of preparation, who ask us to wait until our allies win or lose without us, are giving aid and comfort to the enemy, are counseling a policy offensive to our self-respect and perilous to our future as well as our present safety.

It is to be hoped this insidious weakening of the national spirit will cease, and at once. The nation is at war, and whether an American thinks it was well to fight now or later or not at all it is his duty to support the government whole-heartedly. The possibilities of future friction with Japan should not be made a shield for those who wish America's weakness to assist Germany's victory or to mitigate her defeat. Public men or newspapers or organizations which encourage or express disaffection after war is declared are making themselves responsible for unnecessary waste of American lives and the possible humiliation of our country. That responsibility is going to be brought home, and as the casualty lists appear and the war drags on the reckoning of it will be heavy.

SAFETY LAST.

There are few hazards in life that are greater than our own lack of efficient foresight. We assume that even a layman could have seen there was danger the Christopher Columbus would strike that steel tower on the edge of the Milwaukee river. But if anybody saw it nothing was done about it. We would rather take a sporting chance than go to any great trouble to avert a catastrophe.

The trolley car disaster at Niagara is apparently another case of the same kind. If the line had been properly patrolled it seems clear the car would have been stopped before it reached the fatal embankment.

Investigations are being made in Niagara and Milwaukee. We love to investigate—after the damage is done. Unless an investigation is imbued with tragedy, unless human life has already been sacrificed to our incompetence, we find the business dull and uninteresting.

For all the ordinary concerns of life the reactions of force on material or vice versa are pretty well understood. It is simply a matter of physics and mathematics to eliminate the elements of danger. But we seem to prefer to muddle through rather than think things out in advance.

Even after our hysterical investigations we keep on muddling through. After the Eastland disaster it was pretty generally agreed that there ought to be radical reforms in the steamboat inspection service. Has anybody heard of the reforms being made? Isn't it quite possible that if the inspection service was efficient the Milwaukee accident would not have occurred?

DOING THE SOLDIER GOOD.

Mr. Gibbons, reporting the landing of the American troops in France, makes the following historic record: "As the last bar (of the national anthem) was finished and while the ship still was fifty feet from the quayside, a soldier leaned over the railing and cupping his hands about his lips, shouted this serious request for information:

"'Say, do they let enlisted men into saloons here?'"

Perhaps history will turn this into some bit of sentimental rhetoric. Posterity given to prohibition may have to have it translated. But we like it just as it is.

At home meanwhile, many worthy people are busying themselves on plans to protect the American soldier from himself. The latest report is of an attempt to prohibit any soldier in uniform from smoking a cigaret. Whether this idea is insidiously sown by influences bound to make the war as unpopular as possible we cannot say, but it is not necessary to look elsewhere than to our own simon pure American passion for regulating other people's habits.

There are many people who will keep themselves busy at home arranging how the man who is going to risk his life for their country must comport himself. Doubtless they will object to his smoking, drinking and reading profane or frivolous literature. But we hope that common sense or some sense of proportion or some sense of consistency will protect the American soldier who is supposed to be bunt on a mission of liberation from being the victim of petty puritanic autocracy imposed by a minority of ladies and gentlemen who are remaining snugly at home.

THE LOST ART OF RUNNING AWAY.

As the selective draft proceeds there will be rigid investigation of bodies and brains, but not of hearts. The timid—the disloyal, even—will be swept into the ranks. Which is just as it should be. Cowards or no, traitors or no, any riffraff with ordinary intelligence and health will make excellent fighting material. At all events, it will not run away. Nobody does, in these days, for reasons!

Although a man may think twice about going up in an airplane, he will stick to that airplane like grim death, once you get him aloft, and troops feel a good deal that way about trenches. A trench is their protection. Abominable it may be, and malodorous and ratridden, yet it is the better of two evils. Outside it damnation reigns.

Then, too, there is no convenient haven a man can head for if he runs. He cannot say, as of yore, "Dear comrades, this is getting uncomfortable, so let us step over to yonder nice safe place!" The nice safe place is three miles in the rear, with shells strewing demolition all along the route.

Thus it comes about that the most terrifying of all wars makes less demand on personal loyalty and courage than any before it. No one runs away because no one can. And yet both loyalty and courage meet their test. In a hand to hand scrimmage what a temptation to get one's self made prisoner! Or, if a whole company is disloyal, what a temptation to let the enemy through! Those things have happened—on the eastern front especially. That they will happen among Americans is inconceivable. We shall have mighty few disloyal soldiers and mighty few cowards. They will soon be found out, and gerrymandered, and scared into courage and patriotism. Advice to such? Make a noise like a hero.

THE CITY OF DISAPPOINTMENT.

[From the Terre Haute Tribune.]

The troubles of the Chicago school board are not surprising. Also Chicago can prepare to tolerate some such kind of situation as long as politicians strain to use the school system of Chicago as the nucleus for a city political machine. Mayor Thompson is no rare species. Political schemers have been placed in positions of trust in the Chicago schools under other mayors.

While the disastrous results were never so obvious as they are at present, and while the boldness of the schemers hardly compared with some of the exploits the taxpayers of Chicago recently have had to confront, the pernicious influence of politics long has been evident in the Chicago schools, and the marve' is that the institution has weathered the tempest as well as it has. The school situation reflects conditions in Chicago generally.

The city affords the greatest spectacle of municipal mismanagement on the continent. In her transportation, in her housing of her population, in public improvements, in public safety, in her return to the mass of people for money levied in taxes, Chicago falls deplorably below the standard of American cities.

The mid-west metropolis, as some one has said, needs to wash behind her ears in a civic way, and to take the counsel of better balanced men who know what chaos and mischief follow partisanship in the basic affairs of any community. Chicago is a dreadful example for other communities in her zone of influence. She is infected civicly, and ought to be quarantined.

JINGLES FROM MYTHLAND.

Jason and Medea.

In ancient Colchis, so the myth is told,
Deep in a grove there hung a fleece of gold.
Enormous bulls, refreshed with glowing coke,
A female dragon, singed from head to feet,
Fed on polemics, belched a sizzling heat.
The fleece secured, the king, Æetes reigned
Strong in a land where peace and wealth obtained.

To Thessaly we shift the changing scene;
The dashing Jason occupies the screen.
Not unfamiliar with the statesman's craft,
He scents afar the universal draft.
With fine indifference to the slings of Fate,
His rotting yacht he tenders to the state.
His single hope, to raid some hostile shore;
His one request, to rank as commodore.

To Colchis come, young Jason promptly flirted.
Æetes' child, at first, was disconcerted.
"Ah, there, me dear," he wittily addressed her;
Oh, shameless wight! he played the villain's part;
To gain the fleece, he'd crack a woman's heart!
But nature made the female heart elastic;
The female conscience, too, is often plastic.
The wily maid, resolved to hook a man,
Dallying the while, evolved a subtle plan.
The bulls were sent to walk an urban beat,
With mystic words Medea then pretended
By magic arts her champion she defended.
Success assured, she bade him play the game,
Then should he have whate'er his love might claim.

He found the fleece, and then—his ardor wilted.
He kept on running—she, of course, was jilted.

Set are the oars, alert the eager ship;
The buoyant Argo sniffs the homeward trip.
On Jason's face there plays a flickering grin:
How soft it was to take Medea in!
When bing! and bang! right there upon the deck,
Medea shows and drapes his twitching neck,
And murmurs sweetly in his cowering ear,
"I'll marry you in Thessaly, my dear."

Then Jason saw—it gave his heart a twinge—
The yellow pelt now had a lemon tinge. M. V. K.

Just Like a Man.

Sir: Intrigued by the ladies' latest proof of their right to enjoy the ballot, their sheeplike adoption of the practice of carrying large cretonne bags on their arms, I see to my so-called better half, I see: "Seems to me the women are running this economy thing into the ground, carrying their wash to the laundry to cut down wagon expense." To which she responded: "Those aren't laundry bags, you big silly; the women carry their war-knitting in them."

INVESTIGATION IS VEXATION.

The price of grub still upward goes,
The cost of shoes I'd hate to state;
But says the guy who thinks he knows,
"Somebody will investigate."

Let meat and eggs and bread and pie,
And all the stuff we ever ate,
Go climbing upward to the sky;
Somebody will investigate.

Full many a hope stirs in my breast,
As headlines bold vociferate:
The barons, trusts, and all the rest
Somebody will investigate.

Commissions then begin their fuss,
At length their findings they relate;
But any good that comes to us,

Rather Warm, Isn't It?

Sir: Greetings to Richard XI. He will doubtless gauge our temper more accurately if we explain that we once referred to a certain man as a preacher who would never get to heaven, which qualified as some jolt till we further stated that on the day he is missed he'll be found hustling down the road to hell with a bucket of water and a dipper, the point being that the truly religious man is not so much worried over what happens to his own soul as he is over what happens to the other fellow. We are not exactly of religious habit ourself, but having spent much profitable time in the arid sections of the social world squashing centipedes and tarantulas, and being of an age at which one may expect at any time to be going again where water is scarce and the dippers few, our future pleasure will be found in the hope of trailing the reverend doctor, trusting that we may be able to get our asbestos bucket at least as far as the door. Only too glad to meet you, Richard. Cleaning up hell is a man's job. Bring a dipper and a gun and a cake of soap.

SONGS.

Were she only kind as fair,
Happy, happy night were I,
Dancing, dancing everywhere,
Like to sephyrs in the sky.

Were she only half so sweet,
Or to beauty were I blind,
These my plodding weary feet,
Just for joy, could race the wind!

If love, if beauty is a dream,
If life's a dream, my dear;
If this fair world doth only seem
A bright and rolling sphere,
What need to mourn? What need to fret?
What need to shed a tear?
Let mystics dream; let us forget
Their dreams, for ours, my dear.

SENSIBLE BABY FEEDING.

DR. VARDEN contributes to the Southern Medical Journal a number of sensible ideas on simple points in baby feeding. First, he tells us what we have been told so many times before—that very much the best food for a baby is mother's milk, and that no mother is justified in weaning her baby until it is reasonably certain that her milk is disagreeing and that cow's milk will agree better. Even if it is necessary to wean the baby the mother should supply as much milk as she can and as long as she can. Even when only a few ounces of milk can be drawn during the day nursing should be kept up.

He says "Human milk in the smallest amounts is helpful to the child for digestion and nutrition." Sometimes the mother whose milk supply has seemed to fail under worry will be reëstablished when, having given a few bottles of modified milk with success, her worry subsides.

If cow's milk is to be used it is probably best to boil it or at least to pasteurize it. Rarely is the use of raw milk permissible in the southern states in the summer, fall, and late spring.

In the discussion of Dr. Varden's paper two-thirds of the eminent physicians participating agreed with the statement that cow's milk should either be boiled or pasteurized. The great objection to the use of boiled milk is the fact that it produces a mild form of scurvy. This can be prevented by giving orange juice, prune juice, apple juice, or potato.

If necessary the use of orange juice can be begun before the baby is one month of age. While orange juice is probably the best preventive of scurvy either of the fruit juices mentioned (or potatoes for older children) can be substituted with satisfactory results.

Dr. Varden does not put lime water in the diluted milk unless there is a special reason for doing so. This is the prevailing practice now. The old custom of putting lime water in baby's milk has been discontinued.

When a baby is transferred from the breast to the bottle the milk mixture should be less rich than that given for the age. For instance, a 6 months' old baby should be put on a formula proper for a 4 months' old baby, or a fifteen pound baby on one suited to a ten or twelve pound baby.

When the weather gets hot the richness and the quantity of the milk mixture should be cut down. The amount of sugar can be lessened with advantage, since sugar is a source of heat. The proportion of fat can be lessened, since fat produces heat. In fact, it may be advisable for a short while during very hot weather to use skim milk or fresh buttermilk instead of whole sweet milk in making the mixture.

No milk should be fed to a baby unless it is fresh, clean, and cold. Baby's milk must be kept below 50 and better still below 45.

CAUSE OF SLEEPINESS.

E. M. G. writes: 1. What is cause of sleepiness in a person over middle age when they get eight hours' sleep? 2. A spot on the skin, size of a half dollar, best there three months. It is not sore, but excessively itching on removing clothes. There are similar spots under the knees. What is it? What would be a good cure? 3. What is a good tonic for the blood? Would this correct the above trouble? 4. Is there a cure for epilepsy? Is it a brain disease? What is the cure and what is the cause? 5. I have a bad feeling in the back of head when reading or looking steadily at anything. What causes it?

REPLY.

1. It may be caused by overeating, lack of exercise, or by bad ventilation. Too much sleep causes sleepiness.

2. These spots are probably psoriasis spots. You should see a skin specialist and make such changes in your habits as he may direct.

3. The condition of your blood has nothing to do with this eruption. No blood tonic will affect it either way.

4. Some persons are cured of epilepsy. Many are not. Epileptics do best in epileptic colonies.

5. I judge you need properly fitting glasses.

GALLSTONES.

"Constant Reader" writes: What are the early symptoms of gallstones? What treatment do you advise? What is the real cause of this disease, and is a person under 30 years liable to be affected?

REPLY.

Intermittent pain near the border of the ribs on the right side. Intermittent tenderness and soreness in the same location. Dyspepsia, belching, in some cases jaundice. In most cases no treatment is necessary. A diet containing but little fats is advised. Infection of the gall bladder is the principal cause. Eating too much fat, obesity, and the easy life are secondary but important causes. Gallstones seldom form in persons under 30.

THIS YOUTH IS HARD LEVER.

J. O. T. writes: "At the place I am at work they are all affected with toothache and decayed teeth. Our cook is the worst. In preparing food she licks spoons, knife, and fork. Am I not in danger of getting decayed teeth? I don't use tobacco or liquor. I am 20 years old. Is there anything I can use to prevent it?"

REPLY.

You are in danger of getting something worse than decayed teeth. You can keep your teeth in condition by eating apples, corn bread and toast, by rinsing your mouth after each meal, cleaning your teeth with a toothpick after each meal, brushing them with brush, water and powder once a day, having them cleaned twice a year, and having them filled as required. This will suffice even though your fellows have bad teeth. A cook who licks spoons, knives, and forks is liable to spread typhoid, dysentery, and syphilis.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1917: By the Brentwood Co.]

GREAT BRITAIN'S premier yacht club, the Royal Yacht squadron, has lost one of its most popular members and King George one of the favorite officers of his household through the death of Capt. Charles Cunninghame-Graham of the royal navy, who has just been laid to rest on the island of Inchmahome, in the Perthshire lake of Mentieth, where so many of his ancestors sleep.

His tomb is under the shadow of the ruined walls of an ancient Augustinian priory dating from 1238, while on the neighboring island of Inchtalla are the ruins of the castle of the Earls of Menteith, where Mary Queen of Scots made her home in early childhood.

Charles Cunninghame-Graham's name will be for all time connected with the Royal National Lifeboat institution, of which he was one of the pillars. So universally was his authority on the subject recognized, both at home and abroad, that a number of foreign governments invoked his assistance in the organization of their lifeboat services, while the high state of efficiency attained by the institution in the United Kingdom and the immense sums of money it has gathered in through subscriptions, donations, and bequests are largely due to his efforts and to his enthusiasm.

Although some twelve years older than King George, they were shipmates in the navy—Cunninghame-Graham as a lieutenant and the king as a midshipman—and the friendship then formed remained close ever afterwards. It was through King George that Edward VII. got to know and to like the captain so well that he appointed him one of his gentlemen in waiting, and evidence of the regard in which the present monarch held the captain was shown by the latter's frequently having royal residences in Scotland and in the Isle of Wight placed at his disposal.

The captain, whose mother was a sister of the fourteenth Lord Elphinstone, leaves one son, now serving at the front, to inherit his own name and rights, as well as those of his elder brother, Robert Cunninghame-Graham, the Laird of Ardoch, who is a childless widower, so that the house of Cunninghame-Graham will not become extinct on the laird's death, as I have seen more than once stated in print.

The laird and his nephew—that is to say, the son of his brother just dead—stand in a most peculiar position with regard to the crown, for were their rights to the earldoms of Menteith and of Airth, now in abeyance, to be acknowledged by the committee of privileges of the house of lords, to whom the laird has more than once submitted his claims, it would be equivalent to an admission that they would be the lawful heirs to the thrones of Scotland and of England were it not for the so-called act of settlement, which two centuries ago gave the British crowns to the Hanoverian house of Guelph in preference to less remote kinsfolk of the Stuart kings.

The fact of the matter is that the laird of Ardoch and his nephew are descended from Robert II. of Scotland. That monarch was first married to a girl named Elizabeth Mure, of Rowallan. He had no children by her after his marriage. But there were eight born out of wedlock. At no time previous to the reformation would such a marriage, even with a papal dispensation, have been held by the law of Scotland to have legitimized the birth of offspring previously born. Yet it is from these illegitimate children of King Robert II. of Scotland and Elizabeth Mure of Rowallan that the Stuarts and the Guelphs who have since reigned in Scotland and Great Britain are descended.

After Elizabeth Mure's death King Robert married the widowed countess of Moray. Their union was in perfectly good order, and David, Earl of Menteith and of Airth, was its lawful issue. Before dying Robert II. executed a settlement entailing the crown of Scotland on the sons of both his wives, according to priority, and their male heirs. Thus, even admitting King Robert's unwarrantable legitimization of his elder children, the fourth earl of Manteith should, by virtue of this entail, have succeeded to the throne of Scotland as next male heir, on the death of James V., instead of Mary Queen of Scots, who was beheaded by Queen Elizabeth of England at Fotheringay castle. This fourth earl of Menteith was a prisoner in England at the time of the accession of Mary Queen of Scots, which may account for his making no claim to the Scottish throne.

The first of the lords of Menteith to put forward his pretensions to the throne not only of Scotland but also to that of England was the seventh earl of the line, who, according to contemporary history, was "the proudest and grandest Scottish peer of his day." The great Sir Francis Bacon, in his capacity as lord high chancellor and lord keeper of the great seal, reported, in an official document, which is still on record, to James I., that the earl of Menteith's "claim to the crown is so just in point of law that all that is needed to sit him on the throne is a sharp sword."

Bacon's successor on the woolsack made a similar report to Charles I., and it was in consequence of these warnings that the latter monarch fought, persecuted, and finally reduced the seventh earl of Menteith to complete ruin, after charging him with high treason for publicly stating that he, the earl, had "the bluest blood in Scotland," and that Charles was "beholden to him for the crown."

The son of this seventh earl of Menteith was murdered in Montrose's camp by Stewart Ardvoirlich, as related in Sir Walter Scott's novel "A Legend of Montrose."

The ninth earl was so destitute that he became literally a mendicant, begging from door to door. He was known as "the beggar earl," and was found, lying dead of exposure and want, in a ditch by the roadside at Bonhill, in Dunbartonshire, in 1763. Then the earldom went into abeyance between his two sisters, and it is from the only one of them that had children that are descended Robert Cunninghame-Graham, the laird of Ardoch, and his nephew, the son of that Capt. Cunninghame-Graham of the royal navy who has just been gathered to his fathers.

The ablest genealogists of the United Kingdom and the royal colleges of heralds of England and of Scotland have admitted that the laird is able to trace in a direct and unbroken line his descent from the earls of Menteith, and it is on the strength of these opinions, official and private, and of documentary evidence of the most incontrovertible character that the laird some years ago put forward his claim to be the fifteenth earl of Menteith.

The committee of privileges of the house of lords, to which all claims for peerages are referred by the crown, is proverbially slow, and has had the matter under consideration ever since. Nor is there any likelihood of an early decision.

DROPPED HIS POLICY.

Chicago, June 24.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—In the Friend of the Insured department this morning I see an inquiry regarding the Royal Arcanum that very much interests me. Until Jan. 1, 1917, I had a policy for $3,000, but the assessments were so heavy I had to drop it. I am in my seventy-fourth year of age. As I interpret your reply, a member after he has passed the age of 70 should be entitled to receive something from the order. I was a member for thirty-six years. FENTON TINSLEY.

An older that does not maintain a legal reserve can grant old age benefits only when such benefits are provided as part of its plan of insurance, just like the death benefits. A surrender value implies that a member has a reserve accumulated to his credit, but this is not the case where a reserve has not been maintained. As a matter of fact, old members get their insurance at less than cost, and in societies where adequate rates have not been in force long enough to create mathematical reserves old members, instead of being entitled to surrender values, are carried in part by the younger members.

QUOTES INSURANCE REPORT.

Chicago, June 17.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Kindly let me know through your paper if the Belt Automobile Insurance company, El Paso, Ill., is reliable. MEDICO.

Best's "Insurance Reports" gives following figures on the Belt Automobile Fire Insurance association: Assets, $39,583; unpaid losses, $9,300; unearned premium deposits, $17,339; balance, or so-called surplus, $12,894. Included in the assets is $21,700 advanced by the attorney in fact, but this amount is not carried as a liability. This refers to the condition of the association on Jan. 1.

POLICIES AND DEBTS.

Chicago, June 15.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Can a creditor attach insurance policies for debt while a man is living or after his death if policy is made payable to his estate? Can they attach policy if made payable to his wife? A. B. C.

There is no reason why a life insurance policy that is payable to the insured's estate should not be subject to attachment and sale in satisfaction of judgment against the insured. A policy payable to the insured's wife is not subject to execution for debts of the insured. A policy payable to the estate cannot be seized by a judgment creditor after the insured's death. It becomes a part of the estate and all creditors share alike.

THINKS AMOUNT TOO LOW.

Chicago, June 26.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—I have a thousand dollar policy in a fraternal association. I am paying 80 cents a month and am afraid that this is too small an amount for a person taking this policy out at the age of 24 years. Would you kindly advise me if this is a safe proposition?
PEARL MAWE.

A member of an honestly managed fraternal gets the worth of his money in protection and to that extent an order may be safe even if the rates are inadequate for whole life insurance. Permanent insurance, however, cannot be given at inadequate rates. The American experience table of mortality indicates that a company able to earn 4 per cent per annum on its reserves must collect a net premium of $18.55 a year on a whole life policy issued at age 24 in order to meet its obligations in full without raising rates.

SHOWS GOOD SURPLUS.

Richmond, Ill., June 21.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Will you please state your opinion of the solvency of the Illinois Life Insurance company?
G. E. WEST.

The company in its statement of Jan. 1 reported assets of $12,950,909; capital and surplus, $1,117,816. That is, its assets exceed its obligations by the latter amount.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

CALL FOR THE BRAINY FEW.

Chicago, July 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Are we pressing this war with all possible vigor? I do not think so, but I may be wrong. When I enlisted I expected quick service in the field. I am not even receiving active training.

It seems to me that the national guard of Illinois could have been put under intensive training for war some time ago. If other plans are delayed at Washington the system used at state encampments might have been adopted temporarily so as to give the soldiers real training at the earliest moment.

I am a "rookie," ignorant and green as a gourd, but in one day I could get men and material with which to build a camp in which there would be no immediate danger of a serious sanitary problem. If tents are not to be had, simple frame structures roofed with tar paper would answer present needs. The cost would not be great. In fact, roof and floor would be enough. The men would be healthier if they slept in a shelter without walls.

If cities are to be built for soldiers in training this could be done later.

Even in a temporary camp running water and sewers could be provided quickly if the site were chosen near a small town provided with water and sewer systems.

Criticism is a bad thing, especially in a time of war. And it is especially absurd in a rookie who, although enlisted these many days, has not yet seen or handled a gun. But when it comes to criticism our literary generals and statesmen have marked the way. They have told us that our venerated revolutionary fathers were quitters and that a brainy few gave us liberty. All honor to the brainy few. May their tribe increase. We need a brainy few now—right now.

The reason there has not been a greater rush to enlist is the delay in using men who have volunteered. Men, seeing many regiments held waiting, do not feel the spur to enlist. Thousands of men who would have been accepted for service in old time wars are rejected. Yet false statistics are used to point false morals and adorn false tales.

Let statistics lie. The people are all right. Let the brainy few come to the front and deliver the goods or step out of the limelight. ROOKIE.

HE FEELS BETTER NOW.

Chicago, July 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—"Trim the menu to trim the kaiser." Such bunk! Such rot! I'll not trim my menu, and nobody else will trim my menu. If so, I'll do some trimming, too. And 10,000,000 Americans ought to say the same.

I'll not sign the pledge to show my loyalty to England. I am one of those Americans who do not owe Great Britain loyalty. As an American I refuse, absolutely refuse, to owe Great Britain loyalty, and there is nobody going to compel me to. I owe loyalty to the United States and none other. People that owe England loyalty are not Americans. At the very best they are miserably poor specimens of Americans.

I consider it a shame and disgrace that an American paper speaks of us and to us Americans as owing England loyalty. No, sir, not I!

Another thing—about those "Liberty bonds." Nice liberty, glorious liberty, when our large corporations compel their employés to buy Liberty bonds.

HENDERSON COUNTY ENLISTMENTS.

Oquawka, Ill., July 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The article in yesterday's paper regarding the quota, recruits furnished, deficit and excess, in the matter of enlistments in the regular army convinces me that there must be something wrong with the system of giving credits on the quota. Henderson county is charged with nineteen recruits in the quota, credited with one enlistment, leaving a deficit of eighteen.

As a matter of fact, nineteen or twenty boys from Oquawka alone have recently enlisted. I am not advised as to the rest of the county. Most of these boys have enlisted at Burlington, Ia., that being the nearest recruiting station, but their residence was at Oquawka and Henderson county should have credit with them. I have two sons. One enlisted in the marine corps at Detroit, he being in school at Ann Arbor. The other enlisted in the army at Urbana, Ill., where he was attending school. The legal residence of both boys is here, and Henderson county should have credit for their enlistments.

I think I am safe in saying that Henderson county has furnished more voluntary enlistments according to its population than any county in this section. In addition to the above, several boys from this county, the exact number of which I do not know, have enlisted in the national guard, some in this state and some at Burlington, Ia.

Chicago, July 3. — [Editor of The Tribune.]—The inconsistency of barring from Red Cross units going abroad all American women of German parentage—as well as Austrian, Bulgarian, and Turkish—is sufficient to make it inconsistent for all such women further to help the cause of Red Cross work.

My parents were Bohemians, both coming to this country very young, mother being but 6 years of age. Their early death completely severed as opportunity of even an acquaintance among those of their nationality, and our life and environment have been such as never to bring us in contact with Bohemians.

Within a day after we entered the war I offered my services to the Red Cross and since then have spent most of my spare moments knitting, often to the point of straining my eyes, all for the love of the cause. A sister in northern Idaho has gone miles and miles into lumber camps to secure Red Cross membership from the men there, and another sister, a nurse, passed the Red Cross examination at the time of the Mexican difficulty, and ever since has stood ready to serve the moment she might be called.

LAST HOURS OF GRAHAM BANK BARED IN COURT

Frank Says Continental Pressure Forced Closing; "Can Pay All."

Ralph R. Graham of the defunct bank of Graham & Sons, sitting before Frank T. Wean, referee in bankruptcy yesterday, shoved a hand down into his pocket, drew it out slowly, counted $4 in cash and swore that it was all the money he possessed in the world. Shortly before he testified, his mother, widow of Banker "Andy" Graham, dressed in widow's black, had told her story, after which she was excused.

Mrs. Graham on the stand had taken oath that she had stripped herself of the entire Graham fortune—thrown every dollar of it into the common fund—signing a binding agreement, which, she says, takes all of her property from her to meet the bank's obligations.

"I have believed that all that was the bank's was mine," she said, simply. "And now all that is mine is the bank's."

Story of Last Hours.

Frank Graham, another son, who gave the word that closed the bank, told in graphic detail the story of those last hours—how, suddenly as a bolt from the sky, the verdict came that shattered the family fortune. When his father died, he said, the Graham bank owed other banks $2,000,000. This debt, he testified, had been reduced in the last year to $755,000 owed to the Continental and Commercial National bank, adding, "We thought we were doing very nicely."

James Rosenthal, attorney for a group of creditors, questioned Frank Graham, who explained how a $350,000 cash deposit balance had been applied upon the note for $755,000, how payment of the rest of the note had been demanded, and how there was nothing else to do but to close when the Continental and Commercial refused to honor the Graham bank clearance check for $91,000.

Matter of Hours, He Says.

Frank Graham made clear his belief that if he had been given just a few hours, perhaps minutes, the bank would be open today. Questions by Attorney Rosenthal and answers by Mr. Graham follow verbatim:

Q.—When was the bank closed? A.—On Friday at approximately 12:25 or half past 12.

Q.—What was the cause of that? A.—The refusal of the Continental and Commercial National bank to extend our note.

Q.—What note did you have with the bank? A.—We had a note of $755,000.

Q.—Was your bank clearing through the Continental and Commercial? A.—No, sir.

Q.—How were you clearing the checks? A.—We were clearing by a special arrangement—with what is known as the early morning clearings through the Chicago Clearing House association. The check we signed to pay our clearings was drawn on the Continental National bank and payable to the order of the Chicago Clearing House association.

Balance in Continental.

Q.—And the checks that were cleared were charged up against that——? A.—Our balance in the Continental.

Q.—What was your balance in the Continental on the day you closed? A.—We had $310,000 that morning in the Continental, and in the regular course of business we sent over, I believe, $40,000 more, and the Continental took that balance and applied it on our note and left us when we closed without any balance in the Continental.

Q.—Had you any checks out on that? A.—Yes, sir; we had a check payable to the Chicago Clearing House association for $91,000.

Q.—Was that honored? A.—No, sir; the $91,000 check was returned unpaid.

Q.—Were there checks drawn against that $91,000? What was that check drawn for? A.—That check was payable to the Chicago Clearing House association to pay for our in-clearings on Friday.

Learns of Check Return.

Q.—When did you first learn that this check of $91,000 was not to be paid? A.—I learned definitely at about 24 minutes after 12.

Q.—In what way were you informed? A.—My brother, Ralph Graham, called me on the telephone and told me Mr. Waldeck had said he was going to return the check. He told me he had urged Mr. Waldeck not to do it but to give us a little time. He said Mr. Waldeck refused and told me I had better call him up.

How It Happened.

Q.—Yes. A.—I was in Roger Sullivan's office at the time. I immediately called Mr. Waldeck, urged him not to do it—that what we wanted was a little time—and called to his attention the fact of what it would mean. I urged him not to do it. I told him to hold the check until 1 o'clock at the least. Mr. Sullivan was unable in the morning to locate John P. Hopkins. He had been trying all morning. He knew where he would be for lunch. He had an engagement with him. And he was to see Mr. Hopkins to see if Mr. Hopkins would agree with him to assist us temporarily. Mr. Waldeck said he would not wait, and I said all right. I immediately called up Ralph and told him that I could do nothing with Mr. Waldeck and to close the bank immediately, in order that nobody would walk into that bank and deposit any money after we knew it was going to be closed; and at 25 minutes after 12, or just as quickly as I could get him on the telephone after talking to Mr. Waldeck and getting his ultimatum, my brother ordered the doors of the bank shut.

Had $450,000 on Hand.

Q.—You had a considerable amount of cash on hand at that time? A.—Yes, sir. We had $450,000 cash, total cash resources, when we opened that morning.

Q.—What did that consist of—cash? A.—Cash and checks on clearing house banks, which are cash resources.

Q.—And currency—how much did you have on hand? A.—I don't know just what the makeup was of the $450,000; $310,000 of it was in the Continental.

Q.—There was $140,000 cash there when the receiver took possession. A.—I noticed in the papers that was the case.

REFEREE WEAN—The reports in the papers show a number of things you know are not true. A.—Well, all I know is that it is all right and that everybody will get their money. That is absolutely the case. And we ought to have a lot left for the Grahams.

Asked Reynolds for Time.

Q.—When did you know that that $350,000, approximately, that was in the Continental and Commercial National bank was applied to the note of $750,000 held by the bank? A.—Mr. Reynolds called the loan at ten minutes to 10—about three or four minutes to 10. We told them we could not pay it. I did not tell him. My brother Ralph saw him first. He said: "We can't pay it. We must have a few days' time, anyway, to make arrangements. We can't pay this immediately. It is impossible for us to do it. Give us a little time. Don't call the loan. Give us an hour or two to pay it in. It is impossible." So he said he would give us until 10 o'clock. In the meantime we sent over that other $40,000. We had no idea in the world that the bank would be stopped that day until twenty-five minutes after 12; I had no notion, I did not consider they would call the loan and stop us like that.

Had Paid Back $1,900,000.

Q.—Had there been any talk about payment of that note right along before that? A.—In a general way. The note has been there for some time. We paid them back $1,200,000 in the last year. All we wanted was time to pay the balance.

Q.—What became of the life insurance your mother turned over to the bank when your father died? A.—The life insurance was put into Graham & Sons' bank.

Q.—How much was that? A.—An amount approximating $375,000, or some similar amount.

Q.—Was any money paid to the bank at that time of the proceeds of the life insurance, I mean to the Continental and Commercial bank? A.—Any of the proceeds of that life insurance?

Q.—Yes. A.—I believe there was.

Original Debt $2,000,000.

Q.—How much did Graham — Sons owe the Continental and Commercial bank at the time of your father's death, do you know? A.—Well, it was pretty close to $2,000,000.

Q.—And it was reduced from that amount to $750,000? A.—Can I ask my brother if he recalls what the amount was?

REFEREE WEAN—Why, surely.

THE WITNESS—What was about the amount we owed on May 1 to the Continental? RALPH GRAHAM—About $2,000,000 to the allied banks.

THE WITNESS—We owed about $2,000,000 in due banks—in accounts in due banks.

Q.—That was the Continental and Commercial bank and those banks that are affiliated with the Continental and Commercial National bank, is that it? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that was reduced gradually from that time on? A.—Just as fast as we could. We thought we were doing very well.

Q.—Your father died May 1, 1916? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did the Continental and Commercial National bank have any collateral on that note? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did that consist of? A.—The majority of the collateral was customers' notes, rediscounted to secure our note.

Q.—Can you tell just what the Continental and Commercial held of that different collateral? A.—About $900,000.

Q.—Nine hundred thousand dollars? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have stocks and bonds up with the Continental and Commercial bank? A.—With the present note of last Friday?

Q.—Yes. A.—If we did there was a very small amount. As I stated before, the majority of the collateral, 95 per cent of it, was those notes.

THE FAMILY AFFAIRS

So many persons crowded into the little room in the Monadnock building where Referee Wean usually hears bankruptcy proceedings that he at once adjourned to a courtroom in the federal building. There old women, red eyed and weeping, shook with sobs, old men, with hard hands and weathered and seamed faces, who had trusted everything they had to "Andy Graham's bank," sat in stiff rows.

Occasionally the white handkerchief of Mrs. Minnie F. Graham, "Andy's widow," would creep slowly and unostentatiously to her eyes. Once, when reading from the will of Andrew J. Graham, the attorneys came across these words:

"I bequeath to my beloved wife."

Mrs. Graham's form, brave until now, shook with a mighty sob, and the eyes of the boys glistened moistly. Mrs. of the boys glistened moistly.

Frank's Home Mortgaged.

Frank, who followed his mother on the stand, said he had been married seven years and that he bought the house where he now lives two years ago.

"It is worth $7,500," he said, "and has a mortgage of $5,000 on it. My wife owns 200 shares in the Perforated Mattress company. It was acquired through a gift from Sol I. Ginsburg to my mother who almost immediately transferred it to my wife. Mr. Ginsburg borrowed money from the bank in the past but owes nothing now.

"She has no other stocks or bonds, but has about $2,000 in cash given her at different times by me. I invested some of her money about ten months ago and made some profit, giving her the proceeds. This was about $3,500. She has no account at the bank but has a safety deposit box there, of the contents of which I have no knowledge.

He said she had one other safety box downtown. Mr. Graham was told to advise her not to touch the contents of them by Referee Wean at Mr. Rosenthal's suggestion.

"I carry about $150,000 in life insurance," Mr. Graham went on. "It has been in force about twelve years, since I was 20. I am perfectly willing for the receiver to see the contents of my safety deposit box. I am ready to accompany him to the bank to open it. Nothing of commercial value is in the box. I have no other safety deposit vault. I have borrowed nothing upon the policy, which is payable to my wife. I paid the last premium about three months ago. The policy costs about $1,200 to $1,400 a year.

"My wife pays her minor household bills out of my account. Her checks have been honored at the bank. I have an automobile which I never paid for. A friend turned it over to me. He said he would try to sell it to me. I have the car and the license and am ready to turn it over to any purchaser.

Ownership in Bank.

"I own one and a half shares of the 300 shares of capital stock of Graham & Sons' bank. Ralph also owns a share and a half. The other 297 shares are held in trust by me for my four brothers and myself. This includes Joseph, Jariath, Ralph, and John. The trust certificate, which is written in the form of a partnership agreement, is in the vaults of the bank and can be had by the receiver at any time.

"The Graham Safety Deposit company, organized twenty-eight years ago, is owned by Graham & Sons with the possible exception of a share or two held by the officers. The safety deposit company owns the building and lot. The property is merely occupied, not rented, by the bank.

Realty in Bank's Name.

"The real estate of the bank has been held in the name of the bank since my father's death. The declaration of trust signed by my mother gives absolutely all the real estate held in the name of my mother over to the bank. Some of the real estate property of the bank has been sold since my father's death. One piece brought $14,000 a few months ago.

"My mother has nothing except what she acquired by the will of my father. All this, including an individual half interest in a patent ventilated mattress device, has been turned over to the bank by my mother."

When Ralph Graham took the stand, besides the $4 in cash that he said was all the money he had, he fixed his worldly possessions at his clothes and an automobile. He said his wife owned a few stocks, of small value, which had been given to his father for services rendered.

MRS. GRAHAM ON STAND

Mrs. Graham, when questioned on the stand, showed that she did not know a great deal about the business affairs of the bank or of her real estate.

"The boys will know about that," she would often say, or, "my lawyer can answer that question."

"You have an interest in the bank?" Attorney John D. Black asked her.

"O, yes, I've had for years," she said. "I don't know what it is. Mr. Graham just gave it to me. I understood that it was all to go to the boys in time. His ambition was all for them."

Attorney Rosenthal asked her if she owned the real estate which has figured in the case.

"I supposed it was mine," she replied. "But I supposed it also was the bank's. I have signed a trust agreement to show that it is bank property."

Asked about the $400,000 life insurance money left by her husband, she said:

"That also was turned over to the bank."

At the close of yesterday's proceedings adjournment was taken until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial bank, and Herman Waldeck, vice president, were in court to answer to subpœnas and were told by Referee Wean to return on Thursday morning.

Declaration of Trust in Which Mrs. Graham Gives Property.

The declaration of trust which Mrs. Minnie P. Graham signed, depriving herself of all right to her property for the benefit of the depositors in th Graham & Sons bank, is as follows:

Know all men by these presents that whereas Andrew J. Graham, lately deceased, died May 1, A. D. 1916, seized and possessed of the various parcels of real estate hereinafter described in apparent title in fee simple, but in fact was seized and possessed thereof for the sole use and benefit of Graham & Sons, and did, by his last will and testament, devise the same to the undersigned, Minnie P. BABY MOVIE STAR TIES UP TRAFFIC TO GET RECRUITS

Recruiting in the city was helped along yesterday through the efforts of little Mary McAllister, the juvenile movie star, who was appointed an honorary sergeant in the United States army. Mary traveled around the city in an automobile. She was particularly successful at Halsted and Madison streets, where the crowds around her machine stopped traffic for several minutes. Then she led some of them to the recruiting office and saw them join.

The day's results for Chicago were better than they have been for some time. The total number of recruits sworn in was 190. The boom is attributed to the "Patriotic Sunday" services in many of the churches.

Recruiting in the navy and the marine corps fell off some. In the navy only about 150 applied for enlistment during the morning, whereas Monday usually brings 300. Only seven applied for enlistment in the marine corps.

The government has issued a call for 20,000 telegraphers. These men are needed for the signal corps at once.

STATE DEFENSE COUNCIL PRAISES TRAINING CAMP

Col. Nicholson and Members Inspect Quarters and Trenches.

Fort Sheridan, Ill., July 2.—[Special.]—Arthur Ryerson, J. Harry Selz, and J. V. Farwell, members of the Illinois council of defense, visited the training camp today and were taken through by Col. Nicholson, camp commander. All quarters and trenches were inspected and Col. Nicholson personally explained the work that has been done on the trenches. The committee members expressed great admiration for the methods of instruction followed and the progress made.

One of the student officers, while making a feed map, was nearly knocked down by an automobile containing Col. Nicholson. The man started to apologize for getting in the way, when Col. Nicholson stopped him, saying: "That's all right, young man. I am glad to see that you were interested enough in your work not to notice anything going on around you."

Trench Warfare Again.

Trench warfare was taken up by some for the afternoon study, and the maneuvers showed a marked improvement. More trenches were built by others, the candidates working in their bare feet owing to water that had collected from the recent rains.

Ten men under the command of Thomas Kelly of Battery D, First field artillery, arrived in camp and immediately were put to drilling with heavy artillery. This is the first artillery "outfit" to arrive in the camp. Just as soon as enough tentage and flooring can be procured, the entire regiment will mobilize here, probably the last of the week.

More Detailed for Aviation.

Acting under instructions from the war department, six more students were sent to the aviation camp at Urbana. This is the third squad so detailed. Those transferred are Lionel H. Dunlap, Second battery; Edward H. Griner, cavalry troop; Fred Marion Byerly, 3753 South Park avenue; George A. Miller, 7071 Greenview avenue; Hugh M. Rice, Gillespie, Ill., and Carroll H. Roberts, Beaumont, Tex. The men were given one day's leave of absence before reporting at Urbana.

More than 600 members of Elks lodges who are here have planned a dinner, to be held at the Morrison hotel July 28. Roy L. Platt, state president, is in charge.

Lorado Taft, the sculptor, was a visitor at the camp, as was Maj. Ernest C. Lee, chief surgeon of the Michigan national guard, and Mrs. Lee, who motored here from Kalamazoo to visit their son, Sheldon, a member of Company S.

UKRAINE SEEKS FULL FREEDOM FROM RUSSIANS

Problem May Be Forced Into Biggest Issue for the People.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
(Special Cable to Chicago Tribune.)

STOCKHOLM, July 2.—The decision of the Ukrainian military congress, sitting at Kieff, and of the central committee of the united Ukrainian movement to make arrangements for an autonomy looking to a Danube to the Black sea republic, regardless of the Russian provisional government, is denounced by the Rech as one more link in the German scheme to cut Russia to pieces.

It nevertheless has become a fact, and the Ukrainian central committee has declared the Ukraine separated from Russia. A constitutional convention will pass upon all that the Ukraine does, but, in withdrawing from their allegiance to the provisional government, the Ukrainians must know that they have not only the government but all of the Russian people against them.

Scolding for Ukraine.

"We must consider this proclamation of separation with cool heads. We hope that Russia will be able to get out of the cul de sac into which the Ukrainian question has put it."

Before the convention of the soldiers' and workingmen's delegates which now is considering in three specialised groups the question of Russia's future conduct on land, at sea, and national questions Delegate Voitinki said the Ukrainian solution was impossible before the meeting of the constitutional convention. He opposed the regrouping of the Russian armies by their nationalities, while others were demanding the nationalization even of the schools as well as the nationalisation of the regiments.

"The Cadets and the Bouchavikists equally are ready to put their party platforms above the realisms. We have got into the habit of considering all of the proletariat's psychological and political differences as an inheritance from the old regime. This is not true, and we hope that the Bouchavikists and the ruins of czarism will disappear together."

Sees Wilson in Error.

The soldiers and workingmen's committee, through its official organ, comments on the situation as follows:

"Mr. Wilson is mistaken if he thinks his ideas will find entrance into the revolutionary Russian people's hearts. The Russian democracy knows well that the common peace for which it is so ardently longing can be found only by the united battle of all of the workingmen of all of the world."

Italians Threaten Life of Sleuth in Ruth Cruger Case

BOLOGNA, June 23.—[Delayed.]—Joseph W. Grigg, the New York detective who came here in connection with the case of Alfredo Cocchi, the murderer of Ruth Cruger, has been warned that he will meet the fate of Lieut. Petrosino.

Lieut. Joseph Petrosino was chief of the Italian bureau of the New York detective force. He came to Italy in the spring of 1909 and in March of that year was assassinated at Palermo, Sicily.

The murderers of Petrosino were never brought to justice.

Charged Wife with Murder.

Cumberland, Wis., July 2.—Mrs. Herbert Engelbert, aged 41, was shot and killed here yesterday. Her husband was arrested and charged with murder.

Up to Uncle Sam to Solve France's Rail Problems

BY COL. HENRY J. REILLY.

In France the value of communications as far as the mobilization and concentration of the army in time of war was concerned, was well understood prior to the war. The general staff had carefully worked out the whole matter down to the last detail.

Every stationmaster in France had locked in his safe sealed instructions telling him exactly what to do from the first minute of the first day of mobilization. When the proclamation was issued designating the first day of mobilization all station masters opened these sealed instructions and made preparations to establish the schedules contained, starting immediately after midnight of the day before the first day of mobilization, or, in other words, the first minute of this first day.

Thousands of Trucks Ready.

France has an excellent system of good highways, which has been highly developed, throughout the country. Each year for a number of years prior to the war the French government would pick out some one large motor truck manufacturing concern and encourage it to construct trucks of a type satisfactory from a military point of view.

The result was that when war was declared the military authorities were able immediately to obtain thousands of standardized trucks of several different makes. This had been so well worked out that each truck train consisted of only one type of truck.

The use of motor transport has steadily developed. Its great value is so well appreciated that the government has taken the most thorough steps to see that the road system is kept in thorough repair.

The defense of Verdun depended upon motor trucks primarily, because the railways running into this fortress passed too near the enemy lines. These trucks not only brought in supplies of all kinds but also troops and in some cases guns.

New Lines Built.

The railway system in the north was considerably upset by the German invasion. However, new lines have been built in the rear of the army. Also, the development of the narrow gauge light railway has been tremendous, not only in the rear of the army but on the battlefield itself.

However, there were two points which this war has brought out which were not foreseen in France prior to it. The first was that the war would last a number of years and therefore steps would have to be taken to keep up the right of way and the material of the railways.

The second, which also depended upon the belief that the war would be a short one, was a failure to estimate the tremendous amount of material and supplies of all kinds which the army would have to use, and a great part of which would have to come from abroad.

Necessity for Imports.

This, of course, included the failure to foresee that if the whole manhood of the nation was to be kept under arms for a period of years the country could not produce what it would under normal circumstances and that this difference in production would have to be made up by importation, which would increase the amount of overseas transportation needed and the amount of land transportation between the seaports, the various centers of population, and the army at the front.

The result of all this has been that the rolling stock and rights of way due the lack of maintenance has deteriorated to an extent where immediate repairs must be made or traffic will be seriously interfered with.

Where U. S. Engineers Will Count.

Here is where the railway engineer regiments recruited in this country will be able to do work of great value. The tremendous increase in importations has resulted in a congestion of all the ports.

This congestion causes trouble in two ways. In many of the ports more ships arrive than can be immediately unloaded, with the result that they are held up and, therefore, cannot make as many trips in any given length of time as would be the case if immediately unloaded.

The other trouble is that the railways now in existence cannot handle the freight which is landed at the ports. The concentration of the rolling stock at the ports frequently interferes with interior communications, with the result that such shortages as are experienced from time to time, while partly due to the lack of material and supplies in the country itself, are also due to the inability to transport them from the points where they do exist to the points where they are needed.

However, all this is an engineering problem which can be easily solved in time with the proper personnel and the money, both of which we are furnishing.

CORONER'S JURY TO LOOK INTO WHALEBACK CASE

Milwaukee, Wis., July 2.—[Special.]—Testimony will be heard by a coroner's jury on Thursday or Friday seeking to clear up the cause of the accident to the steamer Christopher Columbus on last Saturday when at least fifteen persons were killed and many hurt.

It will be in the nature of a grand jury hearing and is expected to continue for several days. A report of the proceedings will be sent to the department of commerce in Washington.

The federal investigation, called in the offices of the federal steamboat inspection service in Milwaukee, was continued until a later date. It is expected the federal and coroner's inquiries will be cooperative. Divers examined the bed of the Milwaukee river and ascertained the exact location of the water tank that fell from a height of 100 feet, crashing into the deck of the Columbus.

The Columbus sailed for Manitowoc to undergo repairs. Only seven of the persons injured in the accident are still in the hospitals.

There being no inquiry for missing friends or relatives in addition to those killed or injured in the accident, it is the belief of the transit company's officials that no more bodies will be found.

WOMAN SAYS SHE WILL KILL BANKER IF HE IS FREED

A jury to try John M. Tananevics, former owner of the defunct Tananevics bank at 3253 South Morgan street, on a charge of criminal manipulation of the bank's funds, was completed yesterday before Judge Pam in the Criminal court.

During the opening argument of Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Raber an aged Lithuanian woman advanced before the table where Tananevics and his lawyers sat. She raised her right hand above her and muttered something in her native tongue. Then she turned and left the courtroom.

"She said she would kill me if the jury freed me," said Tananevics when asked for an explanation by Judge Pam.

In his opening argument Assistant Prosecutor Raber said shortages of approximately $500,000 had been found. Then he called Fred C. Hummell, an employe of the Central Trust company, receivers, as the first witness.

Mr. Hummel testified he had found twelve or fifteen notes in his examination of the bank's paper that had a face value of between $20,000 and $25,000. On them, he said, the receivers had been able to collect only between $400 and $500.

COME ON, BOYS, THE SLOGANING IS MIGHTY FINE

Perhaps You Have the Magic Words to Get Recruits.

There are only a few days left in which to send in a slogan; so if you have one to submit, get busy. There are two prizes of $50 each being offered for slogans to go on Robert Reid's naval poster adorning THE TRIBUNE'S signboard at Michigan boulevard and Randolph street.

The catch phrase must be coined by a man between the ages of 17 and 25 and should be one to win recruits.

Here We Go!

Here are a few more that have been submitted:

Elmer Engquist, 2355 Sheffield avenue—"We can do it if we will; we must do it if we can."

Eugene Burke, board of trade—"Come join us, boys, the fighting's fine."

William Kelly, 6714 South Ashland avenue—"Pledge yourself to be a man and fight for Uncle Sam."

J. T. Alexander, 4622 Lake Park avenue—"Come! Freedom calls!"

M. L. Hershovich, 1408 South Ashland avenue—"Columbia is signalling for you to do your duty. Enlist now."

Alfred Weussenstein, 3315 North Marshfield avenue—"Our fathers died for our liberty. Shall we lose it now? Enlist."

Precisely.

CHURCHMEN FAIL TO GET TOGETHER

Traverse City, Mich., July 2.—[Special.]—The effort on the part of the commission in the unification of Methodism in America to bring the Methodist Episcopal and the Methodist Episcopal South churches together and thus unify Methodism in all of its nineteen branches has practically failed.

Delegates to the conference that is being held here practically admitted this tonight when they met for adjustment.

While all meetings of the conference have been secret, it is understood that the refusal of the Methodist Episcopal South church to share in the liberal policy of the northern church in regard to the Negro has been the sticker.

LETTER TO FOLKS TELLS ALL NEWS SAVE OF TORPEDO

Manierre Fails to Tell of Attack on the Rochambeau.

"Keeping the folks from worrying" was the first instinct of Harold Manierre, son of William R. Manierre, 1507 North Dearborn parkway, who is now in France in the field ambulance corps. A letter from him to his father has been received by THE TRIBUNE; but it does not contain a word relating to the torpedoing of the steamer Rochambeau, upon which he sailed.

The Rochambeau, carrying 630 passengers, was attacked by a submarine on May 26. Among its passengers were students of various universities going into service. Anna Morgan, sister of J. P. Morgan, was aboard, returning to her duties in relief work.

The Letter.

Here is the mild manner in which young Manierre passes over the three days' of flirting with death aboard a disabled steamship:

"Coming over was rather wearing. For the last three days we had to stay up all night with our clothes on, having our life belts by our side. The first day I was rather sick, the boat being in the trough of the waves all the way over, but eventually I got my sea legs.

"The food on the boat was not bad, but I certainly did miss my milk, as wine was all we had.

"The last night was exciting. I had no idea it would be, but having no convoyers we had to take all precaution. On the bow and stern constantly were four gunners searching the horizon for submarines, and I will never forget in the dawn [every one by order being on deck], the impression of beauty and exultation it gave me. We had a full moon all the way over, which, of course, added to the danger, but intensified the spirit of the 'All in All,' to a point of unreality.

Trip in Eight Days.

"We made the trip in eight days, arriving in Bordeaux Monday morning. Believe me, I was pretty tired, having slept practically none of the last three nights; and to set the thing off, we marched up the cobbled streets to the station, which was about two miles, and I forgot to say that I could hardly stand up after getting off the boat anyway. Well, if you could have seen me marching up the streets you would have either cried or laughed. I see you laugh. It is immaterial—I did both.

"Having had a rotten supper at the station, we waited for the train. It came at 10 o'clock and after fighting our way through a bunch of jabbering French soldiers we set sail for Paris, and it was some voyage, being third class and the sea heavy. For the life of me I could find no beds and so sat up—right on a wooden seat the night through. But I consider myself recompensed a thousandfold by the exquisite beauty of the country, the thatched roofs, and the rising sun which shimmered through the early morning mists like a smile through tears. No, it was not of this world, but of my fairy land of long ago.

Sleep More, Then Sleep.

"Arrived in Paris at 9 a. m. Great excitement. Grabbed a taxi—chaos! Pulled up at 21 Rue Raynouard, got mess kits and bedding, and assigned to beds. Grabbed something to eat and backed out to the 'dear' and slept with a sleep that was more than sleep.

"I got permission to stay for two days at the Grand hotel, where I bathed, slept, and ate. Really, I was so tired it was not an exaggeration to say it was an effort to lift my fork. Guess whom I met here? Tolman Bigelow, Walter Smyth, and a chap I have met some place but cannot place; his name was Ozzy.

"On talking to the authority I understand that going into ambulance work must remain here from three weeks to a month, due to the shortage of ambulances. Those entering into transport service get to camp in three or four days. This work I find is extremely hard, driving autos and all sorts of heavy trucks, and you get no more consideration than a private in the French army—in fact, you are one.

"This division from a 'bloody human' standpoint is fine enough, but I am afraid it would take more strength than I have, so after talking to different people I came to the conclusion I will join the organization for ambulance work behind Sir Morgan & Harjes. Here one gets in the field in the course of a week. It is similar to the American service minus kilts and English uniforms, which are so chic."

BARBERS' UNION WINS STRIKE IN DAY; NEXT!

"Victory, won hands down," said May Williams, secretary of the Journeymen's International Barbers' union, yesterday afternoon, when asked about the strike declared in the morning by 2,000 union barbers. He stated that 65 per cent of the boss barbers signed the new agreement during the day.

"When the boss barbers came down this morning and found there were no men on the job and that their customers were going shaveless, they began deserting their association in droves," Williams said.

The new scale calls for $17a week of six days, and half of all the barbers take in above $25. The old scale was $15 a week and half over $22. Barbers who work only on Saturdays, Sundays, and a few hours in the evenings will receive $11 and half over $14.

The barbers' victory will result in the unionization of from 300 to 500 additional shops, most of them in the loop, and already has brought in nearly 300 new members.

FOOD PIRATING MUST END, SAYS FEDERAL JURY

Elgin Price Fixing and Wholesalers Hit in U. S. Report.

The selfish operations of war profiteers in food must be stopped.

This is the sense of recommendations found in a report by the federal grand jury to Judge Landis yesterday. The report discloses some sensational practices in the business of dealing in food products. Canned goods, butter, cold storage practices, and the activities of wholesale dealers in food products are subjects of discussion.

How Elgin Fixes Prices.

A few men from Chicago, it is declared, hold a fifteen minute session on the Elgin board once a week and make an insignificant number of trades for the purpose of fixing prices for the entire country.

Wholesalers and jobbers, it is asserted, have recommended to retailers that they advance prices to the consumers, thus giving the wholesaler opportunity to boost prices to the retailers.

"Practices of this kind indicate," the report says, "the necessity of legislation which will absolutely put a stop to the exploitation of war conditions to raise prices to the consumer for the benefit of the few who are handling food products."

Does Not End Quiz.

"The jurors," says the report, "owing to the brevity of the term of court for which they are empowered to act and the country-wide extent of the conditions disclosed, have been unable to make that thorough examination which would warrant presenting indictments."

"There will be another grand jury called soon," said Robert W. Childs, special assistant attorney general. "Evidence sufficient to warrant prosecution will be followed immediately by the return of indictments. This grand jury's report does not by any means bring the food investigation to a close."

The report of the jury follows in part:

CANNED GOODS

The canners, wholesalers, and jobbers have devised some means for insuring complete cooperation among themselves, which results in keeping the canner from dealing directly with the consumer or with the retailer.

This situation compels the consumer to pay the expense of maintaining these middlemen; and in times like the present, when an unusual demand for food products exists and is likely to continue, these middlemen exert the power that inheres in this system to extort unconscionable profits from consumers with no proportionate benefit to those who furnish the principal service—to wit: the farmers, canners, and such retailers as are satisfied with reasonable profit above the cost.

Canned tomatoes were sold by the canners in the spring of 1916, through brokers, for future delivery, to wholesalers and jobbers, at 90 cents per dozen cans. These same tomatoes are being sold today by wholesalers and jobbers to retailers at $2.25 and more per dozen, and consumers are now getting one can for 25 cents, instead of the two or three cans they got for that sum prior to this season.

How Corn Has Soared.

Canned corn, which was sold in 1916 by the canner to the wholesaler and jobber at 65 cents per dozen cans, is selling to the retailer at $1.75 per dozen and the consumer is paying a proportionately high price.

In view of this situation in the canned goods trade and of the existence of similar conditions in the trade in other food products and necessaries, we urge the passage of laws to eliminate these conditions and to reduce prices to a normal basis as soon as possible.

BUTTER

Because Elgin was at one time a creamery center, the people of the United States continue to follow prices quoted as "Elgin prices," although little butter is now made or legitimately traded in there. It seems that a few traders and dealers, most of whom are Chicago traders, take advantage of this situation to go to Elgin once a week and make a few trades on the Elgin board of trade, and thus establish a price for butter for those who follow Elgin quotations through the country.

COLD STORAGE

It has been the practice of cold storage warehouse companies to lend large amounts of money on perishable food products, such as butter, eggs, poultry, etc., that go into their cold storage warehouses.

This practice leads to speculation by others than legitimate dealers and tends to increase the cost to the consumer. It is the opinion of this grand jury that some legislation should be passed prohibiting this practice, and also prohibiting the cold storage warehouse from borrowing money on their own warehouse receipts, on which they themselves have already made loans.

For the purpose of making public the amounts of food products in cold storage, it is our opinion that legislation should be passed requiring all cold storage warehouse companies to make reports under oath to the proper government departments, at specified times, setting forth in detail all food products held in storage by them, and whenever required to do so to furnish the names of those for whom such products are being held.

WHOLESALE DEALERS

Some wholesalers and jobbers in food products urge retailers to advance prices to the consumers, advising them to put on higher prices, which gives the wholesaler a basis for charging higher prices to retailers. To illustrate, one of the largest wholesale dealers in Chicago sent out a circular to its salesmen containing the following:

"Our customers in particular have very unusual profits within their grasp at this moment. Will they throw them away, or tuck them away?

Exciting Auto Chase at Night, Hair Pullings, and Arrest to Be Followed by Divorce Suit.

Mrs. Anna K. Barr, wife of Charles E. Barr, president of the Barr Sales company, 53 West Jackson boulevard, closed a day's excitement following a night's excitement with a long conference with her attorney, Robert R. Jampolis, after which she decided to ask for a divorce. Her determination was the sequel to a chase by auto Sunday night of her husband and Miss Margaret Wilson to Hammond and back to Chicago, in the course of which three "battles" occurred and at the end of which she had them arrested in a loop hotel. They were arraigned in the South Clark street station yesterday morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. The case was continued until July 11.

"ROTTEN" ARMY CONTRACTS, FEAR OF ROSENWALD

Congress Called 'Stupid' for Barring Big Men on Advisory Board.

"The Stupidity of Congress" was the text of a statement made yesterday by Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the committee on supplies of the national council of defense.

Mr. Rosenwald, who arrived in Chicago after a long absence to spend the Fourth with his family, excoriated both houses of congress for their attempt to legislate out of existence the national council.

He declared that disgruntled and unsuccessful contractors had got their congressmen and senators agitated, with the result that the country faces a backward step just at the critical time of mobilization of resources for the great war.

Fears Army Scandals.

Mr. Rosenwald fears a return to the days of "embalmed beef" and other supply scandals that rocked the government during the Spanish-American war, if congress goes through with the present program.

"It is simply outrageous," he said. "Personally it would suit me very well to be relieved of my duties, so I could be back here with my family. That is, it would be much more pleasant here, but I am like the other men who are serving the government at this time and doing it loyally, with the sole thought of helping this nation to go through as economically and efficiently as possible.

"Congressmen under the constitution cannot be interested in any contracts with the government, and congress now, it appears, has tacked a rider to the food bill, the effect of which, if passed, and not vetoed by the president, would be to legislate the committees of the defense council out of business by putting the members in the same class with congressmen and senators.

Days of Rotten Contracts.

"This is very stupid. It is short sighted. It is nonsensical and foolish. It means a return to the old slipshod days of unloading on the government—the days of rotten contracts in a time of great national emergency.

"I do not like to say these things and have my name associated with them. That is, it is not pleasant, but I know what the several committees have been doing, and I know that a more loyal lot of men never get together to do the best they could for this government. I say it is impossible to describe adequately the loyalty of these men. There is not a thought of self-interest on the part of a single member.

Case of Howard Coffin.

"Take, for instance, the case of Howard Coffin, who is in charge of the aeronautics division. The commission has found that it would be greatly to the advantage of the government if the automobile plant with which he was connected and in which he now probably holds stock, could be taken over in part, at least, for government work. But congress proposes to pass a law that will deny to the government the services of Mr. Coffin because he happens to own some stock in a company that will be called upon to provide certain supplies.

"Could anything be more outrageous, more unfair, more stupid? The government needs the services of this man and needs them badly. But he doesn't happen to be a politician. That's the trouble.

A Big Man Commission.

"Members of the council and the subcommittees are not politicians. They are the biggest men in their several lines of industry in this country, men who don't depend on political favors for success. They are men who know how to do and just what to do, to bring to the aid of the government the highest possible degree of efficiency and economy in the shortest possible time.

"Why, if it hadn't been for the men on these commissions the government would have been unable in this short time to provide supplies for a million soldiers without the slightest suspicion of graft. Never in this world could it have been done.

"These committees have saved millions and millions of dollars for the government. I guess that is one reason why they are not popular with some contractors.

"If they destroy these commissions then surely they are putting the government back to the rotten days of the Spanish-American war.

"Of course these men are interested in their own plants. That is, they still have their investments. But these men, also, are the biggest men in their lines of industry. That is why they were chosen.

What Is Wrong?

"If it should be deemed advisable, because of the capacity to produce quickly what the government wants, to ask a plant in which one of the members of the commission happened to be financially interested to take a contract, it would be done without hesitation. But what is wrong in that, when men of large experience and success are asking that it be done and know that it is best for the government that it be done this way?

"No member of these commissions, I repeat emphatically, is financially interested in a single contract in the sense that he has tried to take advantage in any way of the government."

The rider of which Mr. Rosenwald complains was written into the food control bill by the senate committee on agriculture. It was debated in the senate yesterday. Members of the committee assert they favored the rider, because certain members of the commissions were fixing prices in contracts given to firms in which they were financially interested.

'CRIME TO OPPOSE FOOD CAMPAIGN'

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—"Opposition to food conservation in this country is morally just as much of a crime as opposition to the draft," was the declaration of Herbert C. Hoover tonight, answering a statement published yesterday from Mrs. Henry Wade Rogers, criticising the food administration.

TAKE OFFICE TO SERVE ILLINOIS UNDER CODE BILL

Springfield, Ill., July 2.—[Special.]—Seventy-eight men chosen by Gov. Lowden for the responsible positions in the new administrative code system took the oath of office this morning, signed their official bonds and the modernized method of doing the state's business on a business basis was in operation.

Although he had not been reappointed to the public utilities commission, former Gov. Richard Yates mingled with the incoming officials and warm greetings were exchanged between himself and Gov. Lowden when the executive arrived. Political circles were surprised, therefore, when the announcement came from the attorney general's office that the former governor had been appointed to an assistant attorney generalship and had accepted.

Mr. Yates' appointment was heralded in some quarters as the first open political break between Gov. Lowden and Republican organization leaders, particularly the Cook county committee. This report, however, is discounted among inside politicians.

VETERAN DAY HAS FIELD DAY IN TENNIS MEET

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Players who ran afoul the default rule made yesterday a day of heavy casualties in the Illinois state patriotic tennis tournament at the south side club. Those who did not show up for their matches as scheduled were charged with forfeits, and before the day was done thirty no decision victories had been rung up for players who did appear. The default rule will be lived up to rigidly for the rest of the tournament in order to finish Sunday.

Show Up or Default.

An innovation for tennis in these parts will be started today, when all players will get official announcement by mail telling when their matches are booked. Any one coming late or playing hookey will be added to the list of unfortunates in the default column.

J. F. Day of the Sherwood club, one of the veterans of the Chicago Associated leagues, enjoyed about the most successful day of his career as a wielder of racquets. The north side veteran won in the preliminary round by default. He followed this start by beating C. T. Simpson two love sets in the first round, and romped through the second frame with a similar overwhelming victory over Glen Gooder of the south side club.

Favorites Win Matches.

Sam Hardy of London, England, who plans to spend most of the summer on Chicago courts; Walter Hayes, former national clay court champion; and Bill Burdick, the "big three" in local circles, came through the first round with flying colors. Hayes eliminated Alex Long of Decatur, one of the best out of towners. A. C. Snow, who has been a figure in the game in this city for twenty years, chalked up another victory for the old timers, beating H. E. McDougall, 6–0, 6–1.

Men's doubles matches will start today, and women's play in both singles and doubles will start tomorrow. A big Fourth of July crowd is expected, all receipts being turned over to the Red Cross. Summaries:

EAT FISH

Right Anglers Launch National Campaign to Conserve Meat.

"EAT fish and conserve meat" will be the slogan of the Right Anglers club of Chicago in a nation-wide campaign to help reduce the high cost of living, according to action taken at a dinner of the club in the Hotel La Salle last night.

The propaganda will be carried into every county in Illinois and adjoining states, and every inland lake, fishing pond, or river that is or can be made fish producing will be stocked with game and other fishes in order to carry out the campaign of the club, according to President R. E. Rickson.

"The fish commission," he said, "will stock lakes and streams in Wisconsin and Illinois with more than 3,000,000 bass fry fish, and this is but a beginning of the nation-wide campaign. Stock will be supplied where demanded and with proper support of our campaign fish will replace meat on the tables of rich and poor."

SOLDIERS STOP RING GRAFTERS

New Orleans, La., July 2.—[Special.]—Soldiers were used tonight to help maintain order at a prize fight at the Tulane Athletic club. Persons trying to beat their way into the club attacked the soldiers with pop bottles. Some one took the soldiers' part and threw a bottle at the crowd. It struck an iron shed and burst. The explosion sounded like a shot. In a minute the place was in an uproar.

Soldiers, citizens, and police descended on a Negro card game next door. A Negro was badly beaten before the police could save him from the crowd, as it was alleged he fired a shot at the soldiers.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

In the three cushion tournament at Sutton's Hoffert [28] defeated Sampson [35], 25 to 24. Senf and Peterson tonight.

Finn and Thurnblad of the Wabash room defeated McAllister and Julian of the Randolph room, 50 to 42, in the Benninger three cushion tournament at the Wabash room.

BAY STATE CHAMP WILL PLAY HERE IN GOLF CONTEST

BY JOE DAVIS.

Additional class will be given to the western amateur championship by the entry of Jesse P. Guilford of the Woodland club of Massachusetts, who won the amateur championship of the Bay state last year. He also led the amateurs in the open championship.

In the amateur championship last year at Merion the Boston player was a semi-finalist, losing to Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, 3 and 4. Guilford rates as the longest driver in the country, and this forte should favor him at Midlothian next week.

Eastern Stars Invited.

Guilford is coming as the result of a special invitation extended to a number of prominent eastern amateurs. Answers have not been received from all, but President Charles F. Thompson of the W. G. A. said last night he understood that George Lyon, the former Canadian champion, and C. B. Van Vleck Jr. of Baltusrol would be here.

News of Guilford's coming was received yesterday by the Western Golf association officials in a telegram from Francis Ouimet, former national and open champion, who stated he and Guilford would arrive in Chicago Friday.

Entries for the championship closed nominally with Secretary Smalley yesterday, but a number are expected in today's mail. A number of local entries and others from nearby points were received yesterday. Paul Hunter of Midlothian is one of the strongest of the Chicago entries.

Red Cross at Oak Park.

Three hundred members of the Oak Park Country club purpose to make their Liberty tournament under the auspices of the United States Golf association on July 4 a banner event. Each of them will contribute $5. This will be in addition to the sum generally expended for prizes, and enough will be realized to equip an Oak Park Country club ambulance, which will be donated to the medical unit of the Red Cross in charge of Dr. A. J. Ochsner. Dr. Philip Schuyler Doane, a former member of the club, is associated with this unit. Red Cross emblems will be given as prizes.

The Hinsdale club will hold an all day Liberty tournament under the auspices of the U. S. G. A. Certificates and Red Cross medals will be given to the winners. An American flag will be given to the winner of the morning event, in which members will qualify for the handicap cup.

Playing with E. T. Snohr, R. S. Hyney, and S. S. Jackson, Professional Alfred Hackbarth set a new record of 69 for the remodeled course. His card was 37—32—69, five strokes under par.

Vote for Sunday Golf; Up to Onwentsia Board

By an increased majority over their previous vote members of the Onwentsia club, at a special meeting, yesterday voted for Sunday golf, 307 to 62. This does not settle the matter, as the Lake Forest club, the holding company which has the lease on the property, still has to take action. Officials of the club were noncommittal as to the probable outcome of this vote.

THE CARE AND FEEDING OF CALORIES.

M. W. writes: "I have just received a letter from the woman's committee of the council of national defense, requesting that, as a food conservation measure, I take good care of my calories during the period of the war. As I am greatly ignorant on the subject, will you please give me whatever information you possess?"

REPLY.

Calories are indeed important in these times and it is a matter of regret that so little is known about them. They are, of course, units of heat equal to the amount required to raise the temperature of one kilogram (sometimes one gram) of water one degree centigrade, or from no degrees to 1 degree. Specifically they refer to the raising of the heat of the body or blood; hence their importance to food conservation.

For the first one or two months, a normal, healthy calorie should sleep at least eighteen hours a day. It should be fed not oftener than every four hours, or six feedings a day. It should sleep on its stomach with its head turned to one side or the other to facilitate breathing. Care should be taken that its ears are not bent forward, else they are likely to incline that way permanently.

No light should be allowed to shine in a young calorie's eyes.

Mothers and nurses should not yield to a temptation to pick up the calorie when it cries at night, unless it cries over twenty minutes. Crying is about the only exercise a young calorie gets, aside from waving its arms and kicking its feet in the air.

Watch your calorie closely to see that it does not sleep with its mouth open. If it persists in this habit have your physician examine its throat for adenoids and enlarged tonsils, and if he finds them, insist on an immediate operation. If you calorie sucks its thumbs, douse them with iodine and it will soon be cured.

A calorie's food for the first three or four months consists solely of milk, which should be sterilized, and the bottles boiled between feedings. At the age of 4 to 5 months, beef broth and bacon may be added to the diet; also crackerjack and head cheese. After the calorie acquires its fourth front tooth, it subsists almost exclusively on eel bones and shaving cream.

At the age of 1 year, a calorie begins to talk, usually in Hawaiian, though the male sometimes starts out in Greek idioms.

Remember this: There may be more calories in a spoonful of buttermilk than in a banquet of the Royal Arcanum. So, as the poet so succinctly said, in his "Advice to Housewives,"

Take heed unto your calories
And save your husbands' salaries.

VOX POP ON "SPOTS."

CHICAGO.—[To the Editor.]—Permit me to say a few words in favor of our old friend "spots," the pike, commonly called "pickerel." This much abused fish is never given due credit for his all-around usefulness.

Being always hungry and of a peevish disposition, he is a most willing striker—no fish will take a bait, either under or on the surface, more readily than he. With good fly fishing conditions he will rise well to the fly, and if you have never caught one this way, take our word for it, it is no work for a 98 cent fly rod. On any reasonable tackle he puts up a good scrap, fighting mostly under the surface, although we have seen them leap on a slack line.

As a food fish he is not to be despised. It is true that he has a lot of small bones, but when taken from a cold spring fed lake or stream his flesh is tasty, firm, and white. He is not a bad fish to look at. In fact, we consider him a handsome fish, with his coat of dull green and bean shaped spots of yellow, and his trim, cilpartike build. Furthermore, he is able to take care of himself, and although thousands are caught yearly, he holds his own without any assistance from the fish culturists.

Of course, I am referring to specimens from southern Wisconsin, southern Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois, and not the undersized "snakes" from the muskie country, which run mostly to head and to appetite for lures intended for better quarry.

Everything considered, I believe our common "pickerel" much underrated, and I always like to see a few of them on my strings of bass, not only for the sake of variety but because I think "spots" is a pretty good sort of fish. I would like to know what brother anglers think about it. Sincerely yours,

H. D.

"BOAT SPECIALS" will carry local fans to the ringside at Benton Harbor for the battle between Greek Knockout Brown and Phil Harrison tomorrow. The first boat will leave the local docks at 9:30 in the morning, the second at 9:45, and the third at 10 o'clock. The dock is at the foot of Wabash avenue.

Fit for the toughest kind of a contest both scrappers, who will settle a mooted supremacy of long standing, closed their work yesterday and, judging by the crowds that watched the pair in their workouts, there will be no more room than needed on the "boat specials" to accommodate the fans who will make the trip.

* * *

While Knockout Brown and Phil Harrison are settling their differences at Benton Harbor there will be another mixup in this vicinity, which local fans may view by taking the rails. John Wagner has everything set for his ten round windup between Bryan Downey, Columbus, O., welterweight, and Eddie Moha, a brother of "Wild Bob" Moha. The complete card has been arranged as follows:

Bryan vs. Downey, windup; Joe Brennan vs. Harry Schuster, 148 pounds, eight rounds; Jack Witt vs. Harry Lehnert, 135 pounds, six rounds; K. O. Clancy vs. Willie Driscoll, 126 pounds, six rounds.

* * *

Joe Burman, the local bantamweight who made a big hit in New York, is back in the city to visit mother. Burman hasn't anything arranged for this vicinity.

* * *

Harry Glickman, Nashville, Tenn., promoter, is in the city seeking matches for his club. He wants to line up bouts for July and August dates. He closed with Dod Krone for Spike Kelly to meet Don Green in one contest over the eight round route on July 16.

HUGE INCREASE IN MOTOR CARS; GAIN FOR ROADS

Statistics Show Remarkable Figures, Improvement in Highways.

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

In 1916 there were 1,067,333 more motor cars registered in the United States than in 1915. This was an increase of 43 per cent. The gross total of registered cars, including commercial vehicles, was 3,512,396; the number of motorcycles registered was 350,520.

These figures were issued yesterday by the office of public roads of the United States department of agriculture in a circular entitled "Automobile Registrations, Licenses, and Revenues in the United States, 1916."

Money Goes to Roads.

During the year, says the report, the various states collected in registration and license fees, including those of chauffeurs and operators, a total gross revenue of $23,865,369.75. Of this amount 92 per cent, or approximately $24,000,000, was applied directly to construction, improvement, or maintenance of roads in forty-three states. Thus the motorist got his money's worth.

The figures for 1916, it is pointed out, correspond closely with the annual percentage increase in motor car registration and revenues of the last three years. Should this ratio of gain be maintained in 1917 we shall have more than 4,900,000 motor cars by the end of the year and shall have paid something like $33,800,000 in license fees.

Big Registration Increase.

"When viewed over a period of years," says the bulletin, "the increase in motor car registration and gross revenue has been remarkable. In 1906 the total state registrations were approximately 48,000 cars, on account of which the several states collected in fees and licenses a total of about $190,000. Only a small part of this was applied to road work. In 1916 the automobile funds collected formed nearly 9 per cent of the total rural road and bridge revenues of the states.

"Recent years have shown an increasing tendency to put the spending of the motor car revenues directly in the hands of the state highway departments. Of the total amount applied to road work in 1916 70 per cent was expended more or less directly under the control or supervision of state highway departments. Only thirteen states did not exercise any direct control over the expending of the net automobile revenues."

Carpentier Will Tour America, Dispatch Says

New York, July 2.—Georges Carpentier, French champion heavyweight, has signed up for a tour of sixty American cities at an early date, according to delayed cable advices from Paris to the United Press. No details were given. It is assumed the tour will be in the interest of relief work for French wounded.

St. Johns Team Is Winner.

St. Johns defeated Bethlehem in the Concordia league by a score of 16 to 4. In another game Concordia won from St. Paul, 14 to 4.

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

At Philadelphia—Bobby McCain beat Joe Dorner [6].

Exhaust Echoes

OMAHA and Uniontown, Pa., will be the chief centers of interest in the automobile racing world tomorrow, contents there being the principal events of a Fourth of July schedule that is by no means as barren as one might expect, considering the predictions of a few weeks ago that there was to be no more racing in war time.

There's a tinge of melancholy, to be sure, about the Omaha program, for it is announced that the city's $125,000 speedway, considered one of the fastest board tracks in the country, is to be dismantled after tomorrow's races. Just why this should be is not made clear; indeed, a good deal of preparatory work has been done on the course within the last few weeks in the way of smoothing out the shoulders and making it as fast as possible. Nineteen drivers have entered for two races of 150 and 50 miles respectively, the former being listed as an American Automobile association championship event, though it has been announced that there will be no official award this year.

* * *

Curiously enough, neither Earl Cooper, winner of the Chicago Derby, nor Louis Chevrolet, Memorial day victor at Cincinnati, will drive at Omaha. These two, with Ira Vail and Louis Fontaine, have been matched for a four cornered race at Uniontown.

Of the other events scheduled the most picturesque is a 151 mile road race from Denver to Laramie, Wyo. The course, a dirt road most of the way, skirts the mountains and, over one stretch near the finish, runs through a cañon in the foothills. Sharp curves and several steep grades give promise of some of the thrills of the early days of automobile racing when there were no smooth and comparatively safe speedways.

* * *

The Mystic Athletic club and the Medinah Temple Motor club have completed arrangements for their first interclub sociability and reliability run, to be staged next Saturday and Sunday. The motorists will leave on Saturday morning for the "sociability" part of the program, a run to Cedar Lake, Ind., where there will be dinner, dancing, and other festivities. At 3:15 p. m. participants in the interclub contest will start from Crown Point, near by, on the first leg of their trip.

The first night control will be at South Bend, which will be reached by way of Valparaiso and Laporte. The second day's run will be back to the Mystic Athletic club by way of a noon control at Michigan City. Frank Lehan, chairman of the joint committee of the two organizations, reports that about 100 cars have been entered for the event. A cup will be awarded the winning team.

Many Athletic Events for Scottish Picnic

Races for young and old of both sexes, fancy dancing contests, and a lot of soccer football will be the athletic attractions at the Scots' picnic tomorrow at Kolze's Electric park, Sixty-fourth avenue and Irving Park boulevard. The MacDuff band will furnish music for the day.

EVEN THE REDS STEP RIGHT UP AND LAM CUBS

Cop Crazy Game, 8-5, but Driscoll Makes Good at Second.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Cincinnati copped a crazy game from the Cubs yesterday, inaugurating their holiday series on the north side. Score, 13 to 8.

Both teams booted the ball promiscuously, the Reds worse than the Cubs, but the visitors pounded the sphere a lot harder than our bunch did, hence the margin in their favor. Fifteen swats were slammed off four different Cub pitchers, and these included a real home run by Griffith over the right field wall. Mathewson got by with only one pitcher, Regan, his youngest, but the Cubs nosed him sufficiently to have won an ordinary game with the aid of all the slugging work behind him.

Mitchell Keeps 'Em Guessing.

Wid Chase out of commission, Manager Christy raided his pitching staff and chose Mitchell to tackle first basing. Mitchell was a surprise party all the way. He missed chances which you expected him to get, and pulled off plays which nobody thought he could execute.

It was a freak combat from first to last, with almost everything in it that has happened before and several things that were new. Thorpe, for instance, converted a two bagger for Merkle into a home run by literally kicking the ball through the picket fence bordering left field. Double plays were numerous, and some of the single plays were odd. Once Mitchell knocked down a sharp bounder, lost track of the ball, which got tangled up with his underpinning. Shean, rushing in behind Mitchell, rescued the ball, and raced to the unprotected first base for the putout.

Pattie Driscoll Shows Well.

This play happened to Pattie Driscoll, the Northwestern star, who broke into the game when Doyle turned his favorite stable in overrunning first base on a long fly in the first spasm. Driscoll had quite a busy day at second the rest of the day and handled his work well, besides participating in a double play. He was twice robbed of scratch hits by Shean, but delivered a safe one the last time up in the ninth.

Miqua Prendergast, who began the stabbing for us, was assaulted for two hits in the opening inning, and these, with the aid of a sacrifice fly, scored Kopf in the middle of a double play which resulted in the demise of Roush between second and third. The Cubs evened this up in their half with Flack's double and Roush's muff of Doyle's long fly.

Cubs in Front Once.

Mitchell's men jumped into the lead in the third without a sign of a base hit. A pass to Flack, followed by errors by Mitchell and Regan, were the materials out of which the runs were made. Griffith uncorked his home run in the fourth and Prendergast faded from view in the fifth after a double, a single, and a fielder's choice had registered one run for the Reds. Ruether came on and retired one man on a sacrifice and another at the plate. Then a wild throw by Elliott and a double by Griffith put the Reds two runs to the good. Seaton had to come on to stop them there.

Mann's triple and Merkle's home run tied the count in the home half, but it wouldn't stay knotted. A pass to Mitchell, a single by Shean and a muff by Mann give the visitors a run in the sixth. They completed their victory with two tallies in the eighth, compiled by Regan's double and singles by Groh and Kopf after two were out.

Notes of the Cub

Same teams again today, but they may play better.

It seldom happens that two competing clubs have such a day off simultaneously, as was the case yesterday.

Somebody will have to be released to make room for Catcher Blackburn within the league limit if he is to be retained.

Driscoll retired the side in the fourth, after Griffith's home run. Pattie pinched two tall flies and threw out a man at first.

Seaton, who made a clean hit the only time he was up in the sixth, was taken out to let Blackburn roll one to the pitcher in the eighth.

Three umpires were on the job, Emslie being on hand to assist Quigley and Byron. It required at least three pairs of eyes to see all that came off, and in at least one case it looked as if another pair of optics was needed.

Twice Mitchell headed off apparently safe hits over first base. The first time he flung himself flat across the bag and smothered a rap from Williams which was an inch inside the line. Another time he fobbed Cy of a sharp hit over the bag by going back and getting the ball in time to fire it to Regan ahead of Williams.

THE GUMPS—THE FULL STOMACH NEVER REMEMBERS THE EMPTY ONE.

RED FABER RESCUES SOX FROM A DEFEAT; INDIANS LOSE, 4-3

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Cleveland, O., July 2.—[Special.]—Red Faber rescued a game for the White Sox just like Ed Walsh did in days gone by, and the Sox were able to get the verdict in the final game here, 4 to 3. Only seven innings were played when time was called to let the teams catch trains.

Dave Danforth had been on the mound striving to make four runs win, and he was having trouble. Dave was wild, but lasted till the seventh. The game was to be called at the end of the round, as it was then five minutes to 5. Speaker was first up, and with the call three and two popped an easy foul. Lynn misjudged it and then Speaker walked. One ball was pitched to Roth when Rowland called a halt and sent for Faber.

Sets 'Em Down in Row.

The Cascade boy set the next three men down. Roth sacrificed, Harris bounced softly to Risberg, and Wamby bounded one to Weaver, ending the game. Four pitchers worked on Cleveland's side, but the Sox did all their business on Boehling and Lambeth in the second, when a triple, two singles, a walk, and a man hit by a pitched ball produced a nice cluster of four runs.

The Indians hammered Danforth in the first inning for a pair of runs. Graney singled, Chapman sacrificed, and Speaker hit the right wall for two sacks, sending Graney in. Roth then slammed safely to center and Speaker beat Felsch's shot to the plate by an eyelash. Dave got the next two guys.

Quick Finish for Boehling.

Boehling didn't last long when the second round began. Gandil got the call of three and two and tripled to right center. Risberg got the call of three and two and singled, sending Gandil home, then Boehling was yanked and Lambeth came forth. He hit Lynn with the first ball pitched, then Danforth dumped a bunt toward first base. Harris scooped it and fired to third for a force play, but he was an instant late, for Risberg slid in safely, and the bases were filled.

Leibold replaced J. Collins and walked, forcing Risberg home, then Weaver came up and slashed a single to right, sending in Lynn and Danforth. It looked like the stampede was just started, but Weaver tried to steal and was killed, after which both E. Collins and Jackson died meekly.

Sox Fail in Third.

The Sox had two on in the third, but neither reached second. Felsch singled and was out stealing, then Gandil was hit by a pitched ball and was out stealing. In the next round with one out Danforth and Leibold walked, but Weaver and E. Collins could do nothing substantial with the bat. Felsch singled in the next with one out and played hit and run with Gandil, but Chick hit a low fly right to Wamby, who ran to cover second, and Felsch was doubled up before he could get back to first.

Again in the sixth the Sox threatened when Risberg singled and stole as Lynn struck out. Danforth's out moved "Swede" to third and Leibold's out left him there.

Felsch Prevents Trouble.

The Indians nearly tied it in the same round, but Hap Felsch pulled some alert business. Wamby began with a single and Evans walked. O'Neill fanned, but De Barry, batting for the pitcher, laced a single to right, sending Wamby home and Evans to third. In this crisis Graney hit a low line drive over second. Felsch came in on the tear and caught the ball at his knees, then pegged home. Evans had started home when the ball was hit, then ran back to third, and then it was too late to try to score. Chapman fouled out, ending the uproar.

Notes

Rob Russell is to join the Sox in Detroit and may pitch the first game.

Although it was wash day there were about 6,000 persons at the ball game, 1,000 of whom were school kids.

Eddie Cicotte went over to Detroit last night to spend a day with the family before the battles begin.

Tris Speaker was barely able to tag the ball with one finger in tearing back after Gandil's three base drive in the second.

The Sox players expected Ban Johnson to behead Babe Ruth after all the talk and thought the league head rather lenient in his sentence.

There was a counter attraction to the ball game today. Jess Willard and his circus were in town. That is, there were those who called it a counter attraction.

EBBETS PINCHED FOR SUNDAY BALL GAME

New York, July 2.—Summonses were issued here today requiring Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National league club, and Manager Wilbert Robinson to appear in a police court tomorrow, when a ruling will be made regarding the playing of the championship game between Brooklyn and Philadelphia at Ebbets field Sunday.

The contest was the first championship affair in Brooklyn in ten years. The police say it was played in violation of the Sunday law.

On the back of each ticket of admission appeared the words: "Free exhibition game." No entrance fee was charged for the contest itself, but spectators paid admission to a sacred concert held prior to the game. The proceeds from the affair went to war charities. The sale of seats was stopped when the ball players took the field for practice.

FOSTER BEATEN BY CUBANS, 7 TO 5

For the first time this season Rube Foster tried his hand at twirling, and as a result the American Giants were defeated by the Cubans, 7 to 5, at Schorling's park. The loss of the game was not all the fault of Rube, for he was not backed with timely hitting. The second game of the series will be played today. Score:

Ragen Colts Hold Picnic to Boost Army Service

The usual Fourth of July picnic of the Ragen Athletic club will be turned into a booster campaign for Company D, Seventh regiment, I. N. G. Most of the members of Company D are Ragen A. C. boys. It is the ambition of the ineligible club officers to recruit an entire company of their members. The picnic will be held at Calumet Grove in Blue Island, and there will be games, races, baseball, and dancing to liven the spirits of prospective members of the army. A recruiting office will be established on the grounds.

New Players for Sox Signed by Sullivan

CORNS ACT LIKE A PUSH BUTTON

If you push on an electric button you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a small bottle of freezone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin.

OUST DREYFUSS, SAY HIS STOCKHOLDERS; WAGNER MADE PILOT

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 2.—[Special.]—Two of the city's leading newspapers and several stockholders in the Pittsburgh Baseball club are demanding that President Barney Dreyfuss get down and out to make way for a leader who will rebuild the team to championship caliber, no matter what the cost may be.

The demand for Dreyfuss' elimination followed the release of Manager Jimmy Callahan, who, it is openly claimed, was made the fall guy for the club's failure to play better ball when in reality the penuriousness of the present regime is the real reason. One of the largest stockholders stated today that the club has paid no dividends in two years.

Honus Wagner has been appointed manager to succeed James Callahan. In a meeting with the Pirate officials shortly after noon Wagner consented to take charge of the team after he had been relieved of the business duties. Hugh Bezdek, athletic director of the University of Oregon and former University of Chicago full back, will assist Wagner.

SCHOOL HEAVEN FOR BOYS NOW IF 'TWERE RUNNING

But Lack of Rules May Be Made Up For by September.

Under the rules (or rather lack of 'em) of the new board of education, youth's millennium in school administration has apparently been reached in Chicago. If the new board is the real board and has been proceeding in a legal manner then there is no longer any bar to high school fraternities and sororities and a secret society may be established in every block.

"The old swimmin' hole," to wit, the good old lake hereabouts, ought to have unlimited patronage, for there's no rule now against playing hookey. It was once the rule that pupils "shall obey the requirements of their teachers." No such rule under the new régime.

And also, formerly, school children were required to be "cleanly in person and dress." That prescription does not appear in the new rules.

But the tragedy of all this to the kids is—the summer vacation is on and school is out!

Loeb Rules Dropped.

When the new board met the morning after the original confirmation by the council it adopted a set of rules, as authorized under the Otis law. But it omitted all the rules of the educational department. There is, under its régime, no Loeb rule, preventing the Chicago Teachers' federation, or any other organization, from joining the Federation of Labor.

The Dawes anti-pull rule, which required the superintendent of schools to file a record of all persons who wrote or talked to him regarding promotions or transfers of teachers or other members of the educational staff, has been dropped from the rules of the board.

Another important rule which the Thompson board has not taken over is the permit rule, sometimes known as Loeb rule No. 3. It was considered to have abolished one of the greatest abuses in the educational department, the practice of granting promiscuously permits for a pupil in one district to go to school in another district.

With the power of the educational rules off, the system has been coasting on the strength of those old rules, even though the new board is wholly in power. There is nothing in the way of rules to hold the board in the promotion or transfer of teachers, in allowing entrance to or graduation from the Normal school, in selecting the teachers and assistant superintendents, and in the amount of salary they are to be paid. There is at present no course of study in the schools if the action of the Thompson board is valid.

Others Done Away With.

Among the other rules done away with are the following:

Fire drills.
Selection of text books.
Hours of the school day.
Prohibition of religious instruction.
Medical inspection of pupils.
Flag salute.

MISS HALEY HAS BUSY DAY IN BOARD ROOMS

It has been a long time since Margaret Haley has been persona grata in the office of the president of the board of education. She and the author of the Loeb rule were not on the best of terms.

But the Teachers' federation leader held two conferences in that office yesterday and visited also the office of the secretary and the superintendent. At the afternoon conference in the office of Edwin S. Davis, the new president, Assistant Corporation Counsel Breen and Percy B. Chiffin were present.

Miss Haley said the conferences were in regard to some of the sixty-eight teachers recently reinstated. Supt. Shoop has not given the teachers their former positions, she said. The cases of the teachers were considered earlier at a secret session of the new board's special committee.

Supt. Shoop will recommend today that District Superintendent Henry C. Cox be transferred to the principalship of the Calhoun school to fill the vacancy of Mr. Cox. Mr. Cox was one of the three district superintendents dropped a year ago. Advanced age was given as the reason.

Count Tolstoy

Give any famous man, or great writer, a message of vital importance to thoughtful Americans. Naturally he will choose a magazine intended to enlighten as well as merely to entertain.

That is why Rear-Admiral Clark, the hero of the "Oregon," chose Hearst's Magazine for his inspiring memoirs, now appearing—and why John Galsworthy chose it for his fine new story, "A Stoic"—and why men like Winston Churchill, Judge Elbert H. Gary and many others of national prominence have turned to it. Here are a few of those you will find in the July number:

John Galsworthy
Winston Churchill
Admiral Clark, U.S.N.
Gouverneur Morris
E. Phillips Oppenheim
Geo. Randolph Chester
Stephen Leacock
Arthur Stringer
Col. William F. Cody

And now comes Count Tolstoy. He is the famous son of the great Leo Tolstoy—patrician by birth, socialistic by impulse and training. He has personally selected Hearst's for a series of articles on the problems of Russia. The first one is called, "What America Can Do for Russia." It will make history; read it today in the July number of

MUCH MARRIED COUNT AT LAST IN LOVE AND JAIL

As long as "Count" Egon Vensel changed his name and his wife with the seasons he made one grand success of his business. That business happened to be that of gathering money without work—usually through the medium of a bogus check—is a detail.

But when the "Count" really and truly lost his oft punctured heart, and reached the stage where he wrote letters and followed a woman around the country, he slipped, and the Pinkertons got him. A dispatch from York, Neb., told of his capture, and an earlier one from Omaha gave details of the arrest of Lillian Lamar, a blonde, who readily gave the name of the "Count" and his address when the police called upon her to explain tickets in her possession for some $15,000 or $20,000 worth of diamonds in various Chicago pawnshops.

The Pinkertons' Story.

Both the man and the woman who Detained him will be brought back to Chicago by the Pinkertons. They say this about him:

"He came from Austria in January, 1911, with Bertha, his wife. She returned shortly after, and he posed as a single man to win the hand of Emily Wuensel, a nurse in the Sydenham hospital in New York, of which he became superintendent. They were married in 1912.

"She left him when a leading Austrian paper printed the story of Evelyn Boyd Rumsey coming to America to look for him. Evelyn, the story stated, was his true and undivorced wife. The article stated that he was known in Europe variously as Count Vensel, Edgar, Englander, Eckhart, Egghard, Wensel, Vigna Waldon, W. Walters, and Egon.

"They he was discharged from the hospital for irregular financial transactions. He went to San Francisco and became superintendent of St. Francis hospital. He divorced Emily Wuensel and married Mathilda Dunstrn of Appleton, Wis., divorced wife of F. W. Gause of San Francisco.

Managed a Hotel.

"Something happened and he was discharged from the St. Francis hospital. He took management of the Hotel Baldwin during the fair. It was found that large quantities of supplies, supposedly purchased for the hotel, were being sent to an apartment. The "count" lived there, not with his wife but with Lillian Lamar.

"He disappeared in 1915 with from $4,000 to $6,000 and whatever he could borrow from Henry Pals, a guest at the hotel, on a plea that he had $30,000 in Austria tied up by the war.

"He left papers, however, showing that he was a graduate of the University of Vienna. All told his operations cost swindling friends and business acquaintances $35,000. If he had only kept his head—well, we trailed that Lamar woman and finally caught him through her."

MYSTERY CLOUDS FALSE PRETENSES CHARGE BY KIN

William Dunn of Brookfield, dealer in washing machines, is said to be named in a warrant sworn out by his son-in-law, Carl A. Lax, charging him with obtaining $100 through false pretenses. The warrant was taken out in a Chicago court, according to Justice Arthur Kendall of Oak Park, and Dunn will be tried before him when service is obtained.

What the alleged false pretenses consist of could not be learned from Justice Kendall and when Dunn was reached that night he said he had no idea himself.

Mrs. Carl A. Lax, wife of the complainant, is suing him for divorce in Judge Foell's court. She is a daughter of Dunn and has been staying at the home of her father.

"My daughter has collected some temporary alimony and maybe this is the money Lax wants back," Dunn said.

FIRST PARADE, THEN WIELD THE POLITICAL AX

The Forest Park board members who took office officially at the last meeting after the termination of a court fight to test the legality of the spring election sat down to business last night after a parade had been held in honor of the new officials.

Mayor Henry Kaul and his commissioners wielded the political ax a few minutes after the meeting had been called to order and placed in appointive positions the friends of the administration.

The new chief of police is Chris Zimmerman. He takes the office formerly held by Fred W. Licht. The other new officials are: Treasurer, Clarence Troost, who succeeded Thomas Cerny; clerk, Paul R. Witt, who succeeds Joseph Carney; attorney, Henry W. Huttmann, succeeding Frank Righeimer.

Police Hold Expressmen When $700 Furs Are Lost

Pending an inquiry into the disappearance of furs valued at $700 from an auto truck of the American Express company, the police of the Maxwell street station are holding Grandrose Tabol, 1107 South Leavitt street, chauffeur, and William Meyers, 5041 Prairie avenue, a conductor employed by the company. The furs had been shipped by Joseph Reefer, 846 West Twelfth street, a dealer in furs.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree

Born Dec. 17, 1853. Died July 2, 1917.

BEERBOHM TREE, FAMOUS ACTOR, DIES IN LONDON

Recognized as Leader of English Stage Since Irving.

LONDON, July 2.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, the actor, died tonight.

STORY OF TREE'S LIFE.

Herbert Beerbohm Tree had been the undisputed leader of the English stage from the death of Henry Irving. He was born in London in 1853, was educated in Germany, and went on the stage in 1877. He took the management of the Haymarket theater, London, in 1887, and became an active and powerful factor in producing new and reviving old plays.

His Majesty's theater was built for him; he moved into it in 1896, and remained its manager till his death. It was in the latter house that Tree made his reputation as a prodigal director: he dimmed even Irving's glory in the matter of sheer outlay, especially in the revivals of Shakespeare. Tree's casts, too, were generally notable. He scored his chief point against Irving by obtaining the latter's co-star, Ellen Terry, for a revival of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Came to U. S. in 1894-95.

Tree first visited the United States in 1894-95, bringing a big repertoire and an excellent company, but it did not do well as an attraction. His plays on that tour were "Hamlet," "The Merry Wives," "The Red Lamp," Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People," "Captain Swift," "A Bunch of Violets," and "The Ballad-Monger." He came back in 1896-97, devoting his tour mainly to "The Dancing-Girl" and "A Bunch of Violets," after an unsuccessful venture with a piece made from Gilbert Parker's "The Seats of the Mighty."

Tree was eager to act in "Trilby," in which he had been successful in London; but the owner of the American rights refused permission. His professional title at that time was Beerbohm Tree; when knighted in 1909, he followed British custom of resuming his prænomen, Herbert.

Successful in 1916 Visit.

The distinguished player found a larger measure of success when, in 1916, he reappeared on the American stage, following a hapless experience in one of the California movie studios. He mounted "King Henry VIII." and drew big audiences in New York for weeks, following it with "The Merchant of Venice" and "The Merry Wives." He visited Chicago in November of last year, playing a month in the Illinois theater.

Max Beerbohm is a brother of the dead actor, whose wife played with him on his first American tour. Their daughter, Iris, was married in Chicago.

THAT SOUL UNION ALL A MISTAKE, ESTELLE AVERS

Matlack and Hamsleys, in Perfect Harmony, Explain Things.

Mrs. Estelle Metzer Hamsley, "soul bride"; Elwood V. Matlack of St. Louis, "soul husband," and Charles R. Hamsley, "soul goat," or, as Mrs. McIver-Tyndall No. 1 phrases it, "cosmic goat," sat together last night in the office of THE TRIBUNE in what might have seemed to be perfect soul harmony. The soul trio wished to explain their individual connection with a remarkable triangle.

The New Ruskin's Tale.

Said Mr. Hamsley, the new John Ruskin, who, without a moment's hesitation, gave up his wife when a psychic voice of the "Soul Mich," called her out of the atmosphere to be the soul bride of Mr. Matlack, who incidentally is worth $2,000,000:

"Mrs. Hamsley has spent the greater part of her life in service to others. In reply to the statement of Mrs. Matlack that Mrs. Hamsley is not a 'thoroughbred' I wish to say Mrs. Hamsley comes from a long line of cultured gentlefolk on both sides of the house. If this, and running true to strain, constitute a 'thoroughbred,' then in my estimation and that of her family and friends Mrs. Hamsley is most certainly a thoroughbred. All criticism of Mrs. Hamsley's conduct comes from those who do not know her.

"No Spiritual Marriage."

"So far as 'finance,' 'cults' and 'colonies' are concerned I am in a position to state with the utmost exactness that Mrs. Hamsley is not a member of any cult or colony and has no intention of associating herself with any group nor of financing any such group.

"The statement regarding an alleged 'spiritual marriage' between Mrs. Hamsley and Mr. Matlack said to have been performed by Prof. David Seabury of Culver Military academy, has grossly wronged Prof. Seabury. He did not spend a week with Mrs. Hamsley and Mr. Matlack to determine their suitability for one another 'and no such spiritual marriage took place. Fair minded people will suspend judgment until all the facts are brought out before the proper tribunal."

Just Call It Friends.

Said Mrs. Hamsley:

"I wish to deny that I have had five soul affinities. Mr. Matlack and I are friends. Just call it 'friends.' I do not wish to discuss the allegation that I visited Mrs. Matlack at her home in St. Louis and said, 'This would be a nice place for all three of us to live in perfect harmony.' I did not say that.

"I did visit her. But I wish it understood that Mr. Matlack did not accompany me. When Mrs. Matlack says I said that she tells an untruth. What was said? I prefer not to say at this time. As for the poem entitled 'Fidelity' which was published as having been written by me, yes, I wrote it. But it was written with purely impersonal sentiment. I had no reference to any special man. Do I look like an immoral woman? Certainly not."

Said Mr. Matlack (to Mrs. Hamsley): "If I were you I would not say that Mrs. Matlack told an untruth."

That was all Mr. Matlack said.

Said Mrs. Hamsley (in reply to Mr. Matlack): "Well, of course, I may not know exactly what Mrs. Matlack said. I have only a newspaper's word for it." The soul mates and the soul goat left together apparently in perfect harmony. They are stopping, in latest patriotic censored phrase, "somewhere in Chicago."

ARREST 3 YOUTHS IN WINNETKA AS AUTO THIEVES

The suspicions of Fred Marshall, a Winnetka garage owner, and of William Patterson, chief of the Winnetka police, landed three youths in the county jail yesterday.

They are accused of stealing the machine which they drove into Marshall's garage from the garage of Philip Brady, 609 West Superior street, on June 26.

They gave the names Martin Sullivan, Harvey Pearl, and Steve Kospens. The police say they have records.

Coeds' Boudoirs Equip Aspiring Saleslades with Outfits.

Chief Leggett of Evanston has two girls locked up in the dungeons of his suburban bastile who refuse, positively and absolutely, to be down-hearted. His arrest book shows:

Both are charged with larceny, on warrants sworn to by Bessie Hahner, housekeeper at Willard Hall, the girls' dormitory of Northwestern university. Here's what they took:

Two "teddy bears" (consult your wives, you married men);
Two strings of imitation pearl beads;
Two tortoise shell combs;
Two war hits, containing powder, rouge, brilliantine, bandoline, chamois, hair nets, and finger nail polish.

Gotta Have Makeup Boxes.

"We wanted to go into cabaret," declared Anna Coughlin, by way of explanation. "And you can't do it with black skirts and white shirt waists, and wire hairpins, and, and—well, without the makeup boxes.

"We couldn't buy what we needed, and we thought that the girls at Willard hall wouldn't miss the few things we needed for an outfit. We got all but the outer shell last week, when we came the first time, and we thought we could get two silk dresses this week and then try for jobs in the cabarets tomorrow."

Chief Leggett smiled a little bit and admitted that he knew they had been at the hall the previous week.

"If you old coppers had just let us get away this time we'd have been all set," declared the enterprising Miss Coughlin. "Honest, now, won't you let us go?"

O, So Enticingly!

"Put 'em downstairs," he told Policewoman Georgiana Juul, as he met her in the hall. "Book 'em for larceny and set their trials for July 9 before Judge Boyer. I'm going out for the air."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Saturday's issue told of a discussion on household tariff by members of the Chicago Woman's club; and among those quoted was Mrs. Henry Hiestand, who said she saved $20 a month by doing her own cooking. Mrs. Hiestand writes to express the fear that the point she sought to make was not fully brought out in THE TRIBUNE'S report. "Not only," she says, "did I save $20 a month on the table, but a second $20 a month through not having to pay a cook. This was in 1899, when $5 a week was high pay for a good cook. I am certain the saving would be much greater today."

ASK LAKE FOREST AUTO DRIVING LAW AMENDED

The Lake Forest city council last night was asked by A. L. Farwell and Frank C. Letts to make 16 years the minimum age requirement for drivers of automobiles who are unaccompanied by a licensed chauffeur or the owner of the car.

Mr. Letts' daughter was fined $5 and costs recently in Lake Forest for violating the present law, which provides 18 years as the minimum. Hers was the first case tried under the law.

City Attorney George T. Rogers was ordered to draw up an ordinance embodying the proposed amendment. His draft is to be considered at the next meeting.

Mayor Keene H. Addington took issue with the Rev. Thomas R. Quayle, secretary of the Cook County Law and Order league, who charged the municipality with permitting blind pigs to sell liquor to men from Fort Sheridan. A letter will be sent to Col. Nicholson at the fort assuring him that Lake Forest will cooperate in upholding the liquor laws.

Glencoe Officials Sued for $50,000 by Shoe Man

Hugo A. Hammer, a shoe merchant of Glencoe, filed a precipe in a suit for $50,000 damages for false arrest yesterday against Albert McRae, president of the Glencoe village board; George V. Hicks, village attorney; Charles Cooper, village policeman; H. H. Sherer of Glencoe, and Fred D. Jackson, a Chicago attorney. The suit arises from the arrest of Hammer on a charge of selling liquor.

KINGDON GOULD WEDS MISS LUCCI AFTER A DELAY

Special Dispensation Obtained from Cardinal Farley.

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Under a special dispensation granted by Cardinal Farley Kingdon Gould, eldest son of George J. Gould, was married today to Miss Annunziata Camilla Maria Lucci. The ceremony was performed in the reception room of the rectory of the cathedral by Mgr. Gherardo Ferranta, Cardinal Farley's Italian secretary. George J. Gould Jr., brother of the bridegroom, acted as his best man.

Camera Men Out in Force.

Several photographers who were awaiting the arrival of the party asked Mr. Gould and Miss Lucci to pose.

"No, please! Haven't we been pretty good so far? Wait till we come out," laughed Mr. Gould, as he hurried up the steps of the rectory.

Mr. Gould said they would take an automobile trip through the Adirondacks and in the fall occupy an apartment at 829 Park avenue.

Postponed from Forenoon.

This was the pair's second visit to the rectory today. The first call was made at 10 o'clock this morning, the time originally fixed for the ceremony. The delay until this afternoon was caused by the necessity of obtaining a special dispensation for the union, Mr. Gould being a Protestant, while Miss Lucci is a Roman Catholic.

Mr. Gould was frank in answering questions. When asked whether there was any foundation to the rumor that his family did not approve the match, he smiled.

"No," he said, "there was no misunderstanding, but my family was rather surprised. I have known Miss Lucci for quite a long time."

It was learned that Mrs. Kingdon Gould first met her future husband when she was employed in the Gould family as a teacher of Italian.

CITY EMPLOYE SAID TO SUPPLY LABOR DYNAMITE

An investigation being made by Assistant State's Attorney Nicholas Michels into the operations of the Motion Picture Operators' union, local No. 110, it is said, will bring in the name of a foreman or division superintendent of the city water pipe or sewer department as the person who supplies the dynamite for the alleged vandalism committed by some members of the union.

"They got the dynamite as they need it from an employe of the sewer or water pipe department," said an attache of the state's attorney's office last evening. "You can expect some important developments in a few days."

Sixteen representatives of the large film corporations in the city were in conference with Attorney Michels yesterday as a result of the prosecutor's investigation, which was rendered following the fire in the Pathé exchange in the Consumers' building. They promised to produce affidavits by today showing that threats had been made against them by members of the union in regard to unionizing the packers and inspectors—all women employes—of the companies.

"Tug Wilson" Winds Up 35 Year Police Career

John O'Malley, for thirty-five years a member of the Chicago police department, handed his resignation to Chief Schuettler yesterday.

O'Malley was known as "Tug Wilson." Prior to coming to Chicago he was a blacksmith in Dixon, Ill. For the last two years he was lockupkeeper at the detective bureau and a recent transfer order affecting him led to his resignation. He was a detective at the bureau for several years.

Wife Returns to Tell How She Disappeared

TRUCK SMASHES INTO AMBULANCE; DR. RASTALL DIES

Seven Others Are Injured When Police Physician Is Killed.

Dr. Frank W. Rastall, 858 East Eighty-eighth street, physician of the Hyde Park police ambulance, was killed and seven other persons were severely shaken up and bruised when the ambulance collided with a delivery truck belonging to Siegel, Cooper & Co. last night at West Twenty-ninth street and Princeton avenue. The ambulance was south bound in Princeton avenue and was struck by the truck being driven east in Twenty-ninth street, according to the police. Dr. Rastall was riding beside the chauffeur and was thrown from his seat by the collision. The ambulance was thrown on its side, pinning Dr. Rastall beneath it. He died as he was being removed to Mercy hospital.

The injured:

Policeman William Rowley of the Hyde Park station, 7407 Langley avenue; bruised.

Frank Hartel, 4628 South Rockwell street; bruised.

Held Pending Inquiry.

McGarry and Hartel are being held at the Twenty-second street station pending an investigation by the police. A woman and child, riding in the seat with McGarry, were thrown to the pavement, but were removed by friends before the police obtained their names.

McGarry told the Twenty-second street police the ambulance ran into his truck and that he did not see it approaching until too late to avoid the collision. In attempting to avert it McCabe swerved his car to the right, but the force of the impact threw Dr. Rastall to the street and overturned the ambulance.

Boy Hit by Auto Dies.

Edward Wisniewski, 6 years old, 1789 West Fourteenth street, died at the county hospital yesterday of injuries caused on Sunday when he was struck by an automobile.

A 13 year old boy was probably fatally injured and a horse was killed when a Sixty-third street car struck a wagon at South Campbell avenue. Harry Peterson, 13 years old, 1415 West Seventy-first street, was driving the wagon.

'RICHEST BARBER' ROBBED, BEATEN, IN LOOP SHOP

Dan Hines, known as the "millionaire barber," was held up in his shop, 233 South La Salle street, last night, by two men, who robbed him of $400 in checks and $90 in currency. They struck him on the head with billies, knocking him down.

He has kept a barber shop in the vicinity for thirty years. A large number of his customers are heard of trade men. He has speculated on tips given him while shaving brokers, and has amassed a comfortable fortune.

Another daring robbery was that of Clarence E. Beard and William Gayle of the National Tea company, 3715 WestNorth avenue, earlier in the day. The robbery occurred close to the private bank of John J. Rumpf, 1634 North California avenue, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Beard, cashier of the tea company, and Gayle had drawn $30,000 in three packages from the bank. As they left two men on the street pointed revolvers at them.

Safe blowers cracked six safes in the Administration building of Jewish Societies, 1300 Belden street, between Saturday night and Monday morning. They obtained money estimated at $500.

Field Manager Won't Tell of Romance—in Words

When Miss Mary Lambard of south Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, smiled and refused to tell his name of course everybody was awfully excited.

Miss Lumbard does not need to announce the name of her newly intended. If you want to know who it is all you have to do is to go into Marshall Field's basement, find Ray Doolan, manager of the underwear department, and ask him if he is engaged.

He won't say yes. But he will grin a great big pleased grin; he will look a little embarrassed, and he won't deny it.

Mr. Doolan has known Miss Lumbard about a year, and if you want to know any of the romantic details he will refer you to her. He says he doesn't want to get in bed.

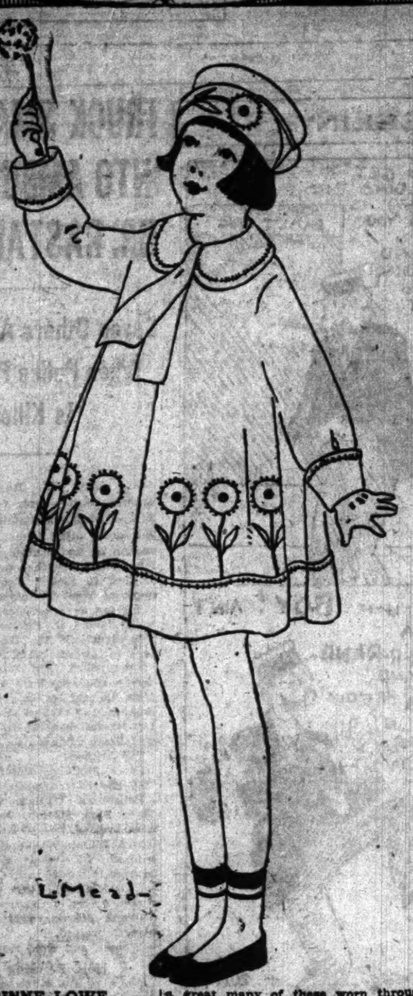
FASHION'S BLUE BOOK



BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—As the summer advances we seem to be molting some of the fancies of early spring. Capes, for instance, are not quite so vigorous as they were in May. True, they are still worn and some of the new coat dresses sprout jaunty and effective ones—so much so that coat becomes a mere quotation.

Another lapsing fad is for things military. From the first we have discountenanced this mode. It seemed, to us such a parody on patriotism, such a pert adaptation of serious undertakings, that we have given it no shelter in our valuable space. And now we are glad to note that even at affairs of the Army-Relief society, where khaki and navy blue seemed the logical apparel, there was no drafting of the military mode into fashion.

But as some of the spring's notions decline brand new fancies are cropping up. One is the revived use of the mandarin coat for evening wraps. We saw a great many of these worn through June at all the charity affairs, and there can be no doubt that they give an authoritative richness to the fashionable gray and beige colored gowns. Another crescent idea is that of the filet collar. Such accessories finish off not only the afternoon frock but are worn outside the collar of the summer suit. Still another thing bobbing up on the dress horizon is macramé, which will probably share with Chantilly and filet the lace honors of fall modes.

Shantung seems to be thoroughly intrenched in everybody's affection. Silver gray is a tone of this fabric much liked, and stunning imported suits are carried out in this shimmering shade. Of silver colored shantung is the wee girl's frock shown above. The hem of the frock is of pink silk and above the hem appears a row of hand painted pink daisies. The little hat is of the same material with the same applied design. In cases where hand painting is not one of the maternal accomplishments the flowers may, of course, be either stenciled or embroidered.

By Mae Tinée.

THE above is the cast of "The Little American," Mary Pickford's latest picture, which Maj. Funkhouser, chief of the censor board of Chicago, says you cannot see. If you are at all familiar with pictures you will see what an excellent cast it is.

It seems to me that in this case we cannot too severely censor the censor. He may be a sincere American citizen with no sympathy for the country with which we are at war. Certainly, however, no one who has seen "The Little American" and learned of his decision will indorse the major's judgment. The picture is as anti-Teutonic as anything could be. Besides, it is a magnificent piece of work. No question but that it would aid enlistment.

Yet our official censor says:

"I cannot pass this picture BECAUSE it would offend the Germans here, who did not start this war."

Did it ever occur to Maj. Funkhouser, I wonder, that the Germans of the United States are as much opposed to kaiseronic methods as are those who claim no Teutonic blood. Our American citizens number no better citizens among them than the Germans who have sworn allegiance to the Stars and Stripes. They will be no better pleased than the rest of us at Maj. Funkhouser's ununderstandable tactics. Not one of them but will sorely condemn Mr. Funkhouser.

Let us hope that the major will rub the sleepy seeds from his eyes in the near, near future, discover that the United States is at war with Germany, and that the picture in question is not only anti-German but is pro-American, and, as an anti-German, pro-American picture, it is something that the country is entitled to.

Seek Film Injunction.

In an effort to present the photo play, "The Tiger Woman," while an appeal of a mandamus suit against the city is pending the Fox Film company yesterday filed a petition for an injunction to restrain the chief of police from interferring with the presentation. The film company alleges the value of the film is decreasing daily.

ASK ME! ASK ME!

E. D. C.: Thank you vurr' vurr' much. Your letter was a real joy and inspiration. I have several personal correspondents whom I shall tell of your experience with "little sister," omitting, of course, all personalities. The only way to successfully get on with the youngsters is to put oneself in their boots and take their enthusiasms—and spasms—for just what they are to them. Too often, I am afraid, we flout as silly and ridiculous something that is very real to our little confidants.

CURIOUS: The cast of "Under Two Flags" is as follows: Cigarette, Theda Bara; Bertie Cecil, Herbert Heyes; Chateauroye, Stuart Holmes; Berkeley Cecil, Stanhope Wheatcroft; Rake, Joseph Graham; Rackingham, Charles Craig; Venetia, Claire Whitney.

C. K.: Yes, the British war pictures are the "real thing" and I certainly do think you should see them.

Castile Soap Is Best Suited for Shampooing

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

JENNY: USE CASTILE SOAP. IT is best for shampoo purposes. The coarse washing soap you describe should not be used on the hair. The soap should not be rubbed on the hair, anyway. It should be made into a lather because it washes out much easier that way. Try this soap jelly. You'll find it just what you are looking for: Shave a small cake of pure white castile soap into a pint of boiling water and let it stand until thick. Add one ounce of alcohol and a few drops of rose water. The hair must be wet enough so that the jelly will adhere. Then rub it until a thick lather forms. Rinse off in an abundance of warm water, changing the temperature of the water until it is quite cold.

TROUBLED: IF YOU WILL WRITE to me inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, I shall be glad to write to you personally. Your letter will not be published if you so request.

Cut Worms.

The late season has delayed the attacks of cut worms, which are ordinarily over with at this time, on account of their going into the pupal form. They are now apt to attack beans, peas, corn, lettuce, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, kale, and the cabbages. A close watch of the ground and plants, particularly at the side nearest to permanent grass plots, is necessary, for quick action is necessary when the worms or the first results of their destruction are apparent.

Perhaps the first indication is the unaccountably sudden wilting and [perhaps] falling of perfectly healthy plants. This is caused by soft-bodied caterpillars of various colors, an inch to one and one-half inches long, which migrate usually from neighboring grass fields in spring and encircle the young plants at the soil surface or just below, eating them and cutting them off. They feed mostly at night and burrow into the ground an inch or more during the day.

The immediate remedy is to hoe or drill in close to the plants, on both sides, slaked lime, wood ashes, tobacco dust, or poisoned and sweetened wheat bran. A seed drill may be used for the purpose on extensive areas. It is best applied during the late afternoon.

POISONED WHEAT BRAN FORMULA.

Paris green [poison], 6 ounces.
Juice of one orange.

Add sufficient molasses to make a stiff dough. Scatter in small pieces in a circle around each plant or in a protecting line [on the surface] around the garden.

In preparing for the garden plow or spade as early in autumn as possible, that there may be no suitable vegetation for the familiar gray or brownish moth or miller to lay her eggs in. These are hatched in September, and the half grown worms hibernate till spring. They are then ready to leave the grass patches for the nearest toothsome vegetable. Hence the protecting line of poisoned, sweetened wheat bran, at least on the sides nearest to grass plots, to intercept them.

How to Peel a Tomato.

It seems a shame to take nice cold tomatoes out of the icebox and pour scalding water over them, or even to hold them over a gas flame in order to peel them. It seems equally a shame to slice tomatoes for salads without peeling them as some people think necessary. If this is done the skin should not only be washed but rubbed clean, and then who wants to eat it?

It is not necessary to do either of these things. To peel a tomato rub it down firmly from the blossom to the stem end and all the way around with the back of a good knife for peeling such fruits. This loosens the skin and leaves the flesh in a better condition than scalding does. It takes but a little practice to get the knack.

In preparing a tomato do not remove the stem until after the tomato is sliced. Some people take it out before removing the skin. The tomato is almost sure then to lose its shape. If it is left in the tomato may be sliced in slices as thin as a wafer, each of which retains its shape perfectly. It is necessary to use a sawing motion, as in bread cutting, and it is no more suitable to bear down or press hard against a tomato in slicing it than it is to slice bread that way.

The last slice will contain the stem. Cut around this and use the pieces cut fine or chopped to scatter over the salad, or put them into the salad dressing. These alone added to mayonnaise make it Thousand Island-like, and with a little onion juice or chopped onion will make a French dressing more agreeable to most people.

The Real "War Bread" must contain the entire wheat grain—not the white flour center—but every particle of gluten and mineral salts—also the outer bran coat that is so useful in keeping the bowels healthy and active. Shredded Wheat Biscuit is the real "war bread" because it is 100 per cent. whole wheat prepared in a digestible form. Contains no yeast, baking powder, seasoning, or chemicals of any kind. Food conservation begins with Shredded Wheat Biscuit for breakfast and ends with Shredded Wheat Biscuit for supper. Delicious with sliced bananas, berries, or other fruits. Made at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

A Marriage in Haste.

I WAS a student in the Chicago university, working for my doctor's degree, alone and without sufficient funds to make life interesting. A former high school student of mine also happened to be in Chicago at the time studying music, and, both being lonely girl of 20, and as I love to rollerskate, I often attend the skating rinks. The a young man came up to me and asked a young man came upto me and asked if I would take a turn with him. We grew quite friendly, and he took down my address. I should like very much to know if it is right to go out with this fellow, for he has asked me to. It is against my principles to pick up acquaintances, but I am often lonely, and this young man seemed so nice.

"BERNICE."

It does seem hard, when one is in a lonely city, not to be able to take advantage of unconventional ways of making acquaintance, for the reason that perhaps the other person too may be in the same lonely fix. Perhaps there are occasions when the situation might even seem to justify the act, I have known so many mishaps in girls' lives to grow out of this kicking over of conventional principles that I would hesitate a long time before giving it my approval.

I kept bachelor quarters on the third floor back of a second rate rooming house and did my laundry in the bath tub; she lived at the Y. W. C. A. I was getting about $60 per month from private tutoring and I believe she made a little pin money from her voice work, so even between us there was not enough to even consider double harness.

One morning I was cutting through the park to a class when I met one of the professors. He hailed me and asked if I knew of any one who would be willing to take care of his house for six months for the use of it, as he had to go abroad.

It was a message from heaven. "Why, I will," I almost shouted. "You! How can you take care of a house? You are not married." "Not yet, but I'm going to be," and we then and there struck a bargain.

I hastened to the license bureau as fast as my legs would carry me and got a marriage license (cutting class to do so), and, armed with it, went to see my girl. She was stunned when I showed her the license, but when I told her about the house she was demure and wanted a month to get ready. "Get ready nothing. We can do that after we get married. The main thing now is to get into the house."

We were married the following day and spent our honeymoon walking about Jackson park. That night we took possession of our new home and the next six months I worked like a trooper and got my degree, and my wife sat by me while I studied and worked on the trousseau that she did not have time to make before the wedding. Can't Approve of It, Bernice.

Trust A foot Among Mountains for This Group

NOTHING almost as refreshing as beer is this hot weather as the sight of the lemonade pitcher on the veranda is the vacation talk of those who go on walking and hunting trips through the mountains of the west. The summer plans of Mrs. Gordon Strobel and her three daughters, Lilly, Dorothy, and Florence, who have just come to California, will take them to the Canadian Rocky mountains, where they intend to see Glacier, Lake Louise, and Field on foot; to go along the trails made and up the mountains; to stay for some games on the new golf links near Banff, which is called "the links in the clouds" because of their height; and to visit other points in that region. One of the hazards of the game, by the way, is apt to be a little black bear to be found in the traps on these links, which are a part of the government national park.

The color and tingle of war times are felt in every place, and a trifle more than usually interesting was the presentation yesterday of three French officers in the dining room of the Blackstone hotel. The officers—Lieut. Andrew Gaudeul, Lieut. Lolfy, and Lieut. Prevolt—are members of the French aviation corps, and have come to America, it is said, to consult on their branch of the service. Miss Lolfy came with her husband. The men wore brilliant blue and red uniforms.

Those giving luncheons at the hotel were Mrs. Lockwood Honoré, who entertained for Mrs. Potter Palmer; Mrs. J. Hamilton, and Mrs. John Borden.

Another busy day in Lake Forest.

Prof. Halsey's lecture yesterday morning at Mrs. Arthur Tuttle's was greatly enjoyed by those present, although the number of day from Wednesday to Monday is on account of the Fourth of July is still perplexing and perhaps kept some away. The room was filled with roses from Mrs. Tuttle's own terraces—magnificent blooms in white, red, yellow, and pink. Prof. Halsey took up questions in China with reference to the war and succeeded in making the complicated political situation in China singularly understandable. Among the hostesses were Mrs. Robert McGann, Mrs. Robert Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. John Gunnison, Mrs. W. P. Martin, Mrs. Harold Ives, Mrs. John Hamilton, Mrs. Frank Sly, Mrs. Walter Kirk, Mrs. Edward Carry, Miss Genevieve King, Miss Geoffrey Letts, Miss Edith Cummings, and Miss Erminia Carry.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Forgan of 1112 Greenleaf boulevard, Evanston; Miss Lyle Forgan, and others of the family have gone to leave for their summer home at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea. The place adjoins the summer home of Sir Edward Beckwith of Montreal, who, with Mrs. Forgan, spends much of his time in golfing. The young people of Mr. Forgan's family are very fond of the water sports about their seaside home, where they spent all seasons of the year for recreation.

Julian Phillips of Evanston, grandson of the late Rev. Robert W. Patterson, has joined the engineer regiment at Atlanta, Ga., of which Charles W. Dawes is lieutenant colonel. His brother, William D. Phillips, on graduation from the University of Wisconsin, enrolled in the reserve officers' training camp.

Barry B. Stimson, grandson of the late President Bartlett of Dartmouth college and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney of Lake Forest, is a member of the First New York artillery.

John Orb, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Orb of 2061 Michigan avenue, who will Howard Peabody of 2068 Michigan avenue, has been for the last two months at the aviation school at Detroit, Mich., specializing in the study of hydroplanes under the famous De Terville, has been summoned to Washington to assist in military aeronautics. Mr. Orb and Mr. Peabody are just now at the Curtiss School of Aviation at Buffalo, N. Y., from which they will go to Washington.

There will be a tea dansant at the Great Lakes Naval Training station Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, immediately following the maneuvers and mock battle, which begin at 3 o'clock. Mrs. W. A. Moffett, wife of the commandant, announced yesterday. Mrs. Ford Carter is chairman of the committee, with Mrs. Moffett, Mrs. Ira Nash, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. De Koven Bowen, Mrs. Margaret Billings Nichols, and Mrs. J. T. Harahan assisting.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Marguerite Marie Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William John Walsh of 1018 Foster avenue, to Frank Milton Dunsworth.

Miss Lorraine M'Cleary

Miss Lorraine Marie Cleary's engagement to Lieut. Edward A. Roach is announced. Lieut. Roach is at present with his battery at Fort Logan Roch, Little Rock, Ark. The wedding will probably take place this month. Miss Cleary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cleary of Oak Park.

Thrills of War Animate Posters Hung at Institute

BY LOUISE JAMES BARGELT.

PATRIOTISM is writ large on the walls of the print room of the Art Institute, in the stirring American collection of posters, dedicated to national service that opened at the museum yesterday afternoon. There is genuine feeling in all of them, real emotion in a large number and actual inspiration in a chosen few.

There are posters for the army intended primarily to aid enlistment, but contributing in generous measure to the national enthusiasm and interest. And there are posters for the navy and for the marines, for the Red Cross and the Liberty loan, and for the cultivation of the soil and the conservation of food.

Quiet the most spirited of the posters from a standpoint of vigorous action is the navy poster "Captured," by H. Fayetweather Babcock, in which a sailor lad is astride a dread torpedo and bending its every move to his will.

Another stirring poster dedicated to the cause of soil cultivation is the one called "As Mighty as the Sword," in which a man is plowing a hill against a background in which a city looms dim and distant. It is done in dark colors and is very impressive. Gus Stahnke is the artist of this one.

Among those posters dedicated to the Liberty loan the one by Miss Lillian M. Shedd, consisting of the Statue of Liberty done in soft gray blue, is especially effective.

There are a number of emotional posters for the Red Cross. One unforgettable poster in that with the half figure of Christ in a cross, arms outstretched over a battlefield in which a kneeling nurse has the head of a wounded soldier in her lap.

Laura Brey's poster, which won the prize of $500 at the recent army and navy poster contest in May, is hung, and on each side of it are the second and third prizes in the same contest. Another particularly strong army poster by G. H. Bepp is "Enlist"; the single figure of a young soldier boy.

One poster destined for popularity from the very nature of it is called "I wish my daddy had been a soldier back in 1917." Two youngsters are talking together and one of them, in uniform and carrying a flag, is flaunting his glory before the other little boy, who, in overalls, is wistfully wishing that his father had taken part in the fight.

There is no doubt but that this poster exhibit, with its prime intent to keep the public vividly conscious of its profound responsibilities, will incidentally bring the designing of posters to a higher artistic level than they have hitherto held in the world of art.

Army Weddings in East.

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. George Trowbridge Holdster for the wedding on July 14 of their daughter, Miss Katharine A. Holdster, and Lieut. Truman Smith, U. S. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Colgate of 309 West Seventy-sixth street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Florence H. Colgate, to Maj. Edwin St. J. Greble jr., son of Brig. Gen. Edwin St. J. Greble, U. S. A., and Mrs. Greble. Maj. Greble, who is now in the Second Pennsylvania artillery, graduated from West Point in 1909. No arrangements have been made for the wedding.

Rockford "Safe" as Troop Center, Mothers Assured

THE "soldier mothers" of Illinois must have their hearts a little lightened by the report just received at the headquarters of the woman's defense committee concerning conditions at the new concentration camp at Rockford. It seems that this is to be a most wonderful camp.

Miss Jessie Spafford, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, has sent out a letter to club presidents telling them the most encouraging things.

"First," she says, "from a sanitary standpoint, the place is most satisfactory. Next, the town is 'dry' and Rockford never had a 'red light' district and never shall have. All the town is planning to welcome the boys and do all that is possible for their comfort."

A move to induce Evanston women to open their homes as social centers for the young men from the training camp at Fort Sheridan was discussed at a meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. James A. Patten, C. A. Whitehair of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Martha McCook and Miss Louise Holmquist of the Y. W. C. A. were the speakers. The committee in charge of the work includes the following women: Mrs. M. S. Armour, Miss Gertrude Llewellyn, Mrs. Edwin Sherman, Miss Josephine Dole, Mrs. Erwin Rew, Miss Gladys Spry, Mrs. L. T. Wilson, Miss Martha Harris, Mrs. R. L. Scott, and Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler.

The Women's Church federation has sent a letter to one woman in every church in the state urging they take the initiative in registering women for service. The registration card of the woman's committee has at last arrived from Washington and will soon be in the hands of the printer.

The Band Box, that natty little shop on Oak street, is receiving orders now from the Emergency Drivers for the new regulation uniform which they have adopted "to save wear and tear." The uniform consists of a practical suit of navy blue garbardine, short skirt with pockets, and a belted trench coat with four more big pockets. The new badge of the league is worn as a belt buckle, and very nifty it is. A black sailor hat completes the costume.

Making fly swatters for the French soldiers is the way in which the children of the Half Orphans' home are doing their part as members of the Daughters of the Flag, a patriotic organization of young girls. Other groups are at work making magazines, sewing kits, candy, and other things to add to the comfort of the soldiers here.

NOTES OF THE CLUBS

For the encouragement of patriotism, the Chicago Woman's club announced yesterday that in its second poetry contest, to be held in September, only poems of a patriotic character will be acceptable. The poems must be original, must be not less than fourteen nor more than fifty lines, and must have been written in 1917. There will be a first prize of $50 and two prizes of $25. The competition closes Oct. 1.

No poems will be returned unless sufficient stamps are inclosed. Each poem must be signed with a nom de plume and the real name of the writer must be sent along with the contribution in a sealed envelope, the nom de plume being written on the outside of the envelope.

Another patriotic enterprise of the club is the Fourth of July celebration on the municipal pier. At the request of the Americanization committee, the club has arranged a program consisting of community singing, special musical selections by the Liberty band and professional singers, patriotic addresses, flag raising, and Boy Scout drills.

The Brentano Neighborhood association announces a celebration for the Fourth at the playground at Washtenaw and Schubert avenues. H. F. Kling, Mrs. Gordon Wilson, who has just returned from France, and Mrs. Thomas J. Byrne of the woman's council of defense will speak.

More than 600 women are working in the Emergency league organization in five counties of Illinois, according to the latest reports.

I had promised Willie a nickel if he'd run to the store and back in five minutes. He returned in five minutes all out of breath, so not having a nickel in change I handed him a dime. After recovering his breath and taking a second look at the dime he said: "I fink I could make it in twos minutes next time." M. P.

Billy, our little neighbor boy, had just lost his dog that had been his lifelong companion. Billy came over to me, and with his little face turned toward the sky heaved a great sigh and asked:

"O," he breathed, "I'll betcha the angels are having all sorts of fun playing with my dog." M. C.

Apropos of present conditions, a teacher was explaining to her class of young America the wonderful achievements of a certain army general. Wishing to discover how attentive her pupils had been, she called upon several to repeat one or two of the general's qualifications. One little fellow, who appeared particularly interested, was asked what he thought of such a great man and he excitedly answered, "I think he was some guy." A. M. I.

"O, well," he responded, in a confidential tone, "they don't know the difference." M. K.

LOCAL RATES RULE AT 5 1-2 AS MINIMUM

Money conditions at the beginning of the week show only little change. There is an easier feeling in New York. In Chicago the rates rule at 5½ per cent as a minimum for call loans and commercial paper. Most borrowers are obliged to pay 6 per cent, and in securing that rate the banks are making the limit. The legal maximum rate in Illinois is 7 per cent. It does no lending institution much good to secure that charge.

At 5½ per cent the banks can do very well and not cause business interests to feel that they must look for the future, which would mean a hoarding credit.

Studebaker Prospects.

An eastern authority, in discussing the Studebaker corporation, says:

"The situation in Studebaker has developed with such rapidity that it is not surprising that it has only been within the last week or two that Wall street has awakened to the serious decline in earnings which this company is likely to experience in 1917.

"In the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1916, Studebaker showed a splendid volume of profit, equal, in fact, to 26.14 per cent on the $30,000,000 common stock. The 1915 earnings were 27.46 per cent.

May Suspend Dividends.

"The 1917 year promises to show an amount not more than sufficient to cover the 7 per cent dividend on the $10,965,000 preferred and the 10 per cent dividend on the $30,000,000 common. It is now believed that directors of the company will take the bull by the horns and vote the suspension of dividends during the period of readjustment through which the company is passing.

"When the floating debt, which is said to represent not only the inventory, but accounts collectable owed on government contracts, has been reduced, and when earnings are definitely established, it will be time enough to consider the question of dividend resumption.

"Studebaker has, of course, fallen down in its selling organization. The outbreak of the war slowed down its sales very sharply. Since then there has been a material recovery, but the company has a large number of unsold cars on hand. This total of unsold cars is said to be near 12,000, which is six or seven weeks' production."

On the Local Exchange.

Chicago stocks worked considerably lower, in sympathy with New York. Sears-Roebuck common was off 2½ points. Union Carbide declined 1 point. Prest-O-Lite, after a rise fo 2 points, compared with the previous day's close, sold off to the level of Saturday.

ST. PAUL DROPS TO LOWEST POINT IN TWENTY YEARS

Although a gain of $447,882 was made in the net operating income of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway company for the month of May, as compared with May of last year, a decrease of $1,806,379 was shown in the net operating income for the first five months of the year as compared with the same period of last year.

This showing, together with the recent denial by the interstate commerce commission of the petition of the railroads for the 15 per cent advance in freight rates is said to be responsible for the drop in St. Paul common yesterday to 67¾, the lowest point it has reached for about twenty years. It will not be surprising if the semi-annual dividend rate on the stock is decreased at the meeting of the board of directors to be held the last of this month. Following are the figures of the income account for May:

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, July 2.—SUGAR—Prices were quoted by the wholesale dealers per 100 lbs: Powdered, standard, $8.50; standard cane, granulated, $8.10; beet granulated, $8.00; extra C, $7.45; canary, $7.35.

NEW YORK, July 2.—There was no change in raw sugar prices and while trading was again quite active the demand seemed to be for next month shipment, refiners apparently having supplied their immediate requirements. The sales were placed at about 75,000 bags of Cubas for August shipment at 5½c cost and freight, equal to 6.52c for centrifugal, and there were about 35,000 bags of Porto Ricos sold for July shipment at equal to 6.37c for centrifugal. Cubas were offered at 5¼c cost and freight for July shipment without bids taken. The market closed about steady at 5½c for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 6.25c for centrifugal and 5.64c for molasses. In refined sugar prices remains unchanged at 7.50@8.00c for fine granulated, with a pretty fair business reported. Some of the refiners were out of the market, while at the lower level orders were being restricted. Trading in futures was quite heavy and the undertone was unsettled, with the range of prices irregular. At the start prices were a few points above the close of last week on coverings, but the unsettled influences in the spot market led to increased offerings and prices eased off until at one time they showed net losses of 5 to 7 points for the active positions. Toward the close there was a little buying from commission houses and prices rallied, closing 3 points net lower to 2 higher. Sales, 26,650 tons. July sold from 5.47@5.50c, closing 5.48c; September, 5.35@5.40c, closing 5.50c; December, 5.60@5.64, closing 5.37c; March, 4.90c, closing 4.90c.

FINANCIAL NOTES

THE Curtiss Aeroplane company has received orders aggregating $20,000,000. It is expected that within the next few months orders running into $60,000,000 will be received from the allies alone.

The British government is said to have only started its business with the Curtiss company. Great Britain soon will require at least 2,000 completed biplanes and perhaps 2,000 additional motors. The greater part of this business is expected to go to the Curtiss company.

The Wright-Martin company has so far received no British orders. It is thought that orders for aeroplanes will probably carry at least one extra motor for each complete machine. The motor orders alone should run into big figures.

As a result of the general readjustment of the income and excess profits taxes made by the senate finance committee, the revenues to be raised in this way will be lower than the requirement of the government, and arrangements are said to have been made to take care of the additional amount by the floating of a loan.

It is announced that the American Car and Foundry company has taken from the United States government a shell order amounting to $35,000,000. The American Car and Foundry has the heavy machinery and equipment at its Detroit plant to produce such shells. It made 1,000,000 of seven and nine and two-tenth inch shells for the allies.

It is intimated that the American Car and Foundry will be able to pay at least $8.00 a share annually for the next two years. Earnings are declared to be running at the rate of $16.00 a share.

The labor situation in the copper industry is said to be becoming alarming. There is a general belief that the spread of the strikes will eventually force the government to take action.

The first annual report of the Sinclair Oil and Refining corporation covering the operations for the first eleven months of its existence shows a total gross income of $9,468,329 and net income after payment of interest of $8,636,440, of which $2,638,211 was paid in dividends, leaving a balance for depreciation and surplus of $5,998,228. The corporation declared an initial quarterly dividend of $1.25 on June 28, 1916, and has paid a similar dividend quarterly since then.

Cattle receipts of 21,000 head at Chicago yesterday exceeded expectations, and lower prices were made by the bulk of the supply. Prime, fat, heavy beeves made up only a small part of the arrivals, and cleared on a firm basis, topping at $13.80. Less desirable grades, however, were fully 10@15c lower than at the close last week, and some of the poor grass fed steers showed a loss of 25c. Cows and heifers sold lower, with the cheap steers, clearing at a decline of 15@25c from last week's close, and calves suffered a decline of 25c.

Hogs sold 10@20c higher than at the close last week and closed strong at the big end of the advance. Receipts were posted at 35,000 head, which fell far short of expectations. There was a good general demand, with top sales at $15.75, and the bulk at $14.60@15.60.

Sheep and lamb trade was in a badly unsettled condition, with prices mostly 50c lower than at the close last week. Receipts were posted at 17,000 head. Trade was slow, and the supply cleared late, in spite of the decline. Best lambs made $16.50, the low point of the season for market toppers. Ewes topped at $9.75 and yearlings at $12.25 for natives and $14.00 for westerns.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Cotton goods and yarns were quiet and firm today. Some uneasiness was caused by reports of government control of raw material and textile products. Raw silk was higher. Austin Gas Light.

M. P.—The Austin Gas Light company supplies gas to the city of Austin, Tex., serving a population of about 40,000. It has outstanding $194,000 of first mortgage bonds, $252,000 of refunding 6s, and $475,000 of stock. Gross and net earnings have been increasing steadily for some years. In 1916 gross was $136,773; net, after taxes, $63,213; interest, $26,985. Evidently the refunding bonds are well secured.

Doble-Detroit Motors.

A. L. J., Cambridge, Wis.—The prospectus of the Doble-Detroit Motors company sets forth that it has a new steam engine of "almost unbelievable flexibility and power," which is destined to revolutionize the automobile business. The company is selling $10,000,000 of treasury stock to raise money to build and sell the invention. The stock is purely speculative at present and suitable only for people who can afford to risk a loss on the long change of a large profit.

Brief Answers.

A. B. W.—No conservative institution can agree to pay 5 per cent on long time deposits. Some banks in small towns in the west pay 6. As they lend money at 20 per cent, this is possible. However, there is always the possibility that the 6 per cent rate will attract more outside money than can be loaned safely bringing the temptation to make unsafe loans.

M. H.—In view of the present scarcity of railway cars, a condition which is likely to continue for several years, the bonds of the Mid-West Dispatch Car company appear to be well secured, particularly the earlier maturities.

E. McG.—Oil stocks are all speculative, and those you mention look particularly hazardous. You should invest your savings in good bonds.

OIL PRODUCERS URGE PRAIRIE TO RAISE PRICES

"For the first time in the history of crude oil production in this country a general appeal has been made by operators meeting as a body for an advance in the price of production. At a meeting of producers representing the independent operators held in Tulsa a telegram was forwarded to the Prairie Oil and Gas company as the largest purchaser in the midcontinent field to advance the price of crude oil, the telegram citing the continued high cost of labor and materials. Forecast was made that unless something was done the drilling would stop. Materials have advanced crude oil 20 per cent in the midcontinent in the last year."

OPPORTUNITIES AFFORDED INVESTORS BY PUBLIC UTILITY BONDS

A year ago 5% public utility bonds of the better grade were selling at substantial premiums. Today some of these same bonds are to be purchased at prices well below par. The present exceptionally low prices are due almost entirely to the natural readjustment of interest rates as a result of the war, and in no sense, in our judgment, to the impairment of the value of the underlying security.

Send for Special Letter No. 624, describing three high-grade public utility issues to which we would direct your special attention at this time.

Build Up Your Net Income Yield

Thousands of investors who already have purchased Liberty Loan Bonds or own other low rate securities, and find new funds available in July, desire to increase the net yield on their holdings. This may be done by purchasing first mortgage 6% serial bonds, safeguarded under the Straus Plan.

Few investors today are satisfied with 4% or 5%, with the present high cost of living and the war taxes impending. A net return of 6% is a necessity under 1917 conditions, and can be had without any sacrifice of those conservative principles that mean safety.

The sound first mortgage bonds we offer naturally supplement your holdings of Liberty Loan or other low rate bonds because of their safety and their attractive income yield.

Call or write for our July Investment List, describing a widely diversified variety of these sound bonds, netting 6%, and our booklet, "Acid Tests of Investments in War Time." Ask for RAID BY PROFESSIONALS.

New York, July 2.—Trading in today's sensitive market was governed almost entirely by the caprices of professional operators. Sentiment was overwhelmingly bearish, for which the recent freight rate decision was held chiefly responsible.

Idle experienced additional price depreciation, standard shares losing 1 to 3 points, while St. Paul recorded an extreme decline of 6¾ points to 97¾, its minimum quotation for about twenty years.

Elsewhere the list displayed highly erratic tendencies, a few leading industrials rising briskly when others of great prominence were irregular or weak. This was especially true of shipping and recognized war shares. Baldwin and American Locomotives, Crucible Steel, Car, Steel Foundries, and Republic Iron scored gains of 1 to 3 points, while United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Colorado Fuel, and a few associated issues reacted 1 to 2 points.

Alcohol Takes Big Drop.

Sugars, oils, American Sugar, and minor specialties were intermittently active at 1 to 3 points advances, but their movements were overshadowed by the weakness of automobiles and accessories, Chile Gas and Industrial Alcohol, the latter making a decline of 7 points. Trade was unusually quiet, dealings in that group being restricted by labor troubles.

With scarcely an exception, lowest prices were made in the broader selling of the last hour, rails at that period making support, even at concessions. Few gains remained, the market closing with a heavy tone.

Call and time loans were increasingly easy, sixty day accommodations dealing ½ per cent. Commercial paper also evinced a lower trend. Foreign exchange held around last week's rates, except rubles, which fell to the new low record of 21.70. Another small import of British gold was offset by moderate exports to Japan and South America.

Bonds were irregular and nominal as to dealings. Liberty 5½s held firm at par to 100-10. United States coupon and registered 2s gained ½ per cent on call.

Monthly range, bid: Sterling—Sixty day bills, 4.79; commercial sixty day bills on basis, 4.71¾; commercial sixty day bills, 4.71¼; demand, 4.75¾; cables, 4.76 7-16. Francs—Demand, 5.76; cables, 5.75. Guilders—Demand, 41 5-16. Lire—Demand, 7.36; cables, 7.25. Rubles—Demand, 21½; cables, 25. Bar silver, 77½. Mexican dollars, 49. Government bonds firm. Railroad bonds irregular. Time loans weaker; sixty days, 4@4½; ninety days, 4¼@4½; six months, 4½@5.

In Foreign Stock Markets.

PARIS, July 2.—Trading was quiet on the bourse today. Rentes, 60 francs, 25 centimes. Exchange on London, 27 francs, 18 centimes. Five per cent loan, 88 francs 80 centimes.

LONDON, July 2.—The stock exchange was closed because of a holiday.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The cotton market displayed renewed strength early today, opening 5 to 10 points higher. Later the market gained because of the move by the senate to include cotton in the food control bill. July, which is 36.85c and December to 25.51c, making declines of $7.00 to $7.85 per bale from the high level. Closing prices were followed by covering, but were within a point or two of the lowest. Port receipts today, 9,000 bales. United States port stocks, 776,000 bales. Reports still making 5,183,648 bales as the ginning total for this season. Futures:

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 2.—Cotton developed marked weakness today partly because of the high government condition percentage and partly because of the action of the senate in adding cotton to the food control bill. Last prices were 95 to 105 points net. Futures:

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, July 2.—COFFEE—The first day of the new season was a comparatively quiet one in the market for coffee futures, but prices were steady on covering. The market opened at an advance of 1 to 7 points, September sold up to 7.83c and held there during the day, or about 12 to 15 points higher, and the close showed a net gain of 9 to 12 points. Sales, 22,500 bags. July, 7.80c; August, 7.70c; September, 7.83c; October, 7.83c; November, 7.87c; December, 7.91c; January, 7.98c; February, 8.04c; March, 8.06c; April, 8.11c; May, 8.15c. Spot coffee dull. Rio 7s, 9¾c; Santos 4s, 12½c. Offers of Santos 4s were said to remain about 9.40c to 9.75c London cables were up to description. The coffee exchange reported an advance of 75 reis per 10 kilos. Santos spots were unchanged. Futures 50 to 75 reis higher. Brazilian receipts, 36,000 bags, against 35,000 last year. Antwerp receipts, 15,000 bags. Today's receipts, 15,000. Stock, 350,000 bags, against 1,000,000 last year. Rio reported a decrease of 9,000 bags for New York.

ON THE BROAD STREET CURB

NEW YORK, July 2.—[Special.]—There was a lack of substance to the trading on the Broad street curb, which was reflected in stocks of various groups moving in opposite directions at the same time. The oil stocks indicated the general character of the trading. Sinclair Gulf moving up 3 points to 28, while Merritt dropped from 25¾ to 24¾ and Ohio Cities, new stock, sold off from 60 to 55.

There was exceptional reasonable strength in American International Corporation, which ranged from 56¼ to 57¾. Wright-Martin Aircraft ranged during the greater part of the day from 9¼ to 9, and Curtiss Aeroplane sold at 30¾@29.

Air Reduction had a fluctuation of 4 points, selling at 86 and 90. Submarine sold at 32¾ to 33. Marlin Arms reflected a weakening of the recent buying movement and reacted to 67¾.

There was increased pressure against United Motor, which dropped from 37¾ to the new low of 25¾. Chevrolet sold at 100 to 96¾.

Corn futures were strong from start to finish yesterday and closing figures were 1½@2½c higher than previous resting spots. Trade was featured throughout most of the session by the lack of offerings, but around top levels considerable corn came out, the selling of September above $1.80 being particularly liberal. The late offerings were readily absorbed, however, through good local and commission house demand. Buying by Minner was a late feature. Basis for the demand was chiefly the strength displayed by cash corn, although some buying was stimulated by the general backwardness of the crop. Cash corn was 1@3c higher and sold to a new high level of $1.78½.

The seaboard reported some export interest in the market and indications are that shipping will be facilitated by commandeering of additional tonnage. Local shipping sales were 65,000 bu, including 10,000 bu for export. North America shipped 611,000 bu last week, against 321,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply decreased 200,000 bu for the week. Primary receipts for the day totaled 1,070,000 bu.

Seaboard Houses Buy Oats.

Oats were strong and active, showing gains of 1@1½c for July and of ½@¾c for deferred months. Houses with seaboard connections were liberal buyers of July oats and there was further export interest in the market. Commission houses in general were on the buying side, part of this demand being in way of covering shorts, while some of it was of an investment character. Bullish factors were the strength in the cash oats market and crop complaints from the southwest. Snow's report says that oats in Texas, Kansas, and Oklahoma show heavy losses in promise, but with conditions bright in other states the prospect has improved.

Cash oats were 1@1½c higher, with local shipping sales 80,000 bu, including 50,000 bu for export. Clearances for the day were 721,000 bu. Outside points reported stiff bids for cash oats. The visible supply decreased 1,736,000 bu for the week. North America shipped 4,268,000 bu last week, against 5,507,000 bu a year ago. Primary receipts for the day were 957,000 bu.

Little Trading in Wheat.

Trade in wheat was light with price action irregular. Resting spots showed July 1c lower and September 2½c higher. Weather conditions were favorable for growing wheat as well as for harvest work in the southwest, while crop advices were generally good. Snow estimates winter wheat crop at 460,000,000 bu and spring at 250,000,000 bu. Oklahoma state report places yield at 27,000,000 bu, about the same as last year, with 85 per cent harvested. Clearances for the day were 1,351,000 bu. Primary receipts totaled 558,000 bu. North America shipped 7,068,000 bu wheat last week, against 9,652,000 bu a year ago. Australia contributed 1,760,000 bu and India 960,000 bu to world's shipments of 12,145,000 bu.

Provisions were sharply higher, with packing interests and shorts buying. Offerings were limited and some improvement in cash trade was reported. Deliveries on July contracts were large, but taken by strong people. Hog prices at the yards were sharply higher and receipts at western markets totaled 39,000 head, against 22,770 a year ago. Imports of lard last week totaled 1,093,000 lbs, against 12,838,000 lbs a year ago, while bacon exports were 6,481,800 lbs, against 18,040,000 lbs last year.

Rye in Good Demand.

Rye was firm. Part car No. 2 sold at $2.30 and $2.40 was bid for another part car; part car of No. 4 sold at $2.20. Receipts were 2 cars.

Barley ruled 5c higher for feed grades and firm for others. Malting was quoted $1.20@1.45 and sold $1.15@1.23; feed and mixing quotable $1.15@1.25, with sales over the same range; screenings were quoted 90c@$1.00 and sold 49@95c. Receipts, 19 cars.

Timothy was easy. September closed $8.53½ bid and $8.65 asked; cash lots sold $8.25@8.75. Clovers was quiet and quotable $12.00@17.00 for cash lots and $18.00 nominal for spot prime.

Flaxseed closed unchanged with cash quoted $2.81½@2.87½. Minneapolis was steady. No session was held at Duluth and Winnipeg.

GOSSIP OF THE BOARD OF TRADE

The demand for cash corn was undiminished yesterday and prices for No. 3 grades were bid up to $1.78½, the highest prices so far on the crop, with light offerings at the advance. Country sales are small and until harvest the movement from the farms is expected to be light. Farmers generally are not selling, the disposition being to hold remaining stocks until the new crop is further along. High cash prices prevail at all points, and exporters were again in the market here for corn. In the west stocks are not increasing, in spite of big receipts. Both Kansas City and Omaha have small stocks. Local sales were 65,000, including 10,000 bu to exporters.

Snow's report on crops for July makes the acreage of corn 118,911,000 acres, or an increase of 12.8 per cent. The average condition was 82.3 and the indicated crop 3,139,000,000 bu. The crop in Texas has been hurt irreparably by drought conditions and is beginning to suffer in Oklahoma and Kansas. The season averages about two weeks late. The stand nearly everywhere is good, however, and the fields are clean. The winter wheat crop is estimated at 460,000,000 bu. The spring wheat condition is 83.5, against 92.7 a month ago, the decline being mainly in North Dakota and Minnesota. On government acreage the crop of spring wheat indicated is about 278,000,000 bu. The oats condition is placed at 88, with Texas, Kansas, and Oklahoma showing heavy loss in promise, but with conditions bright in other sections. The crop of oats indicated is 1,485,000,000 bu, as a minimum estimate.

While weather conditions in the southwest were a little more favorable, the further advance in cash prices checked selling and increased the bullish sentiment. Prices showed fair advances, the September going up faster than the December, as the near month was affected more by the cash prices. July was firm and was within 5c of the maximum price. Local bulls were aggressive and there was further accumulation of corn futures by commission houses. Profit taking was on a liberal scale on the advances, but closing prices held above $1.80 for the September and over $1.10 for the December.

Exporters were in the market for oats again yesterday and some business was reported at the seaboard in both corn and oats. Standard oats in store were 4c over July bid. Cash prices for oats were 1@1½c higher. Cash sales were 80,000 bu.

Visible supply of wheat in the United States this week decreased 1,459,000 bu, while corn decreased 200,000 bu, oats decreased 1,736,000 bu, rye decreased 243,000 bu, and barley increased 243,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	This wk.	Last wk.	Last year.
Wheat	14,209,000	15,668,000	48,891,000
Corn	3,277,000	3,543,000	6,870,000
Oat	9,741,000	11,477,000	12,483,000
Rye	518,000	861,000	482,000
Barley	1,758,000	1,417,000	1,990,000

Local stocks of grain are 302,000 bu wheat, 346,000 bu corn, and 1,511,000 bu oats. A year ago stocks were 6,220,000 bu wheat, 2,147,000 bu corn, and 4,948,000 bu oats. The total visible supply of wheat is now less than one-third as much as a year ago, corn about half as much, and oats about 3,000,000 bu less than a year ago.

World's shipments of wheat last week totaled 11,143,000 bu, an increase of 190,000 bu, and compared with shipments of 12,713,000 bu a year ago. Corn exports were 2,349,000 bu, increasing 1,037,000 bu, and comparing with 3,541,000 bu a year ago. Oats exports totaled 4,691,000 bu, an increase of 1,897,000 bu, and compared with 6,877,000 bu a year ago.

Oklahoma state report for July, as wired by King of Toledo, makes the wheat crop 27,000,000 bu, or about the same as last year. Oats crop is about 24,000,000 bu. About 85 per cent of the wheat has been harvested. The government June estimate of the wheat crop was 31,000,000 bu and oats 26,000,000 bu.

Argentine reports indicate fine weather with a larger movement from the interior. Arrivals at ports are increasing. The spot situation is depressed. Corn firm, with arrivals of inferior quality and unfit for shipment. Shipments have been liberal, but at expense of stocks that had been stored privately.

Minneapolis wired: "There is not much snap to the cash wheat demand. The few mills now running will shut down tonight on account of the holiday. No. 1 northern is selling 10@20c over the July."

Receipts inspected yesterday: Wheat, 53 cars; corn, 204 cars; oats, 229 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 19 cars. Hogs estimated for today, 13,000 head.

Deliveries of lard yesterday were 2,550,000 lbs of lard, 1,650,000 lbs ribs, and 5,000 bris pork.

SITES BOUGHT FOR TWO NEW PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Wellington and Lamon Corner and Richmond Street Land.

Real Estate Transfers

Real estate transfers filed for record yesterday totaled 31, of which 30 were in the city and 21 outside, including 7 under the Torrens system. Transfers were as follows:

Lake View	3	Cicero	4
Jefferson	3	Lyons	3
North town	5	New Trier	1
South town	4	Northfield	1
Hyde Park	3	Palos	2
Lake	13	Proviso	5
Calumet [city]	2	Ridgeville	1
West town	10	Riverside	1
Barrington	1	Worth	2

Sites for two public schools have just been acquired by the board of education. Thirty-four lots at the northeast corner of Wellington and Lamon avenues have been purchased from George C. Hield, the consideration being nominal. A lot on Richmond street, 165 feet north of Belmont avenue, east front, 24x125, has been bought from Albert Bernhard for $4,253, and another lot, 58x125 feet, fifty-nine feet farther north, has been purchased from Caroline Schmidtke for $4,763.

A school containing twenty-four or thirty-two rooms is to be built at Wellington and Lamon avenues and another on Richmond street if present plans are carried out. It is probable that the schools will not be finished before May, 1918.

The new building at the southwest corner of Melrose and Broadway has been transferred by Milton S. Plotke to Samuel Phillipson for $65,000, with an incumbrance of $35,000. As part payment Mr. Phillipson conveyed to Mr. Plotke the two story business property at 4016-18 West Twelfth street for $25,000 and vacant on Ogden avenue, west front, between Taylor and Polk streets, for $5,000. Plotke & Grosby and Herman L. Cohen were the brokers.

Buys Flat Building.

B. P. Van Housen has purchased from Frank Posbic the new twelve flat building at the southwest corner of Belden avenue and Dayton street, on a lot 50 by 115 feet, for $43,500, with an incumbrance of $25,000. The rental is $6,000. Mr. Van Housen was represented by I. Springer and Mr. Posbic by Barnett Brothers.

A six flat building at 5414 Kimbark avenue has been sold by Mrs. Sadie MacMurray to Frank Logan for $26,000, incumbrance $12,000. The lot is 50 by 165 feet. S. S. Berry represented both parties.

A deed of record has been filed for the ten flat building at the northeast corner of La Verne and West End avenues, 60 by 126 feet, the transfer being from George D. Holton to Edward Kahn. The incumbrance is $19,000. Property valued at $20,000 was given in exchange by Mr. Kahn and his wife.

Will Fight Extension.

The Clarendon Avenue Extension association is preparing to fight the proposed extension of Clarendon avenue from Lakeside place to Lawrence avenue. It will be necessary to condemn a right of way through a block of property to make the extension. The board of local improvements has decided to go on with the work.

Robert S. Hotz has given a trust deed for $110,000 for two years at 5½ per cent. The property is on Clinton street, 110 feet south of Madison street, east front, 79 by 79 feet. The Hibernian Banking association is trustee.

An irregular tract at the southwest corner of Malden street and Lawrence avenue has been transferred by Edward P. Lundstrom to Leo W. Hoffman. The tract is 845 by 99 by 69 by 157 feet.

The Monadnock trust has been formed by Russell Tyson of Chicago, Gorham Brooks of Medford, Mass., and Richard M. Saltonstall of Newton, Mass., for the purpose of acquiring title to or leasehold interest in property under the Monadnock building. The property has a frontage of 67 feet on Jackson and Van Buren and 209 feet on Dearborn and Federal streets.

The Catholic bishop of Chicago has acquired from Charles Lyndl the property on Throop street 275 feet south of West Ninety-eighth street, west front, 65 by 130 feet.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE

Gogorza sings a famous Italian boating song

"Santa Lucia" has always been a prime favorite with lovers of song the world over. It is a charming folk-lyric, born among the fishermen of Naples and sung by Venetian gondoliers—a bit of the warm heart of romantic Italy.

Gogorza's sterling vocalism—he is one of the world's foremost baritones—and his abounding vigor render his "Santa Lucia," just recorded for the Victor, a veritable jewel of the singer's art. It is to be classed among those Victor Records for which you have a positive affection—which you play again and again with increasing pleasure.
